U.S. CHARGES SPYING

Two Soviet U.N. Diplomats Given Orders To Leave

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union protested to the United States Saturday that federal agents had illegally arrested, manhandled and questioned two Soviets U. N. diplomats. But the United States charged the two with spying and demanded that they leave the country immediately.

The diplomats were Evgeni M. Prokhorov, 31, a second secretary in the Soviet permanent mission to the United Nations, and Ivan Y. Vyrodov, 38, a third secretary there.

BOUGHT SECRETS

The United States alleged that they had bought secret American defense documents from a U.S. sailor who was arrested Friday night in Westchester County, N.Y.

The Soviet protest was made in a note from the Soviet mission to the U.S. mission. A Soviet spokesman said it was delivered at 1:15 a.m.

He made it public after the U.S. mission released a note to the Soviet mission asking that the two diplomats be sent home. A U.S. spokesman said that note was delivered to the Soviet delegation at 4:05 p.m.

The Soviet note said agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, made a provocative action against the two diplomats in Larchmont, N.Y., and illegally and without any reason seized the Soviet diplomats.

The two told the FBI men they had diplomatic immunity from arrest, it said, but despite this the agents illegally arrested them, used physical measures in doing so and put handcuffs on Vyrodov.

Fire Rages Inside Old City Building

Monroe's First Office Structure Damaged Heavily

By SARAH LITTLE World Staff Writer

Monroe's oldest office building — the Heninger Building — was extensively damaged when a raging fire almost gutted the third floor and damaged the second and fourth floors of the building Saturday.

Five trucks from the Monroe Fire Department battled the blaze for about an hour and a half before bringing it under control. The flames were noticed by West Monroe Fire Chief E. C. Taylor's son, who was driving down South Grand in front of the building and turned in the alarm.

The old building, located at Grammont and South Grand Streets, was vacant and is presently owned by a Monroe businessman, L. M. Ray.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined late Saturday night, but the flames gutted the third floor of the four-story structure, and left parts of the second and fourth floor damaged.

The Heninger Building, first office building in the Twin Cities, was constructed in 1906 and was the original Central Savings Bank. It was built by J. Y Covington at a cost of $160,000 in 1906 and later bought by S. K. Heninger.

Court Rules 2nd Official In Contempt

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals declared Mississippi Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson in contempt of court Saturday for his part in blocking Negro James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi.

The three-judge panel of the court ordered Johnson fined $5,000 a day unless he shows by 11 a.m. Tuesday that he intends to cooperate with court orders prohibiting interference with Meredith's enrollment.

CONVICTED BARNETT

The same court, with eight judges sitting in, convicted Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett of contempt Friday for stopping Meredith. It ordered him fined $10,000 a day and taken into custody if he fails to purge himself of contempt by 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The court did not order Johnson taken into custody—under the present circumstances—even if he fails to purge himself.

But it did say that if Johnson acts in place of the governor in violation of court orders he would be committed to custody of the U. S. attorney general, and his fine would be increased to $10,000 a day.

Neither Johnson nor Barnett appeared at their show-cause hearing.

The brief hearing in advance of the ruling was almost a replay of the legal maneuvering in the same courtroom involving Barnett.

John Doar of the Justice Department told the three-judge panel that Johnson is clearly in contempt for stopping Meredith, 29, and federal marshals at the Ole Miss gates last Wednesday.

But he asked only for a fine against Johnson, saying a jail sentence would serve no purpose because Johnson's moves were more or less done in behalf of the governor.

The Justice Department suggested the same deadline for Johnson to purge himself as Barnett received Friday.

Meredith's attorneys, appearing at the hearing along with the Justice Department attorneys to press the action against Johnson, urged a quicker deadline—as they did in the case of Barnett, too.

Mississippi Guard Units Federalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy placed the Mississippi National Guard under federal control early Sunday to provide whatever enforcement measures are necessary to carry out desegregation at the University of Mississippi.

The President signed a proclamation ordering an end to resistance, then an executive order which federalized the state's own Guard units and authorized the Secretary of Defense to take any other measures he deemed necessary to carry out the court order.

BROAD POWERS

These include the power to send in regular troops.

Acting White House Press Secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said, "At the present time it is not contemplated that any additional units will be needed."

Elements of an airborne federal military police unit flew into Memphis, Tenn., early Sunday as part of an Army buildup for possible use in the integration crisis.

President Kennedy also announced he will make a nationwide television-radio talk at 6:30 p.m. (EST) Sunday to explain steps being taken in the rapidly developing crisis.

The White House said the President was in touch with Gov. Ross Barnett three times Saturday in an effort to get the governor's assurances that "law and order could or would be maintained" at the university.

When the assurances were not forthcoming, Kennedy signed the official documents and sent telegrams to Barnett incorporating the proclamation and executive order.

The proclamation said the governor of Mississippi, certain law enforcement officers and other officials of the state are "wilfully opposing and obstructing the enforcement of orders" by federal courts.

The courts have ordered the U.S. Backs Defense Pact In Caribbean

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided to throw strong support behind Latin American moves for creation of a Caribbean defense organization to reinforce military protections against growing Communist power in Cuba.

Formation of a new defense pact, probably embracing 10 nations, is expected to be the central issue up for discussion in the meeting here Tuesday and Wednesday of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States. U. S. officials said all 20 countries now active in the OAS — Cuba is an outcast — will be represented.

Administration authorities are reported encouraged by soundings on the Caribbean defense pact concept made in New York this week by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk is said to have found widespread intrest in new steps to deal with the continuing build-up of Soviet military might in Cuba in support of Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Latin American foreign ministers are reportedly impressed and concerned by Castro's rapidly expanding ability to make serious trouble in neighboring countries by shipping out Communist agents and arms for subversive attack on anti-Communist governments.

OLE MISS CRISIS

Federal Troops Ordered South

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department Saturday night ordered the Army to assemble a force of troops at the Memphis, Tenn., Naval Air Station for use in the event it become necessary.

The brief announcement said the Army had received the order at 10 p.m. and "immediately initiated movement of designated units."

The Pentagon did not identify the units, nor the size or makeup of the force. It also did not say where the Army troops were being drawn from.

SOME AIRBORNE

However, informed sources said contingents of military police were airborne to Tennessee.

It is known that the planning, which has been going on between the Pentagon and the Justice Departmet for several days, has contemplated the use of about 500 military policemen and about 1,000 infantrymen.

The assembling of troops at Memphis would put them in position to move the 87 miles to Oxford, Miss., in relatively short order. Oxford is the site of the University of Mississippi. Gov. Ross Barnett has defied court orders to admit Negro James H. Meredith.

The Justice Department has been mustering several hundred federal marshals from various parts of the country and it is believed these will be used before any federal troops.

The Pentagon statement:

"The Defense Department at 10 p.m. tonight ordered the Army to assemble a force of active Army units at the Memphis Naval Air Station prepared to enforce federal court orders in Mississippi in the event it becomes necessary to use federal troops for that purpose.

Dredge Arrives At Vidalia To Begin Operation

VIDALIA (Special) — The U. S. Army corps of engineers hydrolic dredge, Nelson, arrived Saturday morning at the scene of the sunken chlorine barge in the Mississippi River near here and Natchez and will begin removing the sand covering the tanks of deadly gas.

Proposals by six commercial salvage firms have been narrowed considerably and the corps of engineers should be able to make a selection shortly, according to Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer.

Davis Keeps 'Hands Off' At Ole Miss

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis adopted a hands-off policy toward Mississippi, he said Saturday, after Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett told him there was nothing he could do.

"No one wants violence and the people of Mississippi want to handle this (the University of Mississippi integration crisis) in a legal manner," Davis said.

GETS DEMANDS

Davis' prepared statement was in response to demands from various quarters that he declare himself with regard to the threat of the use of federal troops in Mississippi to force the integration of the university.

Davis said he has one of his top aides in Oxford, Miss., site of the university, "who is advising me regarding this situation and I will continue to receive reports from him."

As to Louisiana, Davis said that segregationists who have suggested that educational integration be rolled back, "are 12 years late."

He explained that Louisiana faced Mississippi's problem in 1950 "when the first Negro entered the gates of LSU by virtue of a court order."

Today's Chuckle

The little boy approached his father who was standing on the edge of a cliff admiring the scenery. "Mama says it isn't safe here," he said, "and you're either to come away or else give me the picnic basket."

SCHIRRA PRIMED TO GO

6-Orbit Goals Outlined

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Handsome, easy - going Walter M. Schirra Jr., primed by months of preparation, is scheduled to rocket six times around the world in 9 hours 11 minutes next Wednesday to broaden men's knowledge of space travel.

The six - orbit mission will be the most severe test yet for an American space pilot, nearly doubling the time spent aloft by astronauts John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter.

The flight, which had not figured in Project Mercury plans until a few months ago, will be a stepping stone to the United States' next man-in-space adventure, an 18-orbit, 24-hour journey scheduled next year. Both flights will be milestones on the path to the moon.

Schirra's primary job will be to determine what must be done to the Mercuy capsule to make it capable of the 24-hour flight.

How well he can conserve fuel, coolant water and electrical power will be the items under closest scrutiny as the 39-year-old Navy commander races around the world, more than 100 miles high, at 17,500 miles an hour.

To reduce consumption of these vital ingredients, Schirra is to spend long periods in drifting flight. In this cruise mode, all power and control systems will be shut off and the capsule will move freely on its roll, pitch and yaw axes. Instead of riding upright as he will under controlled flight, Schirra will rotate slowly, making about one revolution every 30 minutes—thus flying head-down at times.

Schirra, a native of Hackensack, N. J., has as his backup pilot, Air Force Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr.

He is scheduled to blast off between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. Wednesday. If the Atlas booster rocket does its job, Schirra and his "Sigma 7" capsule will follow the space trail blazed by Alan B. Shepard Jr.; Virgil I. Grissom, Glenn and Carpenter and the four orbiting Russian cosmonauts: Yuri Gagrin (one orbit), Gherman Titov (17), Andrian Nikolayev (64) and Pavel Popovich (48).

Shcirra's flight will not match the achievements of Titov or the tandem flight last August of Nikolayev and Popovich, all boosted by superior Russian rocket power. It will be at least 18 months, when the two-man Gemini spacecraft and its Titan 2 booster are ready, before the United States will be able to surpass present Soviet feats.

The Mercury spacecraft carries 55 to 57 pounds of hydrogen peroxide — about 24 pounds in the manual control system tank and about 32 in the automatic system. The hydrogen peroxide is used to fire small jets located on the surface of the capsule. These jets keep the capsule aligned properly with the earth.

Eight to 10 pounds of fuel is about all that is required to fly the basic six - orbit mission if all goes right. That leaves about 80 per cent of the supply for the pilot to use as desired — to turn the capsule to take pictures or make observations or to try out various control systems.

Schirra's program calls for him

SCHIRRA PRIMED TO GO

6-Orbit Goals Outlined

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Handsome, easy - going Walter M. Schirra Jr., primed by months of preparation, is scheduled to rocket six times around the world in 9 hours 11 minutes next Wednesday to broaden men's knowledge of space travel.

The six - orbit mission will be the most severe test yet for an American space pilot, nearly doubling the time spent aloft by astronauts John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter.

The flight, which had not figured in Project Mercury plans until a few months ago, will be a stepping stone to the United States' next man-in-space adventure, an 18-orbit, 24-hour journey scheduled next year. Both flights will be milestones on the path to the moon.

Schirra's primary job will be to determine what must be done to the Mercuy capsule to make it capable of the 24-hour flight.

How well he can conserve fuel, coolant water and electrical power will be the items under closest scrutiny as the 39-year-old Navy commander races around the world, more than 100 miles high, at 17,500 miles an hour.

To reduce consumption of these vital ingredients, Schirra is to spend long periods in drifting flight. In this cruise mode, all power and control systems will be shut off and the capsule will move freely on its roll, pitch and yaw axes. Instead of riding upright as he will under controlled flight, Schirra will rotate slowly, making about one revolution every 30 minutes—thus flying head-down at times.

Schirra, a native of Hackensack, N. J., has as his backup pilot, Air Force Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr.

He is scheduled to blast off between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. Wednesday. If the Atlas booster rocket does its job, Schirra and his "Sigma 7" capsule will follow the space trail blazed by Alan B. Shepard Jr.; Virgil I. Grissom, Glenn and Carpenter and the four orbiting Russian cosmonauts: Yuri Gagrin (one orbit), Gherman Titov (17), Andrian Nikolayev (64) and Pavel Popovich (48).

Shcirra's flight will not match the achievements of Titov or the tandem flight last August of Nikolayev and Popovich, all boosted by superior Russian rocket power. It will be at least 18 months, when the two-man Gemini spacecraft and its Titan 2 booster are ready, before the United States will be able to surpass present Soviet feats.

The Mercury spacecraft carries 55 to 57 pounds of hydrogen peroxide — about 24 pounds in the manual control system tank and about 32 in the automatic system. The hydrogen peroxide is used to fire small jets located on the surface of the capsule. These jets keep the capsule aligned properly with the earth.

Eight to 10 pounds of fuel is about all that is required to fly the basic six - orbit mission if all goes right. That leaves about 80 per cent of the supply for the pilot to use as desired — to turn the capsule to take pictures or make observations or to try out various control systems.

Schirra's program calls for him

Cloudy Today Is Forecast

The weatherman has changed his happy mind about today's forecast and has decided it's not going to be quite as nice as he at first predicted.

The outlook today is for increasing cloudiness with warmer temperatures and scattered showers by tonight. The high today is expected to range from 80 to 85.

The showers — if they come — will drop the mercury through and the low tonight will be from 60 to 65 with cooler daytime readings slated Monday.

Saturday's high in the Twin Cities was 83 with the low recorded at 48.

DOWNTOWN GROUP

Appreciation Days Set By Merchants

The Greater Monroe Downtown Association will stage Customer Appreciation Days, one of the organization's biggest events of the year, Monday and Tuesday, Fred Beckett, president of the association announced Saturday.

"We have been planning this for several months," said Beckett and Jack Masur, vice president of the organization. "This was one of our special events during the past year which was extremely successful.

"We anticipate that this year's event will be even better and that it will be our biggest event of the year as far as customer values are concerned," the two officials said.

Beckett pointed out that "merchants have gone all out for this event and that the merchandise is fresh, new fall and winter styles."

"There is merchandise for the whole family —from the infant to the grandparents," he said.

An entire advertising section of today's Monroe Morning World is devoted to the event. In it, you will find full information on the two - day event, including the many bargains that will be found at various stores.

"This is just our way of showing our appreciation for the folks who visit us," Beckett said.

Louisiana Group Goes To Ole Miss For Look

Monroe Man Accompanies Former Solon

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—A Louisiana segregation leader said Saturday he has offered the services of as many as 10,000 sympathetic Louisianians to be enlisted in Mississippi's forces resisting a court order to enroll a Negro in the University of Mississippi.

But, W. M. Rainach, the Louisiana former state senator and present Citizens Council official, said Gov. Ross Barnett had decided not to invite the Louisianians.

Rainach said he came to Mississippi "to survey the situation," accompanied by L. P. Davis Jr. of New Orleans and L. A. West of Monroe.

Rainach told newsmen on the university campus the governor had left the way open for such persons to come voluntarily, but that under the circumstances he doubted that any sizeable group will come.

Rainach said he conferred with Barnett in Jackson Friday.

Reading a hand-written statement, Rainach said he had been "visited by and received communications from individuals and groups anxious to organize a voluntary peace march to Oxford to join in the defense of Gov. Ross Barnett and the state of Mississippi."

He said that the indications were that some 10,000 persons would take part if what he termed "a proper call" were issued.

He said they told Barnett thousands of Louisianians wanted to come to the neighboring state and join in the defense "provided they were given enlisted status in the forces of Mississippi and given proper command."

However, Rainach said, the governor and the Mississippi Public Safety Director T. B. Birdsong both advised the Louisianians that they would not issue an invitation to Louisiana troops because they felt so large a group might create difficulties in direction and "might prove disruptive" to the Mississippi officials' own plans.

But Rainach said Barnett "would not tell them not to come."

Asked whether the group he had in mind would be armed, Rainach said: "If they were under the command of the governor of Mississippi they would do whatever the governor told them."

As reporters pressed in with more questions as to what a Louisiana volunteer group might do, what Rainach's own plans were, and what he would tell the interested persons in Louisiana, one of Rainach's companions advised him to say nothing else, and the party drove away without saying where they were going.

They held their outdoor news conference on the completely peaceful and largely deserted university campus. Nearly all the Mississippi peace officers who have been intermittently guarding campus buildings apparently left. And students, with no Saturday classes, were either in dormitories or had gone to Jackson, where Ole Miss has a football game with Kentucky scheduled tonight.

A Leader Teaches His Scouts

EAGLE TO PROFESSION

Rites Point Up Much Of Scoutings Purpose

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles on the 1 agencies which participate in the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund. Today's article is about the Boy Scouts.)

By JACQUELYN BIEGENWALD

A ceremony was held not so long ago out in the pine woods of West Monroe, a ceremony which was on the surface very like countless other rites there at the hub of local Scouting, Camp Kiroli.

But, for those "in the know," there was something with just a bit more meaning about this particular occasion. Five current Eagle Scouts of Troop 32 received their awards, presented to them by five local men, all former members of the same troop, and all holding places of responsibility in the community which had made Scouting available to them many years before.

One of the adults was an engineer, another holds a PhD, another was an official with the state highway department, one serves the community as a deputy sheriff, and another is a M.D.

These are the kinds of men that Scouting makes. From the eight-year-old "Cub" to his 17-year-old brother "Explorer," Scouting helps each boy to fulfill his own capabilities as an individual and as a citizen.

The Central District (Ouachita Parish) of the Ouachita Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America provides today for 13 Cub Packs for boys 8, 9 and 10 years of age, for 38 Scout Troops for the boys who are 11, 12, and 13 years old, and 3 Explorer Posts for the boys 14 through 17 years of age. The combined total of boys is 1251, with 484 registered leaders.

Although one of the two groups chartered by the Congress of the United States, the Boy Scouts of America receive no government funds and are under no federal control. All work is done by a large staff, professional and volunteer.

Recent figures show that there are 3,813,227 boys in Scouting, and 1,397,067 adults, all but 3,623 of which are volunteers.

That is approximately one adult for every three boys, which is one of the outstanding reasons for the success of Scouting. Because a majority of these volunteers are mothers and business men, their work is done "after hours" as Den Mothers, Scout leaders, fund raisers, and men training others to lead.

To the question, "Well, just exactly what does Scouting do?", The answer given by scouters is this. The purpose of the Boy Scouts of America is to "promote, through organization and cooperation with other agencies, the ability of boys to do things for themselves and others, to train them in Scoutcraft and to teach them patriotism, courage, self-reliance and kindred virtues, using methods which are now in common use by Boy Scouts, by placing emphasis upon the Scout Promise and Law for character development, citizenship training, and physical fitness."

"Scouting puts a particular emphasis on a boy's religious development, many churches having special awards which they give in recognition to the boy making merited growth in service or knowledge of his faith."

Although many churches in this area sponsor a Cub Scout Pack or Boy Scout Troop, there is no unit which is closed to members of another faith. A troop is currently in the process of being organized at one church. When an official of the congregation was first approached about the possibility of his group sponsoring a troop, his immediate answer was, "We are all for it. The only stipulation is that the troop be open to all boys, of all faiths."

Nothing can better explain Scouting, though, than the short oath pledged by each Scout at every meeting:

On my honor I will do my best
To do my duty to God and my country
And to obey the Scout Law;
To help other people at all times;
To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

Only Canada Tops U.S. In Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment has been running higher in the United States than in any other industrial nation of the free world except Canada, a panel of economists reported to President Kennedy Saturday.

The finding was the most surprising in a book-length report issued by the presidential committee named 10 months ago to judge the reliability and usefulness of the government's monthly statistics on employment.

The six-man team of professionals, including labor and industry economists, rejected emphatically the charges heard from time to time that the job reports understate or overstate unemployment significantly or are distorted for political purposes. However, the committee recommended many revisions and addition to the job data.

"After careful investigation, the committee has unanimously and categorically concluded that doubt concerning the scientific objectivity of the agencies responsible for collecting, processing and publishing employment statistics is unwarranted," the report said.

It confirmed also the basic accuracy of studies showing that U. S. unemployment for years has been higher than that of her major free world partners. The difference usually has been explained away on the ground that different yardsticks are used for unemployment abroad.

This comforting theory was demolished by the report. Reduced to the terms used here, the composite unemployment rate of seven foreign countries in 1960 averaged only 2.1 per cent of the labor force. The rate here was 5.6 per cent.

The rates were 7 per cent for Canada, 1.9 per cent for France, 1 per cent for West Germany, 2.4 per cent for Britain, 4.3 per cent for Italy, 1.1 per cent for Japan, and 1.5 per cent for Sweden.

Senate Debates Ole Miss Case; Walker Assailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Army Gen. Edwin A. Walker gives the impression that he is apparently willing to lead an armed contingent of people against the American flag, Sen. Wayne Morse told the Senate Saturday.

The Oregon Democrat's statement came as a new debate swirled through the Senate on the government' efforts to enroll James H. Meredith, a Negro, in the all-white University of Mississippi.

Morse read a news story reporting that Walker said he would go to Misissippi to support Gov. Ross Barnett and other state officials who are blocking Meredith's admission to Ole Miss.

Morse said "Thee is no room for any action that takes on the color of rebellion.

"Such Fascist-minded ex-generals as Mr. Walker must be held to an accounting for such subversive activities against democracy. People who seek to lead any contingent into rebellion against the United States will have to be dealth with, with whatever forces are necessary to maintain government by law in this country."

Cotton Burns At Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) — Fire in boxcars on a rail siding at the Federal Compress here Friday and Saturday caused an estimated $14,000 in damage to 166 bales of cotton.

The cotton had been shipped from the Newellton and Quimby areas for storing at the compress.

The first boxcar fire occurred around 4 p.m. Friday in a shipment of 84 bales from the Quimby area. The smoldering cotton was dumped from the car near Grant Street, and the car was taken away for repairs.

The second fire, involving 82 bales from the Newellton area occurred around 8 a.m. Saturday. Firemen fought the blaze, but the cotton still was smoldering around noon Saturday.

The estimate of loss was made by a compress official. Cause of the blazes Saturday still was undetermined.

Nevada Nuclear Test Conducted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A low yield nuclear test was conducted underground Saturday in Nevada, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

The blast is the 52nd to be announced at the AEC's tet site in the Nevada desert in a series dating back to Sept. 15, 1961. A low yield blast has a blast equivalent less than that of 20,000 tons of TNT.

In the past fiscal year, he said, $103,140 was advanced for the development of family farms and the improvement of rural housing in the three parishes.

During the past quarter century, the Farmers Home Administration and its predecessor agencies have loaned more than $5,460,555 in Caldwell, Ouachita and Winn Parishes for operating type loans. Of this amount more than $4,684,484 has been repaid.

The pilot graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and has combat flying time over Europe and Korea. He flew 100 support missions during the Berlin airlift. He, his wife, the former Jean Carter of Monroe, and their three children will make their home here after retirement.

ALL-OUT WAR UNLIKELY

Large India, China Battle May Flare

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The struggle between India and Communist China for their borderlands soon may explode from the present skirmishing into a real battle.

But even with fighting on a larger scale, there is little prospect of all-out war between the world's two most populous nations.

Neither is there any prospect of settlement of the dispute over 51,000 square miles of rugged, partly uninhabited terrain.

The battle could develop out of the shooting that began last Thursday at the Che-Jao Bridge in a two-mile-high valley of the eastern Himalayas.

India accused the Chinese of crossing the Tibetan border and attacking a military outpost.

China, which claims 36,000 square miles of jungled southern slopes of the Himalayas that India controls, charged that Indian troops had attacked in Chinese territory.

This disputed area in the northeast had been quiet for three years while attention was focused on the northwestern part of the border in the bleak mountains of Ladakh.

The Chinese have seized control of 12,000 out of some 15,000 square miles they claim there.

In Ladakh, India has been content merely to check further Chinese encroachments, a process that has led to four officially reported clashes there since July.

But there has been no effort to eject the Chinese from Ladakh.

When the Chinese came across the northeastern border two weeks ago, however, the Indian government decided to use force to throw them out.

Reinforcements were rushed up rain-soaked jungle tracks to the trouble spot just east of Bhutan, a little Himalayan kingdom.

Skirmishing at Che-Jao apparently began before the Indian army was ready to launch an offensive to push the Chinese back two miles into Tibet. When the time finally comes to carry out an order to oust the Chinese, the skirmishing that started last Thursday will provide convenient cover for larger Indian operations.

There is recognition here that a sizable battle probably will result. The Chinese have nearby troop concentrations estimated in the thousands.

There has been no explanation why the government decided to take the offensive for the first time in the northeast, while remaining on the defensive in Ladakh.

Other aspects of the border situation also remain obscure.

Part of the obscurity is deliberate. The Indian government usually announces border clashes only after Peiping has reported them.

This is because of a feeling there that otherwise India would appear to be boasting of victories --provoking the Chinese into taking revenge elsewhere on the border.

Prime Minister Nehru has warned that border clashes could grow into war and such a war "may become a world war." But neither India nor China appears to want—or be prepared for—an all-out war.

Fire Rages Inside Old City Building

1955 and it is owned by L. M. Ray. However, Ray was out of town Saturday night, and the amount of damage to the building could not be determined.

Traffic going south from the foot of the old traffic bridge had to be blocked off during the fire, as well as traffic coming up Grammont Street to South Grand. Policemen routed the heavy traffic flow.

Firemen said this was one of the worst fires in the downtown area since about 1954. Trucks one, four and 10 responded to the call, as well as ladder truck one and the American Legion truck. No one was injured, other than a few cut hands and nail-stuck feet on the firemen.

Donovan Hopes To Free Cuban Prisoners Soon

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negotiator James B. Donovan says he hopes to liberate within two weeks the 1,113 prisoners held by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro since the Bay of Pigs invasion.

Donovan, a Brooklyn lawyer who dealt with Russia for the release of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, has been meeting with Castro in efforts to free the captives.

CHARLES Pearson, telephone executive of New Orleans, was elected president of the Lovely Louisiana Tourist Association at the first annual convention of the group in New Orleans Thursday. He moves up from first vice president and has been active in tourist development work for a number of years. He succeeds Sylvan Friedman of Natchez.

Rusk Asserts Reds Lie On Laos Forces

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday labeled Communist assertions that there are no Communist Vietminh forces in Laos as "nonsense, and the world knows it."

He commented after a three-hour informal luncheon meeting of diplomats of the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Only Pakistan of the SEATO nations was not represented at the luncheon.

Rusk's comments were prompted by the Geneva agreement of last July which provides that all foreign military personnel will depart from the strife-torn nation by Oc. 7, at which time Laos becomes a neutralist state.

The secretary said the United States will follow the spirit and letter of the agreement and withdraw its military advisors by the deadline.

"It is very important that the first key test of the Geneva accords on Laos be met," Rusk said.

U.S. Defense Spending Rises Under Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy will get a big boost next year from sharp increases in military spending under the Kennedy administration, the Defense Department reported Saturday.

It estimated that $27 billion in defense contracts will be granted in the fiscal year ending next July 1. This would be $2 billion more than in the previous fiscal year, $4.9 billion more than in fiscal 1961, and $6.6 billion more than in fiscal 1960.

The department noted that actual spending lags behind contract awards. Therefore, it said, the steady rise in defense contracts in the past two years has not yet been felt fully in the nation's factories.

university to enroll Meredith. Upon refusal to admit the Negro, Barnett has been found in contempt and confronted with federal custody and a $10,000 daily fine if he does not comply and attempt to maintain order in his state by next Tuesday.

"Unlawful assemblies, combinations and conspiracies oppose and obstruct the execution of the laws of the United States, impede the course of justice under those laws, and make it impracticable to enforce those laws in the state of Mississippi by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings," the proclamation said.

The sequence of presidential actions duplicated those of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower when he ordered federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., in 1957.

High officials still hoped that emergency use of federal troops would not be necessary.

But as one official put it, there seemed little hope that Barnett would bow to federal court decrees and admit Negro James H. Meredith to the university.

Barnett's resistance to federal court orders to desegregate the university already has touched off a crisis. Its ultimate effects remain to be seen.

There was an air of emergency late into the night at the White House and the Justice Department.

The President and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy canceled plans to leave the capitol during the weekend. There were negotiations with the networks over air time for the President's speech Sunday.

It was midnight when the White House announced the federalizing of the Mississippi National Guard.

The Pentagon dispatched a standby Army force, composed primarily of military policemen, to Memphis to await developments.

The Kennedy administration reportedly hopes to limit use of regular federal troops in Mississippi's integration crisis to military policemen so as to avoid using combat infantry if at all possible.

Current thinking among those planning the operation is to deploy the MP's to form a corridor through which federal marshals would pass in carrying out court orders designed to admit Meredith to the university.

The MPs, it was said, would fend off any one attempting to impede the marshals.

An MP battalion of nearly 700 men was flown from Ft. Bragg, N.C., to the Memphis Naval Air Station—a staging site in Tennessee about 50 miles from Oxford.

It was understood two other military police battalions were in reserve for possible use if the one already assigned to the Mississippi task needed help.

A battle group of the 2nd Infantry Division—about 1,000 men—has been ticketed for possible use in Mississippi if the situation proves to be more than military police can handle.

These troops are at Ft. Benning, Ga.

High officials apparently feel there would be less of an onus if military policemen—armed with police weapons such as pistols and night sticks—were used than if rifle and bayonet-carrying infantrymen were brought into the picture.

Informed sources said the federal marshals are to be the enforcement officers—with the military police present to protect the marshals.

Reds Sentence U.S. Singer On Spying Charge

BERLIN (AP)—Gabrielle Hammerstein, 38, an American singer, has been sentenced by an East German court to six years in prison on a charge of spying, U.S. authorities reported Saturday.

Miss Hammerstein previously had told reporters in West Berlin she is a Wagnerian soprano and that she had played several engagements in East German opera houses. Her mother, Dr. Gertrude Rosenhain, lives in Jackson Heights, N.Y.

The U.S. mission in West Berlin said Miss Hammerstein had been held by the Communist authorities since January and was sentenced Aug. 3, in Neubrandenburg, north of Berlin.

The spokesman offered no explanation for the delay in disclosing the sentence and said he had no details on the trial.

to have 35 per cent of his fuel remaining in both the automatic and manual tanks at the time he starts the reverse rocket firing sequence before the critical return through the earth's atmosphere. A great amount of fuel would be needed if the capsule should start tumbling out of control on re-entry.

Schirra will have improved communication links with ground stations and recovery forces. Included are a 30-foot extension cord from the capsule radio which he can take into a raft if he has to make such a move. Schirra also will have a walkie talkie radio in his survival kit to communicate with recovery units.

The six-orbit flight requires a more extensive recovery operation than previous missions. More than 40,000 men, 30 ships and 100 aircraft will be standing by around the world to retrieve the astronaut.

If the flight is terminated after one, two or three orbits, Schirra will land in the Atlantic Ocean as Glenn and Carpenter did. But a Pacific Ocean landing is necessary beyond three orbits because daylight is required for safe recovery. Nightfall comes to the Pacific several hours later than the Atlantic.

If Schirra is brought down after four orbits, he will impact 170 miles east of Midway Island. Completion of five or six orbits would drop him 275 miles northeast of Midway.

During Schirra's final weeks of training, his wife, Jo, and their two children, Walter III, 12, and Suzanne, 4, have remained at their Houston, Tex., home, where they plan to be the day of the flight.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — More than 120,000 mountain tribesmen, about one-fifth of their kind in South Viet Nam, have moved down from their mountain retreats into government security areas.

WEST MONROE CHAMBER

Moving Of Board Office Supported

A controversial proposal for the construction in West Monroe of new offices for the Ouachita Parish School Board has received the formal backing of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

In a resolution passed Friday by the organization's board of directors and released today, the Chamber urged implementation of the project, at an anticipated cost of $200,000 "at the earliest possible moment."

Sponsored by school board members Charles Anding and Charles G. Wall Jr., the motion to build the offices on a five to 10 - acre site off Thomas Road is expected to be put to a formal vote at the board's meeting Tuesday night.

Copies of the Chamber resolution, signed by President Eugene Scott and Manager Eugene Smith, were mailed Friday and are in the hands of each of the board's 18 members and School Superintendent W. W. Ward.

Anding told the Morning World last week he had 10 sure votes for the building plan with only nine required.

The West Monroe organization's resolution made these points in reaching its conclusion to support the establishment of new offices:

"The . . . offices are presently located outside of the . . . Board's respective districts, . . . and are located within the district of Monroe's City School System within an area which pays no taxes nor contributes in any way to the maintenance and upkeep of the Parish system.

"Such domicile, if built, is to be built out of the proceeds of Ouachita Parish School Board funds to serve the Ouachita Parish School System.

"There is ample property and a suitable site for such a domicile within the confines of Ward Five . . . which is exclusively within the jurisdiction of the . . . Parish system.

"Said property is easily accessible to all of the schools comprising the . . . Parish system, and

"Approximately 54 per cent of all students attending the Ouachita Parish School System reside west of the Ouachita River in Wards Five, Six, Seven and Nine."

The document concludes with an alleged breakdown of taxes paid for the operation and maintenance of the parish system by each of the 10 parish Wards. It lists the following sums, totalling $1,833,636.75.

Ward One — $454,479.72; Ward Two — $100,675.20; Ward Three — $74,829.50; Ward Four — $43,923.10; Ward Five — $393,036.28; Ward Six — $41,519.90; Ward Seven — $48,778.34; Ward Eight — $22,205.82; Ward Nine — $13,589.16; and Ward Ten — $115,606.73.

A Morning World check earlier in the week, in which 10 of the 18 members of the school board were contacted, revealed seven of that number in opposition to the construction. They were George Rorex, W. E. Palmer, C. E. Buckley, Everett Zeagler, Fred McVay, Marvin Shipp and J. H. Trousdale Jr.

Two who declined formal comment were Robert Rhone and A. L. Smith.

Others on the board, besides Anding and Wall, are C. G. Drennan, president, B. A. Tarver Sr., Fred Riser, Harry Wheelis, Chester P. Holloway, E. M. Finley and Dwight E. Owens.

Bolivia Orders State Of Siege

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The government imposed a state of siege Saturday, claiming a revolutionary plot existed.

An announcement said the plot, uncovered earlier this month, still posed an imminent threat despite government preventive measures.

A state of siege means constitutional guarantees are suspended and arrests can be made without warrants. All public meetings are banned and the government holds the right to open mail.

U.S. Recognizes Ben Bella

ALGIERS (UPI) — The United States Saturday speedily recognized the new Algerian government headed by Premier Ahmed Ben Bella. The strongman premier promptly met with his cabinet to discuss a proposed trip to the United States.

U. S. recognition came only hours after Ben Bella won a vote of confidence from the new Algerian national assembly on his government program of sweeping social reforms and redistribution of land to peasants.

The United States named Consul William Porter as its interim charge d'affairs in Algiers and announced it planned to appoint a full ambassador to the Ben Bella regime in the near future.

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk sent messages of congratulations.

Kennedy's message to Ben Bella said: "It is with deep pleasure that I extend to you on behalf of the government and people of the United States my warmest congratulations upon your assumption of the high office of prime minister of the Algerian Government.

"I wish you every success in your new duties and responsibilities," the message added. "My government and people share my earnest desire to foster and extend the cordial relations and exist between your two countries."

Ben Bella presided over the first meeting of his new 16-man cabinet Saturday afternoon.

Authoritative sources said the cabinet discussed the possibility that Ben Bella and Foreign minister Arar Khemisti would go to New York for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

Ben Bella had said earlier this week he planned personally to head his country's delegation to the U. N.

The national assembly, in a vote that came at 4:35 a.m., confirmed Ben Bella's government by a margin of 159 to 1. There were 19 abstentions and 17 absentees.

ELLENDER, LONG

Senators Voice Troop Opposition

WASHINGTON (Special) — Louisiana's two U. S. Senators took stands against the forced admission of Negro James H. Meredith to the University of Mississippi with federal troops Saturday.

In a floor speech in the Senate, Sen. Allen J. Ellender asserted, "The administration should under no circumstances send soldiers down to Mississippi to try to force the enrollment of Meredith on the University of Mississippi."

Sen. Russell B. Long released a statement Saturday in which he states that the federal government may eventually succeed in forcing a Negro student among the whites at Ole Miss, but this will not solve anything.

Meanwhile, a source close to the President reported troops would be used in Mississippi only if Gov. Ross R. Barnett failed to bow to the orders of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

He said a Presidential proclamation calling out troops would be issued if Barnett resisted attempts to force enrollment of Meredith Monday or Tuesday with sufficient strength to repel a large force of federal marshals.

The court in New Orleans Friday set a deadline of 11 a.m. Tuesday for Barnett to purge himself of contempt. The judges said he would be arrested and fined $10,000 a day unless he allowed Meredith to enter the all-white university and maintained peace in Mississippi.

In this floor speech, Sen. Ellender proclaimed himself in full sympathy with Gov. Barnett but noted Barnett was in a difficult position, because "He is doing his utmost to fulfill his campaign pledges and the will of the people of his state."

He said he was "disappointed" at the adminstration's "threats" to use troops to integrate the 114-year-old institution, asserting, "Should that course be followed I fear there will be bloodshed and the blame will then be placed at the doorstep of the White House."

He concluded, "The South will not integrate through the use of force and I dread the consequences that will follow in the wake of any attempt to attain that goal by the sword."

The statement of Long said: "If the federal government insists on resorting to force at Oxford, Miss., to enforce a split decree, it may eventually succeed in forcing a Negro student among the whites at Ole Miss. But this will not solve anything. It will not obtain the Negro a better education than is available to him elsewhere, even in the South.

"It will badly damage race relations in the South. It will tend to destroy the harmony and respect that exists between the white and colored races. It will delay the day when the white people of that state will voluntarily accept the Negro for what he is.

"Tremendous progress for better racial relations has been made in the South prior to the emergency of forced integration as the proposed answer to the problem. The forcible approach has done much more harm than good. It keeps boomeranging, and will continue to boomerang until it is eventually abandoned, just as prohibition was abandoned.

Hindu Students Find Ole Miss Life Friendly

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Twelve dark-skinned Hindu students from Bombay, India, said Saturday they have received a friendly reception so far in attending the race-conscious University of Mississippi.

The 12 are living in a fraternity house on the campus where state officials have turned away Negro James H. Meredith's attempts to register.

None of the 12 would comment on the Meredith situation. They said they did not feel sufficiently informed to venture an opinion.

Three of the students are undergraduates studying at Ole Miss on scholarships. The other nine are graduate students working toward master's degrees. Most are working on engineering degrees.

ELLENDER, LONG

Senators Voice Troop Opposition

WASHINGTON (Special) — Louisiana's two U. S. Senators took stands against the forced admission of Negro James H. Meredith to the University of Mississippi with federal troops Saturday.

In a floor speech in the Senate, Sen. Allen J. Ellender asserted, "The administration should under no circumstances send soldiers down to Mississippi to try to force the enrollment of Meredith on the University of Mississippi."

Sen. Russell B. Long released a statement Saturday in which he states that the federal government may eventually succeed in forcing a Negro student among the whites at Ole Miss, but this will not solve anything.

Meanwhile, a source close to the President reported troops would be used in Mississippi only if Gov. Ross R. Barnett failed to bow to the orders of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

He said a Presidential proclamation calling out troops would be issued if Barnett resisted attempts to force enrollment of Meredith Monday or Tuesday with sufficient strength to repel a large force of federal marshals.

The court in New Orleans Friday set a deadline of 11 a.m. Tuesday for Barnett to purge himself of contempt. The judges said he would be arrested and fined $10,000 a day unless he allowed Meredith to enter the all-white university and maintained peace in Mississippi.

In this floor speech, Sen. Ellender proclaimed himself in full sympathy with Gov. Barnett but noted Barnett was in a difficult position, because "He is doing his utmost to fulfill his campaign pledges and the will of the people of his state."

He said he was "disappointed" at the adminstration's "threats" to use troops to integrate the 114-year-old institution, asserting, "Should that course be followed I fear there will be bloodshed and the blame will then be placed at the doorstep of the White House."

He concluded, "The South will not integrate through the use of force and I dread the consequences that will follow in the wake of any attempt to attain that goal by the sword."

The statement of Long said: "If the federal government insists on resorting to force at Oxford, Miss., to enforce a split decree, it may eventually succeed in forcing a Negro student among the whites at Ole Miss. But this will not solve anything. It will not obtain the Negro a better education than is available to him elsewhere, even in the South.

"It will badly damage race relations in the South. It will tend to destroy the harmony and respect that exists between the white and colored races. It will delay the day when the white people of that state will voluntarily accept the Negro for what he is.

"Tremendous progress for better racial relations has been made in the South prior to the emergency of forced integration as the proposed answer to the problem. The forcible approach has done much more harm than good. It keeps boomeranging, and will continue to boomerang until it is eventually abandoned, just as prohibition was abandoned.

"If a single drop of American blood is to be spilled in pursuit of this misguided goal, it will be a tragedy for which the Supreme Court can take full credit. Forced racial integration is an answer that the Southerners cannot accept because it is contrary to their moral beliefs.

"I will continue to fight to get the Senate to recognize the urgent need to reverse the forced integration decision. Perhaps the Mississippi fiasco will help some senators to see the light."

New Guinea Lawless On Transfer Eve

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, (AP) — West New Guinea, on the eve of transfer from Dutch to United Nations administration, is facing a partial collapse of public services, communications and law and order.

The few remaining Dutch residents fear it is unlikely that the United Nations will be able to do much about it the next few weeks.

In Hollandia, capital city of this territory which has been ruled by the Dutch for 134 years, reports of disorders are increasing as the Dutch make ready to hand over administration to the U. N. on Monday. The U. N. will hand over the territory to Indonesia next May 1.

There are reports that head hunting tribes, brought under control only in recent years, have resumed activities.

The exclusive Hollandia Yacht Club, completed four years ago, burned mysteriously early Saturday leaving its 300 Dutch members with no place to go for recreation.

Earlier this week 15 Papuans staged a knife battle in front of Hollandi's police station, leaving one dead and three seriously injured. One Dutch woman reported that she was molested by a Papuan during the fight.

Telegraph connections between Hollandia and several coastal and interior points already are suspended and are sporadic with Biak international airport.

Attendance Off After Catholic Schools Mixed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Enrollment in the Roman Catholic schools of the New Orleans Archdiocese, desegregated this year for the first time in more than 60 years, is down 3 per cent from last year.

The archdiocese's bureau of information said Saturday that enrollment in the 11 parishs (counties) of the archdiocese is 73,433 children compared with 75,796 last year.

Desegregation at 35 of the archdiocese's 164 schools earlier this month resulted in threats of boycotting at some schools.

One of the arendiocese's schools, Our Lady of Good Harbor elementary school at Buras, has not held classes for more than two weeks because of a boycott.

Five Negroes enrolled at the school on opening day, but have not been back since. White attendance, down sharply at the start, dwindled until attendance reached zero. The school remains open, but unattended, according to priests at the school.

A crowd of white persons, protesting desegregation, has kept up a daily vigil outside the school.

New Intricate Satellite Shot Due This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An intricate Explorer Satellite is scheduled for launching here within a few days to measure high energy particles streaming from the sun and to take a cursory look at the artificial radiation belt created by a U. S. high-altitude nuclear explosion.

The National Aeronautics and Saturday that the satellie, to be named Explorer 14 if it achieves orbit, will be launched no earlier than Tuesday.

The 89-pound satellie is intended to whirl into a highly-eccentric orbit stretching as far out as 53,000 miles from earth and swinging back to within 185 miles. Because of the unusually eliptical orbit, each global pass will take 31 hours instead of the normal satellite transit time of around two hours.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Enrollment in the Roman Catholic schools of the New Orleans Archdiocese, desegregated this year for the first time in more than 60 years, is down 3 per cent from last year.

The archdiocese's bureau of information said Saturday that enrollment in the 11 parishs (counties) of the archdiocese is 73,433 children compared with 75,796 last year.

Desegregation at 35 of the archdiocese's 164 schools earlier this month resulted in threats of boycotting at some schools.

One of the arcndiocese's schools, Our Lady of Good Harbor elementary school at Buras, has not held classes for more than two weeks because of a boycott.

Five Negroes enrolled at the school on opening day, but have not been back since. White attendance, down sharply at the start, dwindled until attendance reached zero. The school remains open, but unattended, according to priests at the school.

A crowd of white persons, protesting desegregation, has kept up a daily vigil outside the school.

New Intricate Satellite Shot Due This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An intricate Explorer Satellite is scheduled for launching here within a few days to measure high energy particles streaming from the sun and to take a cursory look at the artificial radiation belt created by a U. S. high-altitude nuclear explosion.

The National Aeronautics and Saturday that the satellie, to be named Explorer 14 if it achieves orbit, will be launched no earlier than Tuesday.

The 89-pound satellie is intended to whirl into a highly-eccentric orbit stretching as far out as 53,000 miles from earth and swinging back to within 185 miles. Because of the unusually eliptical orbit, each global pass will take 31 hours instead of the normal satellite transit time of around two hours.

New High Court Session To Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opens on Monday a new term with the swearing in of Arthur J. Goldberg as an associate justice to take part in decisions certain to add important chapters to history.

The former secretary of labor in President Kennedy's cabinet, confirmed by the Senate last Tuesday, takes his seat on the high bench amid speculation whether the tribunal will now become more liberal.

As the second Kennedy appointee to the court, the onetime steelworkers union lawyer is regarded as likely to strengthen the liberal wing of a previously closely divided tribunal. Earlier this year the President named Byron R. White to the court.

Goldberg, successor to retired Justice Felix Frankfurter, leader of the conservative wing, and White, successor to Justice Charles E. Whittaker — also a conservative — may align themselves in the difficult term ahead with the four jurists generally considered to be liberals. They are Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices Hugo Black, William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan.

Early predictions of court trends are hazardous, however, for the justices do not always divide in fixed patterns.

For instance, after more than three years, few observers would hazard a guess as to how Justice Potter Stewart will vote on any particular case. And White, in his first major dissent last June, voted against the court's liberals.

Some clarification of the court's future trend may come, however, with its handling of three nationally vital issues in the months ahead. they are:

1. Does the Constitution permit Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools? The court ruling last June against a state-prescribed prayer in New York schools touched off reactions that startled the justices.

2. What does the Constitution do for scores of Negroes and whites arrested in sit-in demonstrations in the South?

3. What standards will be evolved in determining constitutionality of apportionment of state legislative districts?

In the religious activity field, the court has been asked to review a Maryland state court decision that Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer at daily school opening exercises is not unconstitutional.

The justices also have been asked to review a decision by a federal court that Pennsylvania's law requiring bible reading at school opening exercises violates the Constitution. The state law does not call for recitation of the Lord's Prayer and the lower court did not rule on that question.

Two other appeals in the religious activity field were taken to the court during its summer adjournment.

One questioned an Oregon state court decision that a state may not give free text books to church and parochial schools. The other questioned a Kentucky state court ruling that a hospital built with public funds may be leased to a Catholic religious organization.

Supreme Court rulings on sit-in racial demonstrations are assured for the new term since the justices last June agreed to hear six appeals by Negroes and whites arrested in five southern states.

The October meeting of the South Arkansas Section of the American Chemical Society will be Oct. 11, at Northeast Louisiana State College.

All science students and physician are invited to attend this meeting.

Dr. Sinex has been at Boston University since 1956. Previous positions he held were scientist and executive officer in the Biochemistry Division of the Medical Department at Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Oxford Awaiting New Test Of Force

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — It was a lovely Fall day in Oxford, not an intense day of wind and poignant colors like those of a northern fall, but a day of soft greens and golds and warm sun.

The spreading campus of the University of Mississippi was awaiting a test of bald force between national and state authority over a Negro's attempt to attend the university.

There were no federal marshals around, and very few state officials. Students — many of whom earlier must have been in the crowd cheering the governor's defiance of federal power— were relaxed and smiling. They went from class to Student Union, chatting and skylarking, boy-attracting and girl-watching in the way of the young everywhere — and perhaps with more talent than many not reared in the South.

"Welcome to Ole Miss—Everybody Speaks" said a sign meant for freshman at one door of the building the Negro James H. Meredith hopes to enter if he is to register.

Even if they didn't say much the students spoke politely when spoken to by the dozens of newsmen from far places who crowded the halls and wide porch of the same buildings. The university extended to its uninvited guests the use of a room, typewriters, telephones, coffee, snacks and smiles.

Students and faculty, they met the people from the often critical outside world with the kind of courtesy that is indistinguisable from friendship.

Reporters with nothing much to write watched the girls go by — not one unattractive or lacking taste in dress or grooming. At least half actually pretty and an astonishing number beautiful. It was easy to see how two recent Miss Americas came from this campus in successive years.

On the green sward of the campus was the ugly brown mark of a cross fashioned of fiber laid on the grass at night and burned.

On a dormitory window sill, carelessly draped like a familiar thing, not flaunted, was a Confederate flag.

Not far from the campus the clay mound over the grave of William Faulkner, a representative of the inside world, who did not always praise the South, was still raw and red but already eroding. There was no marker on it yet, but there were flowers.

It is on a hillside, as he wished, and under an oak as he wished. A tree had sprinkled green acorns among the flowers.

Paratroopers Complete Trip After Ditching

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) Twenty-one tough young American paratroopers Saturday completed their trans-Atlantic flight that began in McGuire Air Force Base last Sunday and was to have lasted only 14 hours.

They were among the 48 survivors of the ditched Flying Tiger airliner and a doctor, Air Force Capt. Juan Figueroa-Longo, said they were in such superb physical condition they did not even get the sniffle during seven hour in the icy Atlantic.

The paratroops were among 27 survivors landed in Antwerp, Belgium, Friday, from the Swiss freighter Celerina. They flew to Frankfurt Saturday to go to their original destinations as paratroopers with the 505th Airborne.

Oxford Awaiting New Test Of Force

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — It was a lovely Fall day in Oxford, not an intense day of wind and poignant colors like those of a northern fall, but a day of soft greens and golds and warm sun.

The spreading campus of the University of Mississippi was awaiting a test of bald force between national and state authority over a Negro's attempt to attend the university.

There were no federal marshals around, and very few state officials. Students — many of whom earlier must have been in the crowd cheering the governor's defiance of federal power— were relaxed and smiling. They went from class to Student Union, chatting and skylarking, boy-attracting and girl-watching in the way of the young everywhere — and perhaps with more talent than many not reared in the South.

"Welcome to Ole Miss—Everybody Speaks" said a sign meant for freshman at one door of the building the Negro James H. Meredith hopes to enter if he is to register.

Even if they didn't say much the students spoke politely when spoken to by the dozens of newsmen from far places who crowded the halls and wide porch of the same buildings. The university extended to its uninvited guests the use of a room, typewriters, telephones, coffee, snacks and smiles.

Students and faculty, they met the people from the often critical outside world with the kind of courtesy that is indistinguisable from friendship.

Reporters with nothing much to write watched the girls go by — not one unattractive or lacking taste in dress or grooming. At least half actually pretty and an astonishing number beautiful. It was easy to see how two recent Miss Americas came from this campus in successive years.

On the green sward of the campus was the ugly brown mark of a cross fashioned of fiber laid on the grass at night and burned.

On a dormitory window sill, carelessly draped like a familiar thing, not flaunted, was a Confederate flag.

Not far from the campus the clay mound over the grave of William Faulkner, a representative of the inside world, who did not always praise the South, was still raw and red but already eroding. There was no marker on it yet, but there were flowers.

It is on a hillside, as he wished, and under an oak as he wished. A tree had sprinkled green acorns among the flowers.

Paratroopers Complete Trip After Ditching

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) Twenty-one tough young American paratroopers Saturday completed their trans-Atlantic flight that began in McGuire Air Force Base last Sunday and was to have lasted only 14 hours.

They were among the 48 survivors of the ditched Flying Tiger airliner and a doctor, Air Force Capt. Juan Figueroa-Longo, said they were in such superb physical condition they did not even get the sniffle during seven hour in the icy Atlantic.

The paratroops were among 27 survivors landed in Antwerp, Belgium, Friday, from the Swiss freighter Celerina. They flew to Frankfurt Saturday to go to their original destinations as paratroopers with the 505th Airborne.

British Report New East-West Talks Fail To Break Deadlock On Berlin

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The British reported persistent deadlock Saturday after the latest East-West talk over Berlin.

The report came as President Kennedy arranged to review world affairs with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Minister Lord Home at lunch Sunday in Washington.

A British spokesman said Lord Home discussed the Berlin question with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei AM Gromyko late Friday at the Soviet U.N. mission.

"They talked for about 80 minutes," he told a reporter. "They discussed Laos briefly and then the rest of the time they spent talking about Berlin. "They went over the ground again but we can't say that they really made any progress."

But, in reply to a query, the spokesman said Gromyko did not mention any deadline for the West to meet Soviet demands — which are the signing of a German peace treaty or treaties and the withdrawal of British, French and U.S. garrisons from West Berlin.

Art Festival

Autumn is a mellow season, noted for its colorful displays of foliage in wooded areas. But for several years in this area, it also has heralded the annual Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival, known as the "biggest rural art festival in the state."

COLUMBIA — Vivaciously swinging in with autumn is the Seventh Annual Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival, the "biggest rural art festival in the state."

At the art festival, scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Caldwell Parish Community Grounds and Center, the noted professionals will have their work displayed along with the beginning amateurs.

Scheduled during the day's program are members of the Louisiana State University Press, artwork, weaving, block printing, pen, pencil and pastel sketching, oil and water color demonstrations, cartooning, discussions, ballad singing, band music, colored slide demonstrations and good home - prepared food.

AUTOGRAPH PARTY

One of the biggest attractions of the festival will be a "Giant Autograph Party" held throughout the day on the grounds.

All artists and writers will be privileged to display and sell, if they wish, their works. The theme of the festival is being set by Mrs. Drew N. Hays of Iron Rock, near Ruston, who is doing black and white sketches of people who have helped make the festival possible this year.

The sketches will be displayed in the Community Center building.

The festival is a three - ring circus of art — and has been since its inception upon inspiration seven years ago.

The event annually attracts from one thousand to four thousand persons.

OFFICIALS

Co-chairwomen of the event are Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, trustee, and Miss Katherine Arnold, librarian. Hosts with them are the Library board members.

All the stops are pulled to make the day a gala occasion. Visitors come in by plane, bus, auto and even boat. Many persons attire themselves in Louisiana heritage costumes.

The central theme pushed by art festival officials and enthusiasts — the one they say makes it unique — is: "Art Is for Everyone."

Mrs. Reynolds points out that the work of a noted professional may hang right along side that of a youngster selling his work for "10 cents each."

All this is in a moss-covered oak atmosphere — out with nature — where the art work is strung from tree to tree.

SPEAKER

Donald R. Ellegood, director of the LSU Press, will speak and present some of his authors. Among them are Louisiana Tech President Dr. F. Jay Taylor, author of "Reluctant Rebel, Diary of a Soldier"; Mrs. Jane de Grummond, who penned "Baratarians and the Battle of New Orleans"; and Mrs. Mary Land Hodges, author of "Louisiana Cookery."

Sculptor Robert A. Wiggs, coordinator of the art education program at LSU will develop "The Art of Nature," illustrated with colored slides during the afternoon program.

Also scheduled to appear is Roy H. Odom, Baton Rouge advertising executive, who will illustrate cartooning, both recreationally and professionally.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Lena Young deDrammond, state supervisor of Public School Libraries, will speak on the Southern Writers Conference. A concert by the Columbia High School band will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m.

The art festival progresses along a rigid and planned schedule, moving from one media to the next, but all the while side attractions are being staged.

School children, college students and adults receive their guests as a one-man show.

PARTICIPANTS

Participants on the program will be guests in Caldwell Parish homes and will be honored for breakfast and lunch by the Kiwanis Club on the day of the festival and by the Lions Club the day before.

Miss Ashley Hamilton, visiting art teacher in the Monroe City School System, assisted by Miss Reba Wiley, Lee Junior High School art instructor, will judge the adult division of the show.

Other judges will be Mrs. Judith C. Yarberry, art cosultant for the Lincoln Parish schools, youth division; Mrs. Guy H. Kincaid of Winnsboro, flower arrangements and Miss Lola Caldwell, Caldwell Parish home demonstration agent, needle craft.

TAKING A LOOK at likeness produced by Arthur C. Morgan of Shreveport, at previous art festival at Columbia, are the subject, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Morgan, and Mrs. Reynolds' daughters, Miss Jorenda Reynolds and Mrs. John W. Krump.

YOUNGSTERS ADMIRE art at Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival. The seventh annual edition of the festival is scheduled Saturday. The young art enthusiasts are Donna Gartman and Susan Gartman, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David Gartman of Columbia.

A perilous game will be played this week at Winnfield in which courageous men and cunning hog dogs will be pitted against wild hogs. The hogs get most of the spotlight, but the dogs and men face greater risk.

By ED KERR

Football? Child's play. Come Thursday night at 7:30, a whistle will sound the start of man's most dangerous game: wild boar marking and wild hog penning. The "playing field" will be the rodeo arena at Winnfield's Louisiana Forest Festival.

"This is the place where men are men and hog dogs are glad of it!" one old-timer put it.

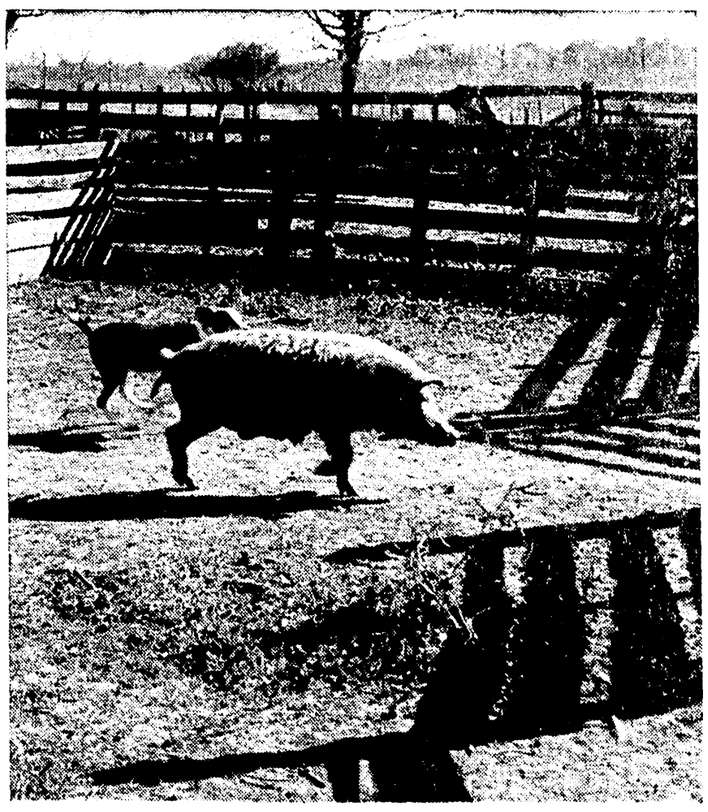
But while the men must be courageous and the hog gets all the publicity, it's the hog dog who does all the work in both events, which will be staged on Thursday and Saturday nights. And only one dog will get a reward: the crown of "champion hog dog of the world".

BOAR MARKING

In the wild boar marking contest, the dog must corner the hog and hold him until his owner can grab the hog securely. Armed with a pocketknife for marking purpose and a short piece of rope, the owner must tie the hog's hind legs to a post, and mark his ears with a "crop off left and split in the right", which is the official forest festival hog mark. Then the fun begins: the owner must untie the hog and get himself and his dog out of the arena without anybody getting hurt. The entire event is timed.

"Wild hog penning" is less dangerous than the marking events, but calls for more cunning on the part of the hog dog. This contest will be held for the first time this year. Also timed, the penning event tests the hog dog's skill in leading a sow and her litter into a pen. The dog leaps over the fence, the owner locks the gate and the stopwatch clicks.

The champion hog dog will be selected at the conclusion of the Saturday events, and will be judged on obedience to owner, efficiency in handling hogs and breed characteristics.



WILD HOG penning calls for considerable cunning on the part of a hog dog, and only the best ones succeed.

QUITE A STIR

The Winnfield competition has caused quite a stir around the rural countryside, especially among old timers like Poston White, who lives near Alexandria on a knoll overlooking "Devil's Raceground" — the huge pin oak flat at a bend of Red River which was famous for its population of panthers, wildcats and other wild critters in the past. White is undisputed authority on wild hogs and hog dogs.

"I caught and marked 1,500 hogs one winter and just quit," White recalls. "I had plenty more hogs than that, but it got too hot to chase 'em." '

Although he raised corn and cattle in "the old days", White made more money from his woods hogs than any of his enterprises. Selling most of his "mast - fed" hogs around Christmas time and other holidays, he used to make a profit of $1,000 a year. And it came in handy, as he has raised nine of his own children, plus five orphaned nephews in his time.

Not only did he raise 11 children but, when time came for them to get married, he gave each of them a house and a milk cow.

DREAMS CLUES

White spent so much time catching, marking and innoculating hogs that he dreamed about them at night. Many was the time — and his grandson backs up his story — that he would dream where a lost sow was grazing and find his hog at that exact spot the next morning. His dreams also kept him clued to the foul ways of hog stealers.

"I was missing a hog one time," he said, "and in my dreams I saw one of my neighbors kill that hog, dress him and burn the carcass. When I confronted him with the facts the next day, he admitted the whole thing."

The famous hog runner points out, however, that hog stealing was almost nil until about 10 years ago, but "now it's terrible — that's why I quit trying to own any hogs."

"Why, if I went out on that road today I'd be 'hard put to it 'to find an honest man!"

OLD TIMERS RECALL

Old timers around Jonesville recall the days when John Guss rounded up 1,800 hogs out of the woods during the flood of 1922, and took them to Vidalia. They were scattered for 10 or 12 miles throughout the swamps between Jonesville and the Catahoula hills. From Vidalia, the hogs were shipped down the Mississippi river to New Orleans. Some of the hogs were so fat, they could hardly walk, old timers say.

Hog hunting is still more popular than one would think, judging from the sale of wild hogs at many of the state's auction barns. One barn in Alexandria, for example, handles more than 5,000 wild hogs a year—Amounting to one - third of its annual hog business — and sells them to sausage processors.

But the hog dog events are only two of many attractions at this year's festival in Winnfield. For the first time, the annual "Queen of the Forest Festival" contest will include bathing suit and talent judging, so the winner will be eligible to compete in the Miss America competition. Other attractions will include exhibit of Louisiana wildlife, a golf tournament, educational and commercial exhibits, and crowning of a "Little Miss Forest Festival".

During the afternoon, Mrs. Lena Young deDrammond, state supervisor of Public School Libraries, will speak on the Southern Writers Conference. A concert by the Columbia High School band will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m.

The art festival progresses along a rigid and planned schedule, moving from one media to the next, but all the while side attractions are being staged.

School children, college students and adults receive their guests as a one-man show.

PARTICIPANTS

Participants on the program will be guests in Caldwell Parish homes and will be honored for breakfast and lunch by the Kiwanis Club on the day of the festival and by the Lions Club the day before.

Miss Ashley Hamilton, visiting art teacher in the Monroe City School System, assisted by Miss Reba Wiley, Lee Junior High School art instructor, will judge the adult division of the show.

Other judges will be Mrs. Judith C. Yarberry, art cosultant for the Lincoln Parish schools, youth division; Mrs. Guy H. Kincaid of Winnsboro, flower arrangements and Miss Lola Caldwell, Caldwell Parish home demonstration agent, needle craft.

TAKING A LOOK at likeness produced by Arthur C. Morgan of Shreveport, at previous art festival at Columbia, are the subject, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Morgan, and Mrs. Reynolds' daughters, Miss Jorenda Reynolds and Mrs. John W. Krump.

YOUNGSTERS ADMIRE art at Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival. The seventh annual edition of the festival is scheduled Saturday. The young art enthusiasts are Donna Gartman and Susan Gartman, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David Gartman of Columbia.

Hog Tussle Dramatic

A perilous game will be played this week at Winnfield in which courageous men and cunning hog dogs will be pitted against wild hogs. The hogs get most of the spotlight, but the dogs and men face greater risk.

By ED KERR

Football? Child's play. Come Thursday night at 7:30, a whistle will sound the start of man's most dangerous game: wild boar marking and wild hog penning. The "playing field" will be the rodeo arena at Winnfield's Louisiana Forest Festival.

"This is the place where men are men and hog dogs are glad of it!" one old-timer put it.

But while the men must be courageous and the hog gets all the publicity, it's the hog dog who does all the work in both events, which will be staged on Thursday and Saturday nights. And only one dog will get a reward: the crown of "champion hog dog of the world".

BOAR MARKING

In the wild boar marking contest, the dog must corner the hog and hold him until his owner can grab the hog securely. Armed with a pocketknife for marking purpose and a short piece of rope, the owner must tie the hog's hind legs to a post, and mark his ears with a "crop off left and split in the right", which is the official forest festival hog mark. Then the fun begins: the owner must untie the hog and get himself and his dog out of the arena without anybody getting hurt. The entire event is timed.

"Wild hog penning" is less dangerous than the marking events, but calls for more cunning on the part of the hog dog. This contest will be held for the first time this year. Also timed, the penning event tests the hog dog's skill in leading a sow and her litter into a pen. The dog leaps over the fence, the owner locks the gate and the stopwatch clicks.

The champion hog dog will be selected at the conclusion of the Saturday events, and will be judged on obedience to owner, efficiency in handling hogs and breed characteristics.

WILD HOG penning calls for considerable cunning on the part of a hog dog, and only the best ones succeed.

QUITE A STIR

The Winnfield competition has caused quite a stir around the rural countryside, especially among old timers like Poston White, who lives near Alexandria on a knoll overlooking "Devil's Raceground" — the huge pin oak flat at a bend of Red River which was famous for its population of panthers, wildcats and other wild critters in the past. White is undisputed authority on wild hogs and hog dogs.

"I caught and marked 1,500 hogs one winter and just quit," White recalls. "I had plenty more hogs than that, but it got too hot to chase 'em." '

Although he raised corn and cattle in "the old days", White made more money from his woods hogs than any of his enterprises. Selling most of his "mast - fed" hogs around Christmas time and other holidays, he used to make a profit of $1,000 a year. And it came in handy, as he has raised nine of his own children, plus five orphaned nephews in his time.

Not only did he raise 14 children but, when time came for them to get married, he gave each of them a house and a milk cow.

DREAMS CLUES

White spent so much time catching, marking and innoculating hogs that he dreamed about them at night. Many was the time — and his grandson backs up his story — that he would dream where a lost sow was grazing and find his hog at that exact spot the next morning. His dreams also kept him clued to the foul ways of hog stealers.

"I was missing a hog one time," he said, "and in my dreams I saw one of my neighbors kill that hog, dress him and burn the carcass. When I confronted him with the facts the next day, he admitted the whole thing."

The famous hog runner points out, however, that hog stealing was almost nil until about 10 years ago, but "now it's terrible — that's why I quit trying to own any hogs."

"Why, if I went out on that road today I'd be 'hard put to it 'to find an honest man!"

OLD TIMERS RECALL

Old timers around Jonesville recall the days when John Guss rounded up 1,800 hogs out of the woods during the flood of 1922, and took them to Vidalia. They were scattered for 10 or 12 miles throughout the swamps between Jonesville and the Catahoula hills. From Vidalia, the hogs were shipped down the Mississippi river to New Orleans. Some of the hogs were so fat, they could hardly walk, old timers say.

Hog hunting is still more popular than one would think, judging from the sale of wild hogs at many of the state's auction barns. One barn in Alexandria, for example, handles more than 5,000 wild hogs a year—Amounting to one - third of its annual hog business — and sells them to sausage processors.

But the hog dog events are only two of many attractions at this year's festival in Winnfield. For the first time, the annual "Queen of the Forest Festival" contest will include bathing suit and talent judging, so the winner will be eligible to compete in the Miss America competition. Other attractions will include exhibit of Louisiana wildlife, a golf tournament, educational and commercial exhibits, and crowning of a "Little Miss Forest Festival".

Prayer Decision Aired

So much indignation has been aroused by the supreme court decision which banned the recitation of a prayer in the schools of New York that the Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government has issued a booklet of more than 30 pages in which it holds that the ruling of the court was unjustified.

The commission concurs in the opinion of most authorities that the question of the prayer's constitutionality hinges on whether the New York board of education was ordering the recitation of this prayer or was merely granting its permission.

Justice Stewart was the only member of the supreme court who maintained that New York had not violated the constitution. Justices Frankfurter and White took no part in the decision.

Justice Stewart agreed that, in conformity with the constitution, no government should make any law respecting an establishment of religion but, noting the voluntary nature of the practice, he concluded the board of education had simply permitted those who wanted to pray to do so.

To the argument that no government can constitutionally finance a religious exercise in this country, he replied that chaplains of the armed forces, as well as for both houses of Congress, are employed by the federal government.

Citing a court decision of only 10 years ago in which it was stated that "we are a religious people whose institutions presuppose the existence of a Supreme Being," Justice Stewart concluded that the board of education in this case had simply permitted acknowledgement of that Supreme Being.

The Virginia commission quoted the prayer to show that it contains nothing to which anyone believing in a Supreme Being could object, stating that the prayer should be carefully studied. It follows:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

Justice Black, writing an opinion in which four other justices concurred, held that New York had enacted a law respecting an establishment of religion and had therefore violated the first amendment to the constitution. He maintained that "a union of government and religion tends to destroy government and degrade religion."

Further reinforcing his objection to the decision, Justice Stewart said in part:

"A local school board in New York has provided that those pupils who wish to do so may join in a brief prayer at the beginning of each school day, acknowledging their dependence upon God and asking His blessing upon them and upon their parents, their teachers, and their country. The court decides that in permitting this brief non-denominational prayer the school board has violated the constitution of the United States. I think this decision is wrong.

"The court does not hold, nor could it, that New York has interfered with the free exercise of anybody's religion. For the courts have made clear that those who object to reciting the prayer must be entirely free of any compulsion to do so, including any embarrassments and pressures . . . But the court says that, in permitting school children to say this simple prayer, the New York authorities have established 'an official religion.'

"With all respect, I think the court has misapplied a great constitutional principle, I cannot see how an 'official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it. On the contrary, I think that to deny the wish of these children to join in reciting this prayer is to deny them the opportunity of sharing in the spiritual heritage of our nation . . ."

The supreme court has bent so far over backward to prevent any union of church and state that it has formed a complete arc. It has strained at a gnat and swallowed a camel.

The highest court in the land has forbidden the children of this country to worship as they please, forgetting that the constitution even more emphatically asserts the right of one to worship as he pleases than it forbids the joining of state and church functions, and, in addition, going to great lengths to come up with the contention that permission to say a prayer in school amounts to making a law respecting an establishment of religion.

Boiled down, the decision conforms to the opinions of an atheist who seeks to outlaw any form of worship connected with a public institution. This is contrary to the intent of the constitution and to the well-being of this country.

Supersonic Sky Hound

Shock waves of supersonic air force jets, especially the B-58 Hustler bombers operating over Louisville, Ky., have previewed in mild form a bizarre new weapon developed by the atomic energy commission.

The new device is a nuclear ramjet which flies at three times the speed of sound and can be computer-aimed to travel thousands of miles just above the tree-tops in rough terrain. Code-named Project Pluto, it can roam a countryside like a horrifying hound.

It would hammer the ears of a population into terror before it plunged its nuclear bomb into a final target.

Even if a nation developed a way to shoot down Pluto, which moves too fast to be seen, the ground gunner would know that a successful shot might explode the bomb directly over his head. Shooting it down could be virtually a suicide mission.

According to a report by Insider's Newsletter, President Kennedy is flabbergasted because he doesn't know what to do about the new weapon. He seems disappointed that it is ready for use so soon.

The atomic energy commission wanted to nurse it along for another year on a $20-million appropriation but Livermore's scientists insisted that their job is done. This confronted Kennedy with a now-or-never decision on whether to add this weapon to the United States arsenal.

Pluto advocates tout it as a future substitute for battleship diplomacy. An unarmed ram-jet zig-zagging over a limited battlefield would, they believe, bring sudden peace.

In this, as in other moves to counter aggression, President Kennedy seems to want to wait. Only in the matters of socialization and integration does he seem to be in a hurry.

Views Of Our Readers

Says Privacy Invaded

To the Editor:

I was a visitor in your city this past weekend and was as amazed as your reader from Tunico when I read HIS letter entitled "Jackson & Payroll" in your column on September 23. He certainly seems to be misinformed or has misinterpreted — which many people do when they are not aware of the true facts. As an employe of the state department of education for over twelve years, I assure you that I have handled budgets that we call "prorated" but NOT "juggled". It is not necessary to explain the difference — or, reasons for prorating salaries, of those employes who handle paper work from more than one division, to those familiar with finance procedure.

I feel that an injustice was done when our salaries were printed. I feel that an unfair advantage of the public records act was taken because I don't believe that was the purpose of the act. Mr. Jackson was correct in my opinion when he said that it was an invasion of privacy — the privacy of all his employes—who pay taxes too — the privacy of many of us with years of service with the state who enjoy the work or we would not be here. I resent the printing of my salary — which should be a very personal matter. I particularly resent the fact that my salary was printed INCORRECTLY — at less than I actually make.

Your reader evidently is not informed of the fine programs of vocational rehabilitation which makes it necessary to hire many qualified persons. He is evidently not familiar with the fine total program of education which we, as citizens of Louisiana enjoy, but, which does take the personnel to carry out.

We, in the department of education, are always ready and willing to be of service to the citizens of Louisiana and do not feel that we need an investigation. We are always happy to have our fellow citizens pay us a visit while in Baton Rouge. We have nothing to hide."

Today's Inquisition

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Sixty years ago I read a book in the public school library, which impressed me very much. It was descriptive of the dark ages, and was titled, "The Spanish Inquisition." In it, heretics, or any of those who did not agree with the powers of the "ins," were not only disciplined, but were put to the rack, chained for life, and many were buried alive!! This reminds me of events of today.

A group in Washington has been following in the footsteps of those in power those days, in spite of all the ballyhoo about "New Frontiers", civil rights and what have you.

When the Warren court threw all preceedings out the window, made their decisions from findings in Myrdahl's book, they not only overstepped Congress and their responsibility of making the laws of the land, but showed their lack of respect for the one thing Americans care for, the Constitution, and Bill of Rights.

Now those in office, in the White House and office of the attorney general, are following along the path of those old Spaniards of long ago with their "inquisition" in matters which concern a state of this union, it's laws and last, but not least, by any means, it's governor, and biggest man before the public today, governor Ross Barnett. May his kind increase!!!

To these synthetics in Washington, nothing which deals with "tradition" states rights, or anything else not known to the New Frontier, has meaning, sense or right of living. They would tear down anything, everything which they cannot understand or dominate, in their senseless lust for power!!

Governor Barnett has shown by his actions to be a man of the highest quality, honesty, fairness and every other usable adjective. He has shown more intestinal fortitude than any other state official since the dark days of 1957 and Governor Faubus.

It seems strange that as far as I have seen, only one governor has come to his rescue besides Governor Faubus, the man having a million dollar home built here in Louisiana, not even offering a little "cheep" in defense of what is right, although he made some big promises during his campaign. For this, and many other reasons, governor Barnett, standing almost alone, as far as the most of the governors are concerned, has shown by his actions that he, along with the state, can and will get along without a lot of so-called "federal aid".

Since the morning paper states, Federal Troops are being considered," will they send American troops, or will United Nations hirelings be used? Possibly some of the planes handed to Tito, along with his U. S. trained pilots, will drop some bombs on the capitol at Jackson.

Very strange how strong Washington can be when doing something as dirty as "getting even" for the holding election delegates, while at the same time knuckling under over Cuba.

Accidents Build Up

Monroe, La.

To The Editor

Accidents — lightning, tornado, earthquake, volcano, and so on — people don't build up.

There are lots of accidents that are build up on the road, and other places, come-day-go-day.

Courts have two words for build, up: "What was "the law' on the books about this kind of happenings?" "What were 'the facts' where the accident happened?" "Law and fact."

There are other "accidents" in the city, township, country or parish, state or nation. And in other parts of the world. Besides, between two people, or more than two people. Come-day-go-day. Look around you and see.

Some can be patched and "life go on". Some "no money can cure or wipe out."

"Law" is NOT always on book by legislature or congress. But there is a "law" about life. And what were the "facts"? And what were the "statistics?"

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a signed copy of a letter I have just mailed to Gov. Davis. I ask that you print this letter in the Views of the Readers section of your Sunday paper. Thank you.

LOU DUNCKELMAN

Hon. Jimmy Davis, Governor
State of Louisiana
Baton Rouge, Louisiana

Dear Governor Davis:

It is gratifying to note that both the Louisiana House and Senate voted unanimously to pass a resolution stating that the United Nations flag shall not be flown along side the American Flag on any State-owned building in the State of Louisiana. For this, I wish to commend you and the legislative bodies most sincerely.

In my opinion, too many States and too many people have waited too long to show their indignation for this glittering trap for misguided idealists. It is time we shouted, GET US OUT! A few, of many, reasons why we should disunite ourselves from this Communist controlled organization are as follows:

1. The UN was erected on a false foundation. It was to be composed of peaceful nations. Is Soviet Russia a peaceful nation? Much disillusionment stems from this false foundation.

2. A United States Senate spot check in January 1951 found that thirty two per cent of UN representatives from foreign countries were trained Communist spies and twenty nine per cent were actually under surveillance by the FBI.

3. Lets face it. We have been lulled to sleep by Red propaganda. For years we have been taught that the UN was formed to save the world(For whom?) Yet, all we have been doing is paying the bills and surrendering our precious hard-won heritage and freedom.

4. Everytime we negotiate in the UN, the game we are playing lose, heads they win."

5. The action of the UN in Katanga alone this year should indicate to all the direction in which this organization is headed.

6. The UN is the proving ground for the proponents of World Government. If it were not for the all important Connally Reservation, you would have to ask someone permission to play your guitar and I would not be able to get this letter past a central committee.

On October 24 of this year, we will again be called upon officially by our government and unofficially by all the propaganda media, to celebrate United Nations Day. Does it not strike you as ironic that Soviet Russia officially accepted and joined the UN October 24, 1945.

Now Sir, based upon the action already taken by our Louisiana legislature, and viewing the above substantiated facts, I respectfully request that you proclaim to the people of this great state that you will not proclaim October 24, or any other day, as United Nations day in the State of Louisiana.

Very truly yours,
LOU DUNCKELMAN

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

The New Frontier and its spokemen keep insisting that the Kennedy administration is not anti-business. At the drop of a hat, government officials concerned with economic policy contend that their only concern is for the "national interest."

Yet the President himself keeps providing new evidence that the fears of the business community are justified. Just when the American people are beginning to put some faith in the New Frontier's claims of bipartisanship as between labor and management, the President destroys it.

Latest example of the administration's one-sideness in labor-management disputes occurred at the Presidential news conference September 13. Under discussion were two labor disputes — one involving the aerospace industry; the other a two-weeks-old strike on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway.

In the aerospace dispute, the President placed all the prestige of the White House behind the recommendation of a special fact-finding board for union-shop elections to stave off a threatened strike in plants working on spacecraft, planes and missiles.

He said, in effect,, that if the companies didn't accept the union shop recommendations of the special board, the country should blame them for any strike that might result.

The President's statement, actually, was only the final move in a stratagem by the White House to give the unions involved — the United Automobile Workers and the International Association of Machinists — exactly what they have wanted from the beginning. For, in naming the panel, the President had virtually assured the union shop recommendation by placing it in charge of Dr. George Taylor, a known advocate of compulsory unionism. The unions, of course, were quick to accept the board's recommendations. When the employers balked, the President applied his news conference pressure.

However, the situation was quite different when the President was asked — and at the same conference — about the railway strike which is causing great economic damage in nine Midwest states. This dispute is dragging on because the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have refused to accept the recommendation of another Presidential board that it drop its demand for veto power over job reductions caused by technological changes.

In this case, the special board proposed a formula which would ease technological layoffs through liberalized unemployment retaining the severance benefits.

But President Kennedy did not see fit to lend his considerable executive prestige to this recommendation. Nor did he take advantage of the occasion to censure the union for not accepting the recommendation of the emergency fact-finding panel. And, of course, he didn't see fit to commend the management of Great Northwestern for its avowed readiness to negotiate a contract based on his board's recommendations.

The best the President could do in the railway dispute was to urge both sides to make "sufficient concessions" to assure an agreement.

I suggest that this kind of favoritism to powerful unions is unworthy of the President of the United States. And it certainly will do nothing to reassure the business community of the government's goodwill.

How do you stand, sir?

'Effective' Drugs

Medicine's Value Must Be Proven Before It Can Be Marketed

One of the most potent pocketbook provisions in the tough new drug act has been startingly under-reported and under-analyzed to date.

Simply stated it is this: under the new bill, before a drug manufacturer could get government permission to market a new drug, he would have to submit "substantial evidence" that the drug would be effective in treating the condition or illness for which he recommended it as well as safe to use. If he couldn't submit this substantial evidence, his application to market the drug would not be approved.

To grasp the significance of this change, you first must understand that today drug makers need only prove to the Food & Drug Administration's satisfaction that a new drug is safe to get a license to market it. They need not also convince the FDA that the drug will do much, if anything, to cure the illness or ease the distress for which they suggest you buy it.

To give you an inkling of what this has meant, over 20 per cent of the new drugs listed since 1956 have found, upon testing, to be, in President Kennedy's words, "incapable of sustaining one or more of their sponsor's claims regarding their therapeutic effect."

"There is no way," said President Kennedy in his "Consumers' Protection" message back on Mar. 15, "of measuring the needless suffering, the money innocently squandered, and the protraction of illnesses resulting from the use of such ineffective drugs."

But the new act would close this gap — welcome news not only to us and other pocketbooks but also to all reputable drug manufacturers who won't be hurt by this stiffened requirement because they don't try to market quack remedies. Only the unethical fringe in the industry would be hit and, to put it mildly, they deserve it.

Here's a cold, current illustration of this clause's meaning.

Today, if you have an allergy — and huge numbers of Americans have a wide variety of allergies — your physician may prescribe an injection against it. This injection, says one of the most informed sources in the industry, "may not be much more than distilled water. The injection is safe so the FDA couldn't withhold permission to market the drug. But that's about all the drug is. It won't cure the allergy."

The FDA could, of course, under existing law, take action against a firm marketing a quack anti-allergy drug — but it would be a lengthy, costly, inefficient process. It would have to spend two to three years in clinical research to prove it's not effective. It would have to go to court to argue its case probably another couple of years.

Assuming the FDA won, then and only then could it compel withdrawal of the useless drug on the basis that claims made for it were false and misleading.

The new act would eliminate this tortuous procedure. By keeping the drug off the market, the FDA could prevent "the needless suffering, the money innocently squandered, the protraction of illnesses. . ."

The language of the law is specific on this. The Secreary of Health, Education and Welfare can "issue an order refusing to approve the application" of a manufacturer to market a new drug if after due notice to the applicant and a hearing "there is a lack of substantial evidence that the drug will have the effect it purports or is represented to have under the conditions of use prescribed, recommended or suggested in the proposed labeling thereof . . . . or such labeling is false or misleading in any particular . . ." The term "substantial evidence" also is clearly defined. It means evidence "consisting of adequate and well-controlled investigations, including clinical investigations, by experts qualified by scientific training and experience to evaluate the effectiveness of the drug involved."

But the thalidomide disaster put the act where it is. As a result, we are about to get a consumer pocketbook protection which the FDA has been urging for years, on which it has worked closely with the drug manufacturers and which most drug makers agree is badly needed. The days of costly "distilled water" drugs are numbered.

For the courts have made clear that those who object to reciting the prayer must be entirely free of any compulsion to do so, including any embarrassments and pressures . . . But the court says that, in permitting school children to say this simple prayer, the New York authorities have established 'an official religion.'

"With all respect, I think the court has misapplied a great constitutional principle, I cannot see how an 'official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it. On the contrary, I think that to deny the wish of these children to join in reciting this prayer is to deny them the opportunity of sharing in the spiritual heritage of our nation . . ."

The supreme court has bent so far over backward to prevent any union of church and state that it has formed a complete arc. It has strained at a gnat and swallowed a camel.

The highest court in the land has forbidden the children of this country to worship as they please, forgetting that the constitution even more emphatically asserts the right of one to worship as he pleases than it forbids the joining of state and church functions, and, in addition, going to great lengths to come up with the contention that permission to say a prayer in school amounts to making a law respecting an establishment of religion.

Boiled down, the decision conforms to the opinions of an atheist who seeks to outlaw any form of worship connected with a public institution. This is contrary to the intent of the constitution and to the well-being of this country.

Supersonic Sky Hound

Shock waves of supersonic air force jets, especially the B-58 Hustler bombers operating over Louisville, Ky., have previewed in mild form a bizarre new weapon developed by the atomic energy commission.

The new device is a nuclear ramjet which flies at three times the speed of sound and can be computer - aimed to travel thousands of miles just above the tree-tops in rough terrain. Code - named Project Pluto, it can roam a countryside like a horrifying hound.

It would hammer the ears of a population into terror before it plunged its nuclear bomb into a final target.

Even if a nation developed a way to shoot down Pluto, which moves too fast to be seen, the ground gunner would know that a successful shot might explode the bomb directly over his head. Shooting it down could be virtually a suicide mission.

According to a report by Insider's Newsletter, President Kennedy is flabbergasted because he doesn't know what to do about the new weapon. He seems disappointed that it is ready for use so soon.

The atomic energy commission wanted to nurse it along for another year on a $20-million appropriation but Livermore's scientists insisted that their job is done. This confronted Kennedy with a now-or-never decision on whether to add this weapon to the United States arsenal.

Pluto advocates tout it as a future substitute for battleship diplomacy. An unarmed ram - jet zig-zagging over a limited battlefield would, they believe, bring sudden peace.

In this, as in other moves to counter aggression, President Kennedy seems to want to wait. Only in the matters of socialization and integration does he seem to be in a hurry.

Views Of Our Readers

To the Editor:

I was a visitor in your city this past weekend and was as amazed as your reader from Tunico when I read HIS letter entitled "Jackson & Payroll" in your column on September 23. He certainly seems to be misinformed or has misinterpreted — which many people do when they are not aware of the true facts. As an employe of the state department of education for over twelve years, I assure you that I have handled budgets that we call "prorated" but NOT "juggled". It is not necessary to explain the difference — or, reasons for prorating salaries, of those employes who handle paper work from more than one division, to those familiar with finance procedure.

I feel that an injustice was done when our salaries were printed. I feel that an unfair advantage of the public records act was taken because I don't believe that was the purpose of the act. Mr. Jackson was correct in my opinion when he said that it was an invasion of privacy — the privacy of all his employes— who pay taxes too — the privacy of many of us with years of service with the state who enjoy the work or we would not be here. I resent the printing of my salary — which should be a very personal matter. I particularly resent the fact that my salary was printed INCORRECTLY — at less than I actually make.

Your reader evidently is not informed of the fine programs of vocational rehabilitation which makes it necessary to hire many qualified persons. He is evidently not familiar with the fine total program of education which we, as citizens of Louisiana enjoy, but, which does take the personnel to carry out.

We, in the department of education, are always ready and willing to be of service to the citizens of Louisiana and do not feel that we need an investigation. We are always happy to have our fellow citizens pay us a visit while in Baton Rouge. We have nothing to hide."

Today's Inquisition

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Sixty years ago I read a book in the public school library, which impressed me very much. It was descriptive of the dark ages, and was titled, "The Spanish Inquisition." In it, heretics, or any of those who did not agree with the powers of the "ins," were not only disciplined, but were put to the rack, chained for life, and many were buried alive!! This reminds me of events of today.

A group in Washington has been following in the footsteps of those in power those days, in spite of all the ballyhoo about "New Frontiers", civil rights and what have you.

When the Warren court threw all preceedings out the window, made their decisions from findings in Myrdahl's book. they not only overstepped Congress and their responsibility of making the laws of the land, but showed their lack of respect for the one thing Americans care for, the Constitution, and Bill of Rights.

Now those in office, in the White House and office of the attorney general, are following along the path of those old Spaniards of long ago with their "inquisition" in matters which concern a state of this union, it's laws and last, but not least, by any means, it's governor, and biggest man before the public today, governor Ross Barnett. May his kind increase!!!

To these synthetics in Washington, nothing which deals with "tradition" states rights, or anything else not known to the New Frontier, has meaning, sense or right of living. They would tear down anything, everything which they cannot understand or dominate, in their senseless lust for power!!

Governor Barnett has shown by his actions to be a man of the highest quality, honesty, fairness and every other usable adjective. He has shown more intestinal fortitude than any other state official since the dark days of 1957 and Governor Faubus.

It seems strange that as far as I have seen, only one governor has come to his rescue besides Governor Faubus, the man having a million dollar home built here in Louisiana, not even offering a little "cheep" in defense of what is right, although he made some big promises during his campaign. For this, and many other reasons, governor Barnett, standing almost alone, as far as the most of the governors are concerned, has shown by his actions that he, along with the state, can and will get along without a lot of so-called "federal aid".

Since the morning paper states, Federal Troops are being considered," will they send American troops, or will United Nations hirelings be used? Possibly some of the planes handed to Tito, along with his U. S. trained pilots, will drop some bombs on the capitol at Jackson.

Very strange how strong Washington can be when doing something as dirty as "getting even" for the holding election delegates, while at the same time knuckling under over Cuba.

Accidents Build Up

Monroe, La.

To The Editor

Accidents — lightning, tornado, earthquake, volcano, and so on — people don't build up.

There are lots of accidents that are build up on the road, and other places, come - day - go-day.

Courts have two words for build, up: "What was "the law' on the books about this kind of happenings?" "What were 'the facts' where the accident happened?" "Law and fact."

There are other "accidents" in the city, township, country or parish, state or nation. And in other parts of the world. Besides, between two people, or more than two people. Come - day - go - day. Look around you and see.

Some can be patched and "life go on". Some "no money can cure or wipe out."

"Law" is NOT always on book by legislature or congress. But there is a "law" about life. And what were the "facts"? And what were the "statistics?"

Likes Flag Action

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a signed copy of a letter I have just mailed to Gov. Davis. I ask that you print this letter in the Views of the Readers section of your Sunday paper. Thank you.

LOU DUNCKELMAN

Hon. Jimmy Davis, Governor
State of Louisiana
Baton Rouge, Louisiana
Dear Governor Davis:

It is gratifying to note that both the Louisiana House and Senate voted unanimously to pass a resolution stating that the United Nations flag shall not be flown along side the American Flag on any State - owned building in the State of Louisiana. For this, I wish to commend you and the legislative bodies most sincerely.

In my opinion, too many States and too many people have waited too long to show their indignation for this glittering trap for misguided idealists. It is time we shouted, GET US OUT! A few, of many, reasons why we should disunite ourselves from this Communist controlled organization are as follows:

1. The UN was erected on a false foundation. It was to be composed of peaceful nations. Is Soviet Russia a peaceful nation? Much disillusionment stems from this false foundation.

2. A United States Senate spot check in January 1951 found that thirty two per cent of UN representatives from foreign countries were trained Communist spies and twenty nine per cent were actually under surveillance by the FBI.

3. Lets face it. We have been lulled to sleep by Red propaganda. For years we have been taught that the UN was formed to save the world(For whom?) Yet, all we have been doing is paying the bills and surrendering our precious hard - won heritage and freedom.

4. Everytime we negotiate in the UN, the game we are playing lose, heads they win."

5. The action of the UN in Katanga alone this year should indicate to all the direction in which this organization is headed.

6. The UN is the proving ground for the proponents of World Government. If it were not for the all important Connally Reservation, you would have to ask someone permission to play your guitar and I would not be able to get this letter past a central committee.

On October 24 of this year, we will again be called upon officially by our government and unofficially by all the propaganda media, to celebrate United Nations Day. Does it not strike you as ironic that Soviet Russia officially accepted and joined the UN October 24, 1945.

Now Sir, based upon the action already taken by our Louisiana legislature, and viewing the above substantiated facts, I respectfully request that you proclaim to the people of this great state that you will not proclaim October 24, or any other day, as United Nations day in the State of Louisiana.

Very truly yours,
LOU DUNCKELMAN

Asks Barnett Support

Vidalia, La.

To the Editor:

Right when you need to give Gov. Barnett a lot of moral support with a good editorial you are silent on that brazen affront and threat from the Kennedy dynasty. Even Gov. Davis has his head in the sand.

Come on and say plenty to support this Mississippi stand on integration. I know you can do it uniquely if you will.

Let Mississippi have your support. It looks like we will have to fight the d--- Yankees again.

WASHINGTON SHORTS

WAYS AND MEANS—Ways and Means of getting on the Ways and Means Committee are in the thoughts of more than a dozen Southern members of the House of Representatives. Two Democratic vacancies will exist in the next Congress due to the retirement of Representative Burr P. Harrison of Virginia and the defeat of Representative James B. Frazier, Jr., Tennessee. Among those in the fight for a seat of the blue ribbon committee, which handles all revenue measures, are Representatives Kitchen of North Carolina, Bass of Tennessee, Landrum of Georgia, and Downing of Virginia. Should the Republicans win the House, however, not only would the Frazier and Harrison vacancies not be filled by Democrats but one or two of the present committee members with the lowest seniority would be dropped.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

The New Frontier and its spokemen keep insisting that the Kennedy administration is not anti-business. At the drop of a hat, government officials concerned with economic policy contend that their only concern is for the "national interest."

Yet the President himself keeps providing new evidence that the fears of the business community are justified. Just when the American people are beginning to put some faith in the New Frontier's claims of bipartisanship as between labor and management, the President destroys it.

Latest example of the administration's one-sideness in labor-management disputes occurred at the Presidential news conference September 13. Under discussion were two labor disputes — one involving the aerospace industry; the other a two-weeks-old strike on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway.

In the aerospace dispute, the President placed all the prestige of the White House behind the recommendation of a special fact-finding board for union-shop elections to stave off a threatened strike in plants working on spacecraft, planes and missiles.

He said, in effect,, that if the companies didn't accept the union shop recommendations of the special board, the country should blame them for any strike that might result.

The President's statement, actually, was only the final move in a stratagem by the White House to give the unions involved — the United Automobile Workers and the International Association of Machinists — exactly what they have wanted from the beginning. For, in naming the panel, the President had virtually assured the union shop recommendation by placing it in charge of Dr. George Taylor, a known advocate of compulsory unionism. The unions, of course, were quick to accept the board's recommendations. When the employers balked, the President applied his news conference pressure.

However, the situation was quite different when the President was asked — and at the same conference — about the railway strike which is causing great economic damage in nine Midwest states. This dispute is dragging on because the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have refused to accept the recommendation of another Presidential board that it drop its demand for veto power over job reductions caused by technological changes.

In this case, the special board proposed a formula which would ease technological layoffs through liberalized unemployment retaining the severance benefits.

But President Kennedy did not see fit to lend his considerable executive prestige to this recommendation. Nor did he take advantage of the occasion to censure the union for not accepting the recommendation of the emergency fact-finding panel. And, of course, he didn't see fit to commend the management of Great Northwestern for its avowed readiness to negotiate a contract based on his board's recommendations.

The best the President could do in the railway dispute was to urge both sides to make "sufficient concessions" to assure an agreement.

I suggest that this kind of favoritism to powerful unions is unworthy of the President of the United States. And it certainly will do nothing to reassure the business community of the government's goodwill.

How do you stand, sir?

'Effective' Drugs

Medicine's Value Must Be Proven Before It Can Be Marketed

One of the most potent pocketbook provisions in the tough new drug act has been startingly under-reported and under-analyzed to date.

Simply stated it is this: under the new bill, before a drug manufacturer could get government permission to market a new drug, he would have to submit "substantial evidence" that the drug would be effective in treating the condition or illness for which he recommended it as well as safe to use. If he couldn't submit this substantial evidence, his application to market the drug would not be approved.

To grasp the significance of this change, you first must understand that today drug makers need only prove to the Food & Drug Administration's satisfaction that a new drug is safe to get a license to market it. They need not also convince the FDA that the drug will do much, if anything, to cure the illness or ease the distress for which they suggest you buy it.

To give you an inkling of what this has meant, over 20 per cent of the new drugs listed since 1956 have found, upon testing, to be, in President Kennedy's words, "incapable of sustaining one or more of their sponsor's claims regarding their therapeutic effect."

"There is no way," said President Kennedy in his "Consumers' Protection" message back on Mar. 15, "of measuring the needless suffering, the money innocently squandered, and the protraction of illnesses resulting from the use of such ineffective drugs."

But the new act would close this gap — welcome news not only to us and other pocketbooks but also to all reputable drug manufacturers who won't be hurt by this stiffened requirement because they don't try to market quack remedies. Only the unethical fringe in the industry would be hit and, to put it mildly, they deserve it.

Here's a cold, current illustration of this clause's meaning.

Today, if you have an allergy — and huge numbers of Americans have a wide variety of allergies — your physician may prescribe an injection against it. This injection, says one of the most informed sources in the industry, "may not be much more than distilled water. The injection is safe so the FDA couldn't withhold permission to market the drug. But that's about all the drug is. It won't cure the allergy."

The FDA could, of course, under existing law, take action against a firm marketing a quack anti-allergy drug — but it would be a lengthy, costly, inefficient process. It would have to spend two to three years in clinical research to prove it's not effective. It would have to go to court to argue its case probably another couple of years.

Assuming the FDA won, then and only then could it compel withdrawal of the useless drug on the basis that claims made for it were false and misleading.

The new act would eliminate this tortuous procedure. By keeping the drug off the market, the FDA could prevent "the needless suffering, the money innocently squandered, the protraction of illnesses. . ."

The language of the law is specific on this. The Secreary of Health, Education and Welfare can "issue an order refusing to approve the application" of a manufacturer to market a new drug if after due notice to the applicant and a hearing "there is a lack of substantial evidence that the drug will have the effect it purports or is represented to have under the conditions of use prescribed, recommended or suggested in the proposed labeling thereof . . . . or such labeling is false or misleading in any particular . . ." The term "substantial evidence" also is clearly defined. It means evidence "consisting of adequate and well-controlled investigations, including clinical investigations, by experts qualified by scientific training and experience to evaluate the effectiveness of the drug involved."

But the thalidomide disaster put the act where it is. As a result, we are about to get a consumer pocketbook protection which the FDA has been urging for years, on which it has worked closely with the drug manufacturers and which most drug makers agree is badly needed. The days of costly "distilled water" drugs are numbered.

A Look Behind the Headlines

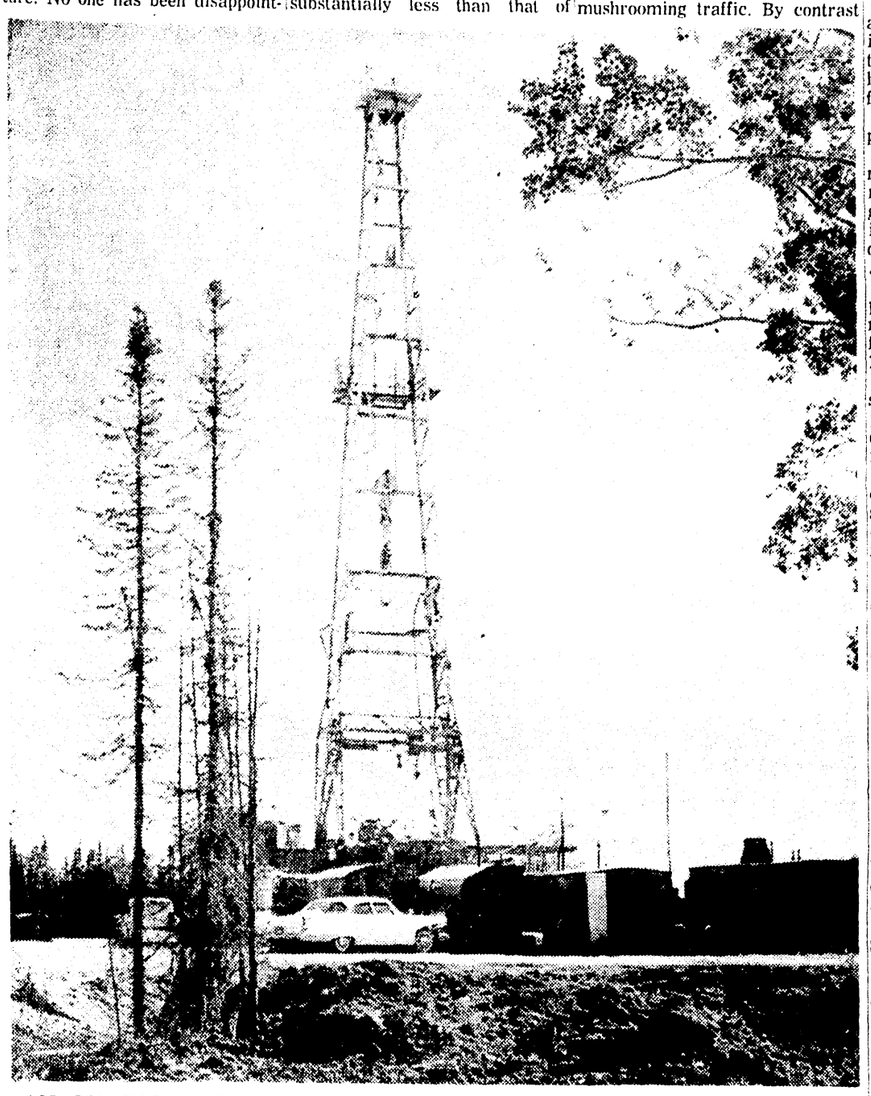
Alaska Finding Many Problems

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — After almost four years in the fold, Alaskans are finding that the streets within the limits of statehood are just about as lumpy as the highway leading to it.

Alaska became the 49th state Jan. 3, 1959, after a long, uphill battle. Every resident knew there was hurdle after hurdle in the future. No one has been disappointed—but few would have it any other way.

The tremendous size of the state and an extremely small population magnify every problem, every plan for development or improvement.

The state has an acreage more than Texas, California and Montana combined. Its population is substantially less than that of Wichita, Kan., although it is rising rapidly. The population jumped from 128,643 in 1950 to 226,167 in 1960.



AN OIL RIG marks new activity on Alaska's Kenai Peninsula where discovery of oil in 1957 gave Alaska's economy a tremendous shot in the arm. Oil and gas lease bonus money, production taxes and lease rental receipts for the 49th state jumped from $1,173 in fiscal 1959 to $21,459,756 in fiscal 1962. (AP Wirephoto)

LARGEST CITY

In Anchorage, with 44,237 the state's largest city, one of the most pressing needs is a freeway or arterial system to handle mushrooming traffic. By contrast complaints came to the legislature this year that the state was becoming lax in marking dog team trails along the northwest coast and the arctic slope.

After years of long-distance rule from Washington as a territory, Alaska upon attaining statehood moved quickly to take over all governmental functions.

It assumed control of a huge and financially important fisheries program and took over operation of a highway program that had floundered aimlesly under federal direction.

It also had to establish a complete state court system.

Alaska's economy, based primarily in the past on fishing, mining and military construction, got a tremendous shot in the arm in 1957 when oil was discovered on the Kenai Peninsula, south of Anchorage.

Oil and gas lease bonus money, production taxes and lease rental receipts jumped from $1,173 in fiscal 1959 to $21,459,756 in fiscal 1962.

Even with this oil money, the state is finding it hard to keep pace with school construction and other vital capital improvement needs.

In remote areas, many native children—and some white youngsters—find their education lopped off because there is no high school in their area.

Alaska's retail sales, according to unofficial figures compiled by the organization sales management, shot up sharply after statehood and then dropped in 1961.

These figures show retail sales (in millions) of $212 for 1958, $214 for 1959, $217 for 1960 and $211 for 1961.

Gross business activity, according to state figures based on the statements of business activity covered by the business license tax, rose from $577.57 million in 1958 to $897.67 million in 1961.

Mining dropped off sharply, because gold producers complain they cannot mine profitably at the pegged price of $35 an ounce.

Fishing, always a question mark from year to year, has held up for the past two years and the total salmon pack this year should surpass 3.4 million 48-pound cases.

EMPLOYMENT

While employment has shown a healthy growth, from 71,100 in July 1958 to 78,000 in July this year, state-insured unemployment rate figures reflect the seasonal nature of work in Alaska.

For instance, in March of 1958, at a time of year when fishing and construction are at a virtual standstill, the insured unemployment rate was 20.4 per cent. It skidded to 4 per cent five months later. In mid-March of this year the figure was 18.2. In Mid-August it was 2.9.

The great needs of Alaska as a state are investment capital for the development of a wealth of natural resources, roads and highways to open up new areas and connect existing centers of population and people.

Even with roads being built this year faster than ever before, many areas of Alaska are without highway connection and, because of that, lie dormant.

The Seward Peninsula, which juts into the Bering Sea, has the only known commercial tin deposit on the North American continent. Without transportation, it is too costly to mine the mineral. With a road link, the area would boom.

A new marine highway system linking the cities of the southeast is scheduled to go into operation soon, giving this area its first surface transportation network.

Plans are also in the works for a ferry link between the Kenai Peninsula and Kodiak Island, the hub of Alaska's growing king crab industry.

Because most consumer goods and supplies must be trucked in over the Alaska Highway or shipped by water, living costs far outstrip those in cities in the south 48.

In Anchorage the cost of living is approximately 26 per cent above Seattle. In Fairbanks, the rate is 36 per cent over Seattle.

Rice And Death Go Together In Little South Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Vo Van Thiem were asleep in their Mekong River delta home when a stray mortar shell came through the thatched roof and blew them to bits.

Rice and death are abundant in South Viet Nam, and they come together.

In a fly-infested hospital at the central coastal town of Quang Ngai, a girl 18, lay, sullen, refusing to talk to anyone.

Her graceful legs were shattered by .50-caliber bullets, and she was waiting a skin graft. She had been chasing pigs out of an open field, but got out of the way too late. A fighter-bomber swept down, guns chattering.

A young, secondary school teacher just graduated from the university was pedaling his book-laden bicycle along a sun-drenched road from the provincial capital where he lived to his school a few kilometers away.

SUDDEN DEATH

The Viet Cong, as the Communist guerrillas are called, had an adobe guard post at one point just off the road, and often stopped traffic to check credentials. The teacher had to pass the spot twice a day, and at times the Communists would threaten him. It was frightening, but he needed the salary, and the government insisted he teach in the provinces.

On this day the Viet Cong did not call out to him. Seven puffs of smoke spurted from the guard post, and the teacher and his bicycle crumpled into a muddy ditch.

Death can strike anywhere and from any direction. It can be a Viet Cong assassin who rips open a door, torch in one hand and tommy gun in the other. Or it can come from a swarm of American helicopters.

The war between international communism and Western civilization has caught the peasants of Viet Nam in a crushing grip.

Saigon, the pearl of Viet Nam, is bulging with newly arrived refugees from the provinces, but signs of war are not obvious. Luxury hotels are thriving, expensive consumer goods pack the shelves of fashionable shops. Well-dressed citizens stroll the shady avenues. Despite an official ban on dancing, social life continues at a merry pace.

But four of every five Vietnamese live in the countryside. Some are fighting fiercely for the government. Some are fighting fiercely for the Viet Cong. Many wish only to survive and raise their families.

In some parts of the country a peasant has a choice of where he will live—a government strategic hamlet or a Viet Cong combat hamlet—often only a few kilometers apart.

In between is no-man's land, where every human being regardless of age or sex is a potential target.

But this is a roving war. It comes to a district, rages furiously for a few hours, and then moves on.

LIFE NORMAL

Most of the time life is relatively normal, and the possibility that the war will come tomorrow is just another natural hazard, like periodic inundations of the Mekong River.

It has been going on, more or less, since the mid-40's.

The U.S. and Vietnamese officials would like to remove the war from the purely civilian population. Accidental civilian casualties tend to help the Viet Cong recruit new fighters from bereaved families. There is growing official sentiment against air strikes against any but known military targets.

"But to slack off on the military drive at all would be to play into the Communists' cruel trap," a high-ranking Western diplomat said. "The Saigon government must make it clear to the nation that it is master of the land. The war must be waged on political, economic and social fronts as well. In any war, people will be killed."

Unemployment Hits Dutch New Guinea

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea (AP) —Dou Akoonewijaaj, along with thousands of native Papuans, is packing up and going back to his village in the stone-age interior.

Dou, 24, clerk in a Dutch trading company here, is leaving because he lost his job. His company decided to close because it does not expect any business after the Dutch transfer West New Guinea to U.N. administration Oct. 1. The territory passes into Indonesian hands next May.

Dou is typical of thousands of Papuans pulling out of Hollandia and other coastal towns because of growing unemployment. Main reason for the return to the bush is that they are bewildered and baffled by 20th century power politics, which is taking the white man away.

UNCERTAIN

Confused and uncertain about his future and distrustful of any change, Dou instinctively is withdrawing to the security and shelter of his village in the central highlands. The Papuan exodus, which is in full swing by boat, plane and on foot, is a return to the isolation given up only a short while ago.

Authorities fear the Papuans may resume headhunting in areas where Dutch control has ceased.

Dou is a member of the fierce Kapauku warrior clan, numbering about 60,000. They live in almost inaccessible jungle highlands in the central part of the 161,000-square mile territory which the 20th century has been unable to penetrate.

Dou's relatives still fight wars over the price of a bride or over an unfaithful wife. Dou, however has tasted white man's civilization and comforts. But he is disillusioned with the Dutch, who promised the Papuans eventual independence, and he is resentful that they agreed to give up West New Guinea without even consulting the Papuans.

Dou says: "The Dutch are cowards; they should stay."

Says Leopold Pospisil, 39, associated professor at Yale University's Department of Anthropology: "They are afraid of change. They do not want the Dutch to leave."

OUT OF BUSH

Pospisil,a Czech-born U.S. citizen, has just come out of the bush in Kamu Valley, where the Kapaukus live. He said they had sent delegations and pleaded with him to persuade the Dutch to stay.

"The dutch withdrawal could easily undo everything the natives have learned so far about civilization," he added. "It is already setting back progress. Everything is at a standstill in the Kamu Valley, and in some cases there is retrogression."

The Papuans may well revert to the stone-Age culture and resume hostilities in areas where authority has already ceased. Headhunting is still prevalent among 15,000 to 20,000 Papuans and may spread once Dutch rule ends.

About 200,000 to 250,000 of an estimated total of 700,000 Papuans have never been administered by the Dutch and still use stone axes. They even use the stone axe in some areas under Dutch control.

The Papuans' average life expectancy is 25 years. Their culture is one of the most primitive in the world. They wear little—usually only a bottle-gourd sheath or just a shell. Their heads, however, are adorned with elaborate netbags made from inner tree bark.

The Kapaukus, like many other Indonesians and Papuans, perforate their noses with boar tusks cut flat and polished.

They use no metal, there is no basketry, no weaving, no pottery and no sculpture.

"The only art they have is making netted bags," says Pospisil "but their primitive culture is blended with amazing, sophisticated economy. Money—shells—is the basis of all trade; there's no barter as in other areas."

Brides, usually 14 or 15 years old, are bought for about 180 shells plus one or two pigs and a string of beads. They use bows and arrows in tribal wars.

"I witnessed a slaughter of 50 persons in a Kapauku clan war three years ago," Pospisil commented.

The Kapauku choose their leaders on basis of wealth and number of wives. He may have up to 10 wives.

Change Is Due Again In Kerala

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

TRIVANDRUM, India (AP) — The shaky government of Kerala, the south Indian state which elected and later ousted a Communist government, is putting its leadership in new hands in an apparent attempt to halt a strong drift back toward Communist rule.

The chief minister of Kerala, Pattom Thanu Pillai, member of the small Peoples Socialist party, has resigned and will become governor of Punjab State, a figurehead job. Pillai, 76, is being succeeded in Kerala by a member of Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party, R. Shankar, former deputy chief minister.

Pillai's government, which had taken over from the Red regime, had completed half its five-year term with little to show to its credit. Internal dissension hampered administration, accompanied by an odor of corruption and virtually no progress on the immense problems facing the state.

Failures of the government led to widespread expectations that the Communists would be returned to power in the next elections.

"And next time they'll be smarter and therefore harder to dislodge," said Archbishop Benedict of Trivandrum, whose Roman Catholic community took a leading part in ending Communist rule.

Pillai was chief minister by virtue of his seniority in the coalition, composed of the minority Peoples Socialist party and the larger Congress party. A leading minister said personal animosities obstructed Cabinet business and hampered the entire government.

One minister said that while the people remained poor, there was large-scale corruption in the government and it was increasing.

Statehood Gave It A Big Boom

By ROBERT MYERS

HONOLULU (AP) — Statehood for Hawaii, as one economist puts it, had the effect of an "unprecedented multimillion-dollar advertising campaign—for free." It caused the biggest boom in the islands' history.

It also set off a quiet but far-reaching readjustment that slowly is changing the social, economic and political structure of the 50th state.

Three years after statehood—Hawaii was formally admitted to the Union Aug. 21, 1959—the islands have seen the economic boom settle into a steady rumble. The first flush of Hawaii's new status has faded but with it has come a base for the future.

The change has not always been smooth. Some Hawaiian old-timers object bitterly to growing commercialism, new apartment houses and buildings stretching into the sky, the faster life. Their complaints go unheeded.

Hawaii's economy, once dedicated to sugar, pineapple and the military, has been strengthened by a lively, new partner—the tourist. Sugar and pineapple are big, but defense spending and the visitor business are growing so fast they have become the cornerstones of the new state.

Uncle Sam spends more than $400 million annually in the islands and the figure is rising each year. Most of the money stays on populous Oahu, site of Honolulu, Pearl Harbor and Schofield Barracks. About 125,000 of the state's 632,772 population belong to military families. Another 25,000 civilians get their paychecks from military or federal government sources.

Tourism normally is subject to the whims of national and world prosperity. This is not always so in Hawaii. Ironically, the biggest visitor month in island history was last June—while the nation's economy and stock market were flip-flopping.

A flood of tourists poured in with statehood. Hotels and apartments sprung up to handle the dollar-bearing swarm and airlines and steamship companies established passenger records almost monthly.

BOOKS

Drury's Sequel Is Controversial

A SHADE OF DIFFERENCE. By Allen Drury. Doubleday. $6.95.

Has the United States been making sufficient progress in racial intergration?

Around this question Drury has built a dramatic novel set mainly at United Nations headquarters, with other scenes in Washington, D. C. and Charleston, S. C.

It contains some of the same characters who were in "Advise and Consent," his popular, Pulitzer Prize-winning novel about a bitter struggle in the United States over the confirmation of a cabinet appointee. His projected series will include a third book on a national political convention and campaign and a fourth on a new administration taking power.

This huge (603-page) book also raises a question about the United Nations: Are the racial bickerings of the new nations of Africa and Asia a threat to the future of the U. N.?

Drury gives no direct answer to either question, but he makes the most of their implications. He uses a large cast of characters, with two major villians and two major heroes.

The No. 1 villian is His Royal Highness Terence Ajkaje, the M'bulu of Mbuele, otherwise known as Terrible Terry, a huge man who is a cunning schemer and opportunist. He comes from a ratty, desolate little country in Africa to which the British have promised political freedom in one year — against their better judgment, for it is not ready. Terry invades the United Nations to pressure it into a resolution calling for immediate independence.

HE'S AIDED

He is aided by the resolution sponsor, Felix Labaiye-Sofra of Panama, who apparently is motivated by a Latin-America envy of the United States. Felix's situation is complicated by the fact that he is married to the sister of California's governor, who has designs on the presidency. But of course Terry and Felix have the backing of the Soviets, who seek to discredit the Americans.

The crux of the plot comes when Terry creates an international incident by leading a little Negro girl up the steps to a school in Charleston, which results in a riot. Then there develops a fight in the United Nations to add to the independence resolution an amendment censuring the United States and authorizing an investigation of America's racial policies.

The principal hero is Cullee Hamilton, a young Negro congressman from California. He is a moderate on racial questions, and thereby is caught in the middle. His wife and his longtime friend, LeGage Shelby — who runs an impatient Negro pressure group — eventually join Terry's campaign. It is Hamilton's task to ram through Congress an apology to Terry that, it is hoped, will head off the U. N. resolution.

In America's fight at the U.N., the principal burden is carried by Sen. Hal Fry, who is ill but valiant in his country's cause.

Dialog Of Son, Mother

MOTHER AND SON. By Isoko and Ichiro Hatano. There are several unusual qualities in this book, which consists of a series of communications between a Japanese mother, Isoko, and her son Ichiro.

They begin in 1944, when Ichiro was a 14 - year - old-school-boy, and they run for about four years. Part of them are letters, written when the two were separated by the exigencies of war. The rest are entries in a sort of journal, written in notebooks while they were together, but had little time for talk.

They come to us from the Japanese — this book was a best seller in Japan — by way of a translation into French and then English. Even in this double metamorphosis, they manage to retain a basic simplicity of expression which is moving.

We find in these communications the theme of noncombatants in a war, and the story of an adolescent boy's questions to his mother. Sometimes dealing with everyday problems, they more often strike fundamental human questions.

In this household the mother was university educated as a child psychologist. American readers may feel she was addicted too much to the permissive attitude which characterized many psychologists in recent years; but then, there is the additional factor that in Japan the fathers and male children traditionally are dominant.

It is significant that the mother lets her son discover for himself that his father, no war-effort jingoist, has his own merit as a scholar.

Certainly the mother emerges as a self-sacrificing heroine in the family's vicissitudes, when they become evacuees from Tokyo. And it is equally certain that the son is revealed as a sincere and searching young soul whose puzzled but well-meaning gropings exhibit an obedience and respect which American adolescents might well emulate.

Good Book On The Civil War

ARMS AND EQUIPMENT OF THE CIVIL WAR. By Jack Coggins. Doubleday. $5.95.

"The Why and Where and When of the (Civil) War has been ably and amply discussed in shelf after shelf of books. This is a book of How and What With."

The quotation comes from the author's preface. It is an apt capsule description.

Coggins is not concerned with the tactics, strategy or casualties of battles. He deals with the men who fought — the weapons they used, the food they ate, the uniforms they wore, how they were cared for and supplied, how they lived in the field.

The book gains immensely in value and importance because Coggins in addition to being a student of weapons and a sound writer is a gifted artist. The illustrations — more than 500 of them according to the jacket — are almost entirely by the author, detailed, graphic and accurate. They cover a wide range — cutaway diagrams of ammunition and weapons, vignettes of troops and auxiliaries, more illuminating than a photograph.

Coggins does not pretend to deal with the whole weird and heterogenous catalog of arms and equipment. But he does give a fresh and authentic insight into How and With What the war was fought.

This Writer Discusses Our Times

MORE LIVES THAN ONE. By Joseph Wood Krutch. Sloane. $5.

Aptly the title of this autobiography makes the point that Krutch is a versatile man. He has been closely identified with major currents in the literary, cultural and socio-political activities of our time.

He was a teacher and biographer at the start of his career and renewed these functions several times during his life.

He tells us about his many years on "The Nation," and how as a member of its editorial board he felt his brand of liberalism of the 1920s was displaced by an increasingly leftish trend in the 1930s, so that he finally bowed out. He remained its dramatic critic for many years, however.

Naturally he gives considerable space to a discussion of how he came to write "The Modern Temper," a book of social criticism which created a stir in 1929 because of its skepticism.

He also gives a careful discourse on how his beliefs changed over the years, the changes culminating in 1954 with the publication of "The Measure of Man," which was Krutch's own answer to himself.

In recent years he has turned his back on the city. Picking up the threads of an interest in nature which began when he was commuting to Connecticut, he has been writing "nature books" in the Southwest.

His autobiography, written in the mellow tenes of a man who has come to terms with life, conveys with charm an interesting commentary on our times.

A Look Behind the Headlines

Alaska Finding Many Problems

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — After almost four years in the fold, Alaskans are finding that the streets within the limits of statehood are just about as lumpy as the highway leading to it.

Alaska became the 49th state Jan. 3, 1959, after a long, uphill battle. Every resident knew there was hurdle after hurdle in the future. No one has been disappointed—but few would have it any other way.

The tremendous size of the state and an extremely small population magnify every problem, every plan for development or improvement.

The state has an acreage more than Texas, California and Montana combined. Its population is substantially less than that of Wichita, Kan., although it is rising rapidly. The population jumped from 128,643 in 1950 to 226,167 in 1960.

LARGEST CITY

In Anchorage, with 44,237 the state's largest city, one of the most pressing needs is a freeway or arterial system to handle mushrooming traffic. By contrast complaints came to the legislature this year that the state was becoming lax in marking dog team trails along the northwest coast and the arctic slope.

After years of long-distance rule from Washington as a territory, Alaska upon attaining statehood moved quickly to take over all governmental functions.

It assumed control of a huge and financially important fisheries program and took over operation of a highway program that had floundered aimlesly under federal direction.

It also had to establish a complete state court system.

Alaska's economy, based primarily in the past on fishing, mining and military construction, got a tremendous shot in the arm in 1957 when oil was discovered on the Kenai Peninsula, south of Anchorage.

Oil and gas lease bonus money, production taxes and lease rental receipts jumped from $1,173 in fiscal 1959 to $21,459,756 in fiscal 1962.

Even with this oil money, the state is finding it hard to keep pace with school construction and other vital capital improvement needs.

In remote areas, many native children—and some white youngsters—find their education lopped off because there is no high school in their area.

Alaska's retail sales, according to unofficial figures compiled by the organization sales management, shot up sharply after statehood and then dropped in 1961.

These figures show retail sales (in millions) of $212 for 1958, $214 for 1959, $217 for 1960 and $211 for 1961.

Gross business activity, according to state figures based on the statements of business activity covered by the business license tax, rose from $577.57 million in 1958 to $897.67 million in 1961.

Mining dropped off sharply, because gold producers complain they cannot mine profitably at the pegged price of $35 an ounce.

Fishing, always a question mark from year to year, has held up for the past two years and the total salmon pack this year should surpass 3.4 million 48-pound cases.

EMPLOYMENT

While employment has shown a healthy growth, from 71,100 in July 1958 to 78,000 in July this year, state-insured unemployment rate figures reflect the seasonal nature of work in Alaska.

For instance, in March of 1958, at a time of year when fishing and construction are at a virtual standstill, the insured unemployment rate was 20.4 per cent. It skidded to 4 per cent five months later. In mid-March of this year the figure was 18.2. In Mid-August it was 2.9.

The great needs of Alaska as a state are investment capital for the development of a wealth of natural resources, roads and highways to open up new areas and connect existing centers of population and people.

Even with roads being built this year faster than ever before, many areas of Alaska are without highway connection and, because of that, lie dormant.

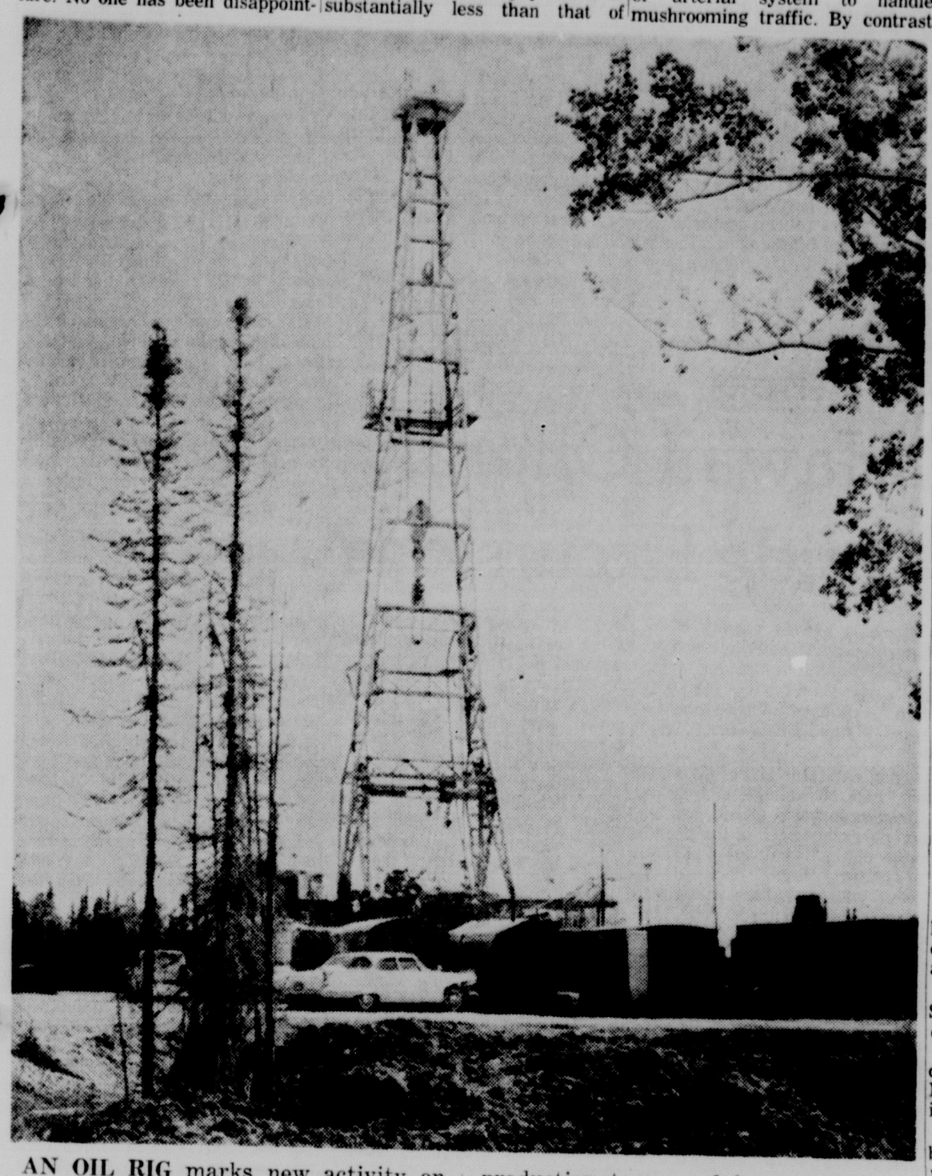
The Seward Peninsula, which juts into the Bering Sea, has the only known commercial tin deposit on the North American continent. Without transportation, it is too costly to mine the mineral. With a road link, the area would boom.

A new marine highway system linking the cities of the southeast is scheduled to go into operation soon, giving this area its first surface transportation network.

Plans are also in the works for a ferry link between the Kenai Peninsula and Kodiak Island, the hub of Alaska's growing king crab industry.

Because most consumer goods and supplies must be trucked in over the Alaska Highway or shipped by water, living costs far outstrip those in cities in the south 48.

In Anchorage the cost of living is approximately 26 per cent above Seattle. In Fairbanks, the rate is 36 per cent over Seattle.



AN OIL RIG marks new activity on Alaska's Kenai Peninsula where discovery of oil in 1957 gave Alaska's economy a tremendous shot in the arm. Oil and gas lease bonus money, production taxes and lease rental receipts for the 49th state jumped from $1,173 in fiscal 1959 to $21,459,756 in fiscal 1962. (AP Wirephoto)

Rice And Death Go Together In Little South Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Vo Van Thiem were asleep in their Mekong River delta home when a stray mortar shell came through the thatched roof and blew them to bits.

Rice and death are abundant in South Viet Nam, and they come together.

In a fly-infested hospital at the central coastal town of Quang Ngai, a girl 18, lay, sullen, refusing to talk to anyone.

Her graceful legs were shattered by .50-caliber bullets, and she was waiting a skin graft. She had been chasing pigs out of an open field, but got out of the way too late. A fighter-bomber swept down, guns chattering.

A young, secondary school teacher just graduated from the university was pedaling his book-laden bicycle along a sun-drenched road from the provincial capital where he lived to his school a few kilometers away.

SUDDEN DEATH

The Viet Cong, as the Communist guerrillas are called, had an adobe guard post at one point just off the road, and often stopped traffic to check credentials. The teacher had to pass the spot twice a day, and at times the Communists would threaten him. It was frightening, but he needed the salary, and the government insisted he teach in the provinces.

On this day the Viet Cong did not call out to him. Seven puffs of smoke spurted from the guard post, and the teacher and his bicycle crumpled into a muddy ditch.

Death can strike anywhere and from any direction. It can be a Viet Cong assassin who rips open a door, torch in one hand and tommy gun in the other. Or it can come from a swarm of American helicopters.

The war between international communism and Western civilization has caught the peasants of Viet Nam in a crushing grip.

Saigon, the pearl of Viet Nam, is bulging with newly arrived refugees from the provinces, but signs of war are not obvious. Luxury hotels are thriving, expensive consumer goods pack the shelves of fashionable shops. Well-dressed citizens stroll the shady avenues. Despite an official ban on dancing, social life continues at a merry pace.

But four of every five Vietnamese live in the countryside. Some are fighting fiercely for the government. Some are fighting fiercely for the Viet Cong. Many wish only to survive and raise their families.

In some parts of the country a peasant has a choice of where he will live—a government strategic hamlet or a Viet Cong combat hamlet—often only a few kilometers apart.

In between is no-man's land, where every human being regardless of age or sex is a potential target.

But this is a roving war. It comes to a district, rages furiously for a few hours, and then moves on.

LIFE NORMAL

Most of the time life is relatively normal, and the possibility that the war will come tomorrow is just another natural hazard, like periodic inundations of the Mekong River.

It has been going on, more or less, since the mid-40's.

The U.S. and Vietnamese officials would like to remove the war from the purely civilian population. Accidental civilian casualties tend to help the Viet Cong recruit new fighters from bereaved families. There is growing official sentiment against air strikes against any but known military targets.

"But to slack off on the military drive at all would be to play into the Communists' cruel trap," a high-ranking Western diplomat said. "The Saigon government must make it clear to the nation that it is master of the land. The war must be waged on political, economic and social fronts as well. In any war, people will be killed."

AS TAKEOVER NEARS

Unemployment Hits Dutch New Guinea

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea (AP)—Dou Akoonewijaaj, along with thousands of native Papuans, is packing up and going back to his village in the stone-age interior.

Dou, 24, clerk in a Dutch trading company here, is leaving because he lost his job. His company decided to close because it does not expect any business after the Dutch transfer West New Guinea to U.N. administration Oct. 1. The territory passes into Indonesian hands next May.

Dou is typical of thousands of Papuans pulling out of Hollandia and other coastal towns because of growing unemployment. Main reason for the return to the bush is that they are bewildered and baffled by 20th century power politics, which is taking the white man away.

UNCERTAIN

Confused and uncertain about his future and distrustful of any change, Dou instinctively is withdrawing to the security and shelter of his village in the central highlands. The Papuan exodus, which is in full swing by boat, plane and on foot, is a return to the isolation given up only a short while ago.

Authorities fear the Papuans may resume headhunting in areas where Dutch control has ceased.

Dou is a member of the fierce Kapauku warrior clan, numbering about 60,000. They live in almost inaccessible jungle highlands in the central part of the 161,000-square mile territory which the 20th century has been unable to penetrate.

Dou's relatives still fight wars over the price of a bride or over an unfaithful wife. Dou, however has tasted white man's civilization and comforts. But he is disillusioned with the Dutch, who promised the Papuans eventual independence, and he is resentful that they agreed to give up West New Guinea without even consulting the Papuans.

Dou says: "The Dutch are cowards; they should stay."

Says Leopold Pospisil, 39, associated professor at Yale University's Department of Anthropology: "They are afraid of change. They do not want the Dutch to leave."

OUT OF BUSH

Pospisil,a Czech-born U.S. citizen, has just come out of the bush in Kamu Valley, where the Kapaukus live. He said they had sent delegations and pleaded with him to persuade the Dutch to stay.

"The dutch withdrawal could easily undo everything the natives have learned so far about civilization," he added. "It is already setting back progress. Everything is at a standstill in the Kamu Valley, and in some cases there is retrogression."

The Papuans may well revert to the stone-Age culture and resume hostilities in areas where authority has already ceased. Headhunting is still prevalent among 15,000 to 20,000 Papuans and may spread once Dutch rule ends.

About 200,000 to 250,000 of an estimated total of 700,000 Papuans have never been administered by the Dutch and still use stone axes. They even use the stone axe in some areas under Dutch control.

The Papuans' average life expectancy is 25 years. Their culture is one of the most primitive in the world. They wear little—usually only a bottle-gourd sheath or just a shell. Their heads, however, are adorned with elaborate netbags made from inner tree bark.

The Kapaukus, like many other Indonesians and Papuans, perforate their noses with boar tusks cut flat and polished.

They use no metal, there is no basketry, no weaving, no pottery and no sculpture.

"The only art they have is making netted bags," says Pospisil "but their primitive culture is blended with amazing, sophisticated economy. Money—shells—is the basis of all trade; there's no barter as in other areas."

Brides, usually 14 or 15 years old, are bought for about 180 shells plus one or two pigs and a string of beads. They use bows and arrows in tribal wars.

"I witnessed a slaughter of 50 persons in a Kapauku clan war three years ago," Pospisil commented.

The Kapauku choose their leaders on basis of wealth and number of wives. He may have up to 10 wives.

West New Guinea is still largely an area where magic and sorcery are practiced. It is an area where the dead are buried in huts placed in trees or in the ground, with the head protruding or mummified. Enemies and criminals are cremated.

ARMS AND EQUIPMENT OF THE CIVIL WAR. By Jack Coggins. Doubleday. $5.95.

"The Why and Where and When of the (Civil) War has been ably and amply discussed in shelf after shelf of books. This is a book of How and What With."

The quotation comes from the author's preface. It is an apt capsule description.

Coggins is not concerned with the tactics, strategy or casualties of battles. He deals with the men who fought — the weapons they used, the food they ate, the uniforms they wore, how they were cared for and supplied, how they lived in the field.

The book gains immensely in value and importance because Coggins in addition to being a student of weapons and a sound writer is a gifted artist. The illustrations — more than 500 of them according to the jacket — are almost entirely by the author, detailed, graphic and accurate. They cover a wide range — cutaway diagrams of ammunition and weapons, vignettes of troops and auxiliaries, more illuminating than a photograph.

Coggins does not pretend to deal with the whole weird and heterogenous catalog of arms and equipment. But he does give a fresh and authentic insight into How and With What the war was fought.

DURING PAST WEEK

Completions Hit 17 In District Oil, Gas Activity

Drilling in the 14 parishes of the Monroe Oil & Gas District leveled on a high plain last week, according to Manager Duncan S. Cook, who reported 17 completions over the area as opposed to 18 the week before.

Bulk of the finals were plit between Ouachita and Union Parishes, reporting totals of four and five wells respectively, all concentrated in the Monroe Gas Field. All were relatively shallow wells, ranging between 2100 and 2400 feet in depth.

Other completions were in Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin, Grant, Morehouse and Tensas Parishes.

Union Parish listed two recompletions as well, both again in the Monroe Field and both units of the United C. Company. They were the Union Producing "C" 14 in section 5-21-3E and the Frost Lumber Industries (Prince) No. 2, section 7-21-3E.

In new locations, the area reported 26 takings, seven of them in Concordia Parish and six in the Union Field. Ouachita Parish recorded only one new location, that in the Monroe Field being George M. Cox's George M. Cox No. 1.

There were 28 wells actively drilling or testing over the district at week's end and Ouachita Parish had three of them, all drilling. One each was found in the Monroe, Cheniere and Calhoun Fields. Ten of the total were in Catahoula Parish and seven in LaSalle.

Cook's records showed 12 wells abandoned during the week, holding the inactive total at 148, while locations numbered 74 and drilling locations 42.

Following is Cook's breakdown on the week's activity:

Past Week Is Dismal Month's End

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—September brings lower stock prices more often than it brings higher ones, and this September ran true to form.

Hope that the month would bring something new and encouraging to Wall Street was dashed and the stock market cut away a sizable percentage of its gains made in the summer rally.

The dismal market performance for the month was launched in the past week when the Dow Jones industrial average sank 12.80 to 578.98.

The decline was accompanied by "zipless" news about business and the economy, concern about the Cuban situation, and a standoffish attitude by the public, so far as the market is concerned.

Yet it all fitted into a broad pattern of market performance which had been anticipated after stocks rebounded from their lows of the year reached last June 26. The theorists then looked for a recovery of from one-third to one-half of the losses taken in the sharp plunge of last spring, followed by a renewed "testing" of the June lows before a really solid rally could be expected.

The rebound from the June lows actually covered about 40 per cent of the steep drop from last December's record high. The Dow industrials recovered 80.24 points from June 26 to the August 23 top of 616.00.

In September the Dow industrials fell 30.20 from the August close of 609.18 to Friday's close.

In the week just ended, the market went through a series of sharp, stabbing declines, punctuated by feeble, unconvincing rallies. It was uncomfortably reminiscent of the market performance just before the "Black Monday" plunge of May 28.

By week's end, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks had fallen 5.0 to 214.9 for its worst weekly loss since the week ended June 23 when it declined 11.6.

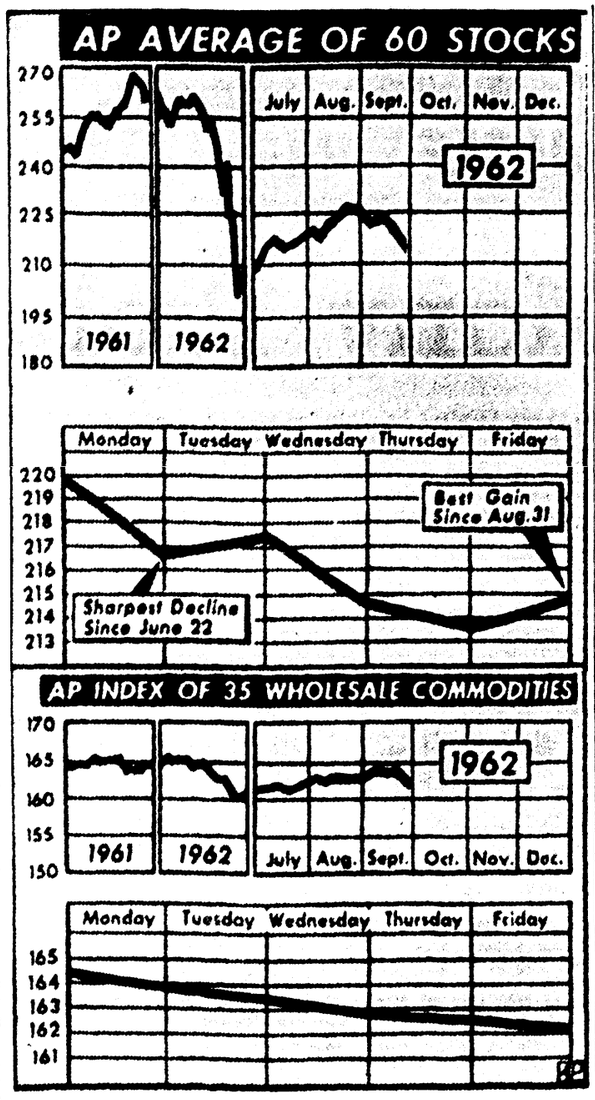
Volume rose to 18,564,370 shares from 17,597,070 the week before and was the heaviest since the week ended Aug. 25 when 20,493,852 shares were traded.

The stage was set for the week's decline by the fact that the Dow Jones industrial average sank below the psychologically important 600 level in the last session of the prior week. This cast a pall of discouragement over Wall Street and prompted a considerable amount of short selling. This is the sale of borrowed stock with the hope that a profit can be made by repaying the stock in the future with shares bought at lower prices. It reflected a continued bearish opinion about the immediate trend, seeming to confirm the theory that the market is likely to make a "test" of its 1962 lows before rebounding strongly.

Bond prices continued to rise in September, but the pace fell short of August's rally. Most U.S. government bonds could achieve only minor gains of about ⅛ of a point.

Corporate bonds posted a moderate advance on the New York Stock Exchange.

The over-all improvement made August and September the first consecutive months to show a general upward movement in bonds since March and April.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks registered its largest weekly loss in three months when it closed Friday at 214.9 from 219.9 a week ago. The commodity index declined sharply this week to 162.1 from 164.3 in the preceding period. Food and livestock were major losers. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

MIXED, CAUTIOUS

Business Optimism Aired For Editors

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers, industrialists and business magazine editors gathered this week to examine the economy and heard mixed but cautiously optimistic reports.

Nork City, and a government briefing of the editors in Washington.

The sessions provided sounding boards for economists, business leaders and public officials at a time of unusually keen interest in the smallest trends of the economy.

Sam M. Fleming of Nashville, Tenn., outgoing president of the Bankers Association, expressed the opinion that "There is no reason in the world to anticipate a recession."

He said that in an economy as large and diverse as that of the United States there are bound to be both favorable and unfavorable signs "but I'm not too pessimistic about our future. However, there's always the chance we could talk ourselves into a recession."

At the Industrial Conference Board session, Robert E. Williams, vice president for sales of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., predicted a relatively moderate business downturn beginning in the first quarter of 1963.

And George Troutt, vice president of Associated Dry Goods Corp., forecast a decline in the economic growth rate in the fourth quarter of this year and the first quarter of next year with a recovery starting in the 1963 second quarter.

However, on the brighter side, there were predictions of sales of seven million new cars next year, an increases in construction and sales of petroleum, chemicals, machinery and equipment and lead.

President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter W. Heller, told the editors he expected a continued modest expansion of business despite mixed trends in the economy.

Kennedy sought to assure the editors that his administration isn't antibusiness but conceded he has found it difficult to keep all business men happy. His secretary of commerce, Luther H. Hodges, expressed the opinion that misunderstanding and recrimination between business and government has been receding in recent weeks.

The stock market took some sharp setbacks during the week and some Wall Street analysts said much of the blame was due to investors' worry over sluggishness of the economy.

Senate and House conference committees reached agreement on a bill which would provide a $1.3 billion annual incentive for business to invest in machinery and equipment. It would allow businesses to charge off on their tax bills up to seven per cent of such spending.

A provision for withholding taxes on dividends and interest—which Kennedy wanted to counterbalance government income—was removed.

The cost of living remained unchanged in August from the July level of 105.5 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

For the first time in more than eight years costs of medical care failed to rise. Robert J. Meyers, deputy labor statistics commissioner, forecast a resumption of the slight increase in the cost of living when the September figures are announced.

Steel production last week increased to 1,715,000 tons, up 2 per cent from the previous week but industry leaders scaled down their 1962 output predictions to 100 million tons or less.

An industry publication, Iron Age, reported that all but a few pockets of abnormally large inventory in the hands of consumers and steel warehousers should be erased by the end of October and that shipments and consumption should reach a fairly good balance.

Four steel companies—Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and National—won their fight against a threat of citation for contempt of Congress for refusing to produce production cost data for the Senate Antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn. As a result, eight other companies which had agreed to supply the information no longer were required to do so. The four companies had argued to the Senate Judiciary Committee that disclosure of cost details would be helpful to domestic and foreign competition.

Automobile production continued to rise with an estimated 148,000 passenger cars coming off assembly lines as manufacturers pushed output of 1963 models with overtime work in some plants. Last week's total was 141,972. In the 1962 model year, which closed this week, 6,686,735 cars were built, a 24 per cent gain over 1961 and second only to 1955.

PUERTO RICO JOB

Drilling Project Goes To Phase 2

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The second phase of a $35 to $50 million drilling project is to begin next week in Puerto Rico.

Project Mohole eventually is to involve a record string of oil drilling pipe of from 30,000 to 35,000 feet even though the objective is not the discovery of oil.

Scientists hope to drill through the earth's crust within the decade and, for the first time, find out the composition and physical properties of the earth's mantle.

Geologists believe the mantle is a mass of solid rock some 1,800 miles thick but, in the absence of samples, no one knows the exact composition.

A drilling crew is to begin next week a 1,000-foot test 1½ miles inland from Mayaguez on the west coast of Puerto Rico. The objective is to find out more about the rock formation which may be encountered while drilling through the crust.

A diamond-studded drill bit shaped like a doughnut will cut out core samples of a rock formation similar to that geologists believe they will find in lower zones of the crust.

Two of the four prospective sites for the ongrange project's final drilling site are near Puerto Rico. One is north of the island and another is off its east coast. The other prospecive sites are off the Hawaiian Islands.

An ocean site will be used in that the earth's crust ranges in thickness from 3 to 30 miles and the ocean floor provides the thinnest segment.

Scientists curently believe the string of pipe that eventually is to reach the mantle will extend through from some 15,000 to 20,000 feet of water and through crust formations approximating another 15,000 feet.

The first phase of Mohole included Pacific tests last year offshore from La Jolla, Calif., and Guadalupe Island near Lower Caliornia.

From a water depth of 3,000 feet, the La Jolla test drilled 1,035 feet beneath the ocean floor. The Guadalupe test was made in 11,700 feet of water and the drill bit probed 601 feet below the ocean floor.

Mohole is sponsored by the National Science Foundation, an independent federal agency. The miscellaneous projects committee of the National Academy of Sciences handled the first phase and is providing scientific advice and guidance for the second phase.

The Puerto Rico test is being drilled on recommendation of the committee.

The National Foundation last February named Brown & Root Inc., a world wide Houston construction and engineering firm, as Mohole's prime contractor. The Boyle Bros. Drilling Co. of Salt Lake City is handling the Puerto Rico test as a subcontractor.

Project Mohole obtains its name from the "Mohorovicic discontinuity," a name scientists have given to the boundary between the crust and the mantle.

The boundary was discovered in 1909 by a Yugoslav seismologist, Dr. Andriju Mohorovicic, while analyzing earthquake waves.

Oil well holes have been drilled on land to depths in excess of 25,000 feet but their bottoms still were miles from the earth's mantle. Scientists believe it would be impossile to reach the mantle from land.

It probably will be at least two or three years before the final phase of Mohole gets under way.

One of the purposes of the Puerto Rico test is to obtain information needed in designing and developing special equipment. A special ship capable of handling the tremendous quantity of drilling equipment must be designed.

Scientists have called Project Mohole man's greatest single geological experiment.

Cotton Futures Show Moderate Market Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices posted moderate gains this week although easing in late trading.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange advanced 45 cents to 85 cents a bale. In the previous week they declined 45 cents to $2.60 a bale.

The early firmness of the market reflected short covering in the spot month and the relatively prompt stopping of notices. Bullish sentiment was influenced by the continuing increase in loan entries.

The exchange said a factor in the easing of the distant positions was a statement by President Kennedy that the Department of Agriculture in January will submit a plan to eliminate "inequities" between subsidized cotton prices for export and higher domestic prices paid by U. S. Mills.

The Census Bureau reported that 1,214,000 bales had been ginned during the first half of September, bringing the total through Sept. 15 to 2,715,000 bales.

The Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated that 399,000 bales had been exported for the season through Sept. 25 against 919,000 in the same period last season. For the week ended Tuesday, exports totaled 33,000 bales against 45,000 the previous week and 131,00 a year earlier.

WELCOME FOR ALL

Belgian Hospitality Is Big Asset For Traveler

BRUSSELS — The traveler, trained in the fine art of combining business with pleasure, can have a field day in Belgium. A hard-working, hospitable people, the Belgians are as anxious to show off their workshops and factories as their resorts and art treasures.

No one has to be a tycoon in steel to inspect the blast furnaces of Liege or a buyer from Tiffany's to view the diamond-cutting centers of Antwerp. The tourist needs no other motive than plain curiosity to be invited to watch artisans weaving tapestries, fashioning precision rifles or turning out exquisite glass crystal. The arts and crafts of this prosperous nation reflect centuries of tradition, and offer the outsider a keen insight into the Belgian way of life.

HOSPITALITY

Anyone who wants to meet a Belgian who shares his profession or hobby can do so with no effort at all. Americans, who do not know their apartment house neighbors back home, return with glowing reports of the hospitality of their new Belgian friends. The moving force behind all this meet-the-people-at-work-and-play sociability is the Belgian Information Office at 3 rue Montoyer in Brussels, which supports Europe's "Open House" in the fall and winter months.

The sophisticated capital of a tiny nation, Brussels is the hub for all travelers, whether they come to work, play or walk the tight rope between the two. The city, incidentally, is at its fashionable best in the fall, when the opera, theaters and smart supper clubs re-open after the summer lull. The cost of a flight from New York to Brussels between October 1 and March 31 is at its lowest, reports Pan American Airways. The 17-day Excursion Fare brings the price of a round-trip down to $389.60 — a saving of $136 over regular Economy fares.

Thanks to the World's Fair held in the city a few years ago, Brussels has its share of modern, central hotels, such as the Amigo with 170 rooms. Now under construction at a cost of eight million dollars is a 25-story hostelry, the tallest not only in Brussels but in Europe. These modern inns are in sharp contrast to such temples of tradition as the Metropole with its crystal chandeliers and drawing room elegance. The quality of service and courtesy in these establishments, new or old, is impeccable.

As the capital of the European Common Market, Brussels is the showcase of the Continent. Shop windows are crammed with imported luxury items, but the best bargain for tourists, of course, is such high quality Belgian merchandise as lace, linen, leatherwork, hand - wrought firearms, tapestries, crystal and jewelry. Since no point in the country is more than a few hours' drive from Brussels, the travelers can easily take in the studios of artists and artisans outside the big cities.

FOR BELL RINGERS

A pleasant day's excursion along these lines leads from Brussels via Malines to the port of Antwerp 28 miles away. Malines, a medieval town still the seat of the Belgian Primate, is famous for its 13th Century Cathedral with its unfinished tower rising some 320 feet. At the top of the tower is a 45-bell carillon, one of the finest in the world. A school for bell ringers or "carillonneurs" was founded in Malines 70 years ago to revive this rare art. When carillon concerts are held, crowds gather in the square below to listen to the great waves of melody floating out over the town.

Another ancient art which continues to flourish in Malines is tapestry making. The Malines plant, larger than the Gobelin works in France, has an international reputation. The huge tapestry, hanging in the United Nations Building in New York, was fashioned on the looms of Malines. New methods are being applied to this old craft and designs are being changed to appeal to contemporary tastes.

Nothing typifies the mercantile spirit of Malines more perfectly than the Market Square with its handsome 14th Century Cloth Hall, seat of the cloth guild in the Renaissance. Other sights include the Palace of Justice with its ornate galleries, and the Church of St. John with a fine triptych by Rubens.

Antwerp, a city rebuilt after the last war, still contains many traces of its glorious past. Among them is the vast cathedral, begun in 1352; the home of Rubens with an array of drawings by the master; the Museum of Fine Arts with a superb collection of works by Breughels, Hals, van Eyck, Meling, and, of course, Rubens. The Market Square, as in all Belgian cities, contains its share of Guild Houses and a Town Hall, restored in gaudy Gothic detail.

DIAMOND CLUB

Antwerp shares with Amsterdam a reputation as the diamond-cutting center of the world. Anyone can be admitted to these workshops by contacting the Secretary of the Diamond Club, Pelikaanstraat, 62, Antwerp. Shoppers who do not know an old cut from a new or how to determine a flawless stone and select a setting should proceed with caution. Prices are most reasonable by New York standards, but the advice of a reliable jeweler is invaluable.

As simple as a sidetrip from Brussels to Antwerp are excursions to such other scenic cities as Bruges, Ghent or Liege. Summer or winter, the landscape is a dream of beauty with its windmills, tiny chapels and medieval facades. Winter, however, is a gala time in the villages with one carnival after another from early December until the start of Lent.

FOR VISITORS

Hawaii Offering Wide Excursions

There is a wide variety of off-the-beaten-track activities and excursions for the vacationer to Hawaii who ventures beyond the palm - fringed shores of the famed Waikiki Beach resort mecca.

Oahu, capital island of the chain and locale of Waikiki, has all the sophistication of a glamourous resort mecca but each of the islands in the chain has its own particular charm. Each, too, is endowed with a balmy year-round climate, cooling tradewinds and scenic beauty.

Even on Oahu, just minutes away from Waikiki Beach, the adventurous in spirit can follow the route of the old Oahu Railway to remote Kaena Point where they can pitch a tent, fish from the rocks and explore the rugged terrain. The road leading to the point winds along the leeward shore of Oahu where the Makaha Surfing Championships are held each January and turquoise waters of Pokai Bay hold promise of a future resort site.

On the north shore of Oahu, treks to Sacred Falls and Waimea Falls afford an insight to the Hawaii of yesteryear and cool mountain pools offer a sharp contrast to the warmer ocean swimming a few miles below. Horseback trips along the beach or mountain trails can also be arranged through stables all along the Windward Coast.

Hikers have many trails to choose from on Oahu. Information on organized hikes and well marked trails can be obtained from members of the local clubs on the island. And for the truly young of heart, a ti-leaf slide down the precipitous slopes of an island mountain side offers all the thrills of a toboggan ride — sans snow!

From the Honolulu International Airport it is just a few minutes' flight to Hawaii's Neighbor Islands of Kauai, Maui and Hawaii where there are numerous offbeat trips and activities to delight the hearts of the most free spirited traveler.

These include pig and bird hunting, trout fishing (in season) in the rugged Waimea Canyon region of the island of Kauai. Also, for the rugged outdoorsman, the seven mile hike along the Na Pali cliffs offers a real challenge. Horseback trips along the upper Wailua River to the foot of Mt. Waialeale or moonlight rides along the beach can also be enjoyed on this island which is aptly called the Garden Isle.

To the south of Oahu is Maui, the Valley Isle. A trip into mammoth Haleakala Crater — by foot or horseback — is a highlight of a Maui island visit. More than 3,000 feet below the 10,000 foot summit of the dormant volcano, is the glistening black sand floor of the crater. Unique volcanic formations, fields of the rare silversword plant and rocky desert-like terrain afford an eery "out of this world" atmosphere for this Hawaiian expedition.

A wealth of Hawaiiana can also be found on the Valley Isle. Ancient Petroglyphs, heiaus (temples), village ruins and burial caves abound on its shores. Although the roads circling the ends of the islands are far from super highways they are passable most of the year, winding through rolling pasture lands and groves of brightly hued wili wili trees.

Southernmost of the Hawaiian chain is the Big Island of Hawaii, and "big" it is! Here is your "drive in" volcano in the Hawaii Valcanoes National Park and here too is a network of fine parks for camping, picnicking or just plain sightseeing.

Off - the - beaten tourist path is the jeep trip into Waipio Valley, site of an ancient village, temple and lush vegetation. The Kohala ditch trail also offers some of Hawaii's most outstanding sightseeing.

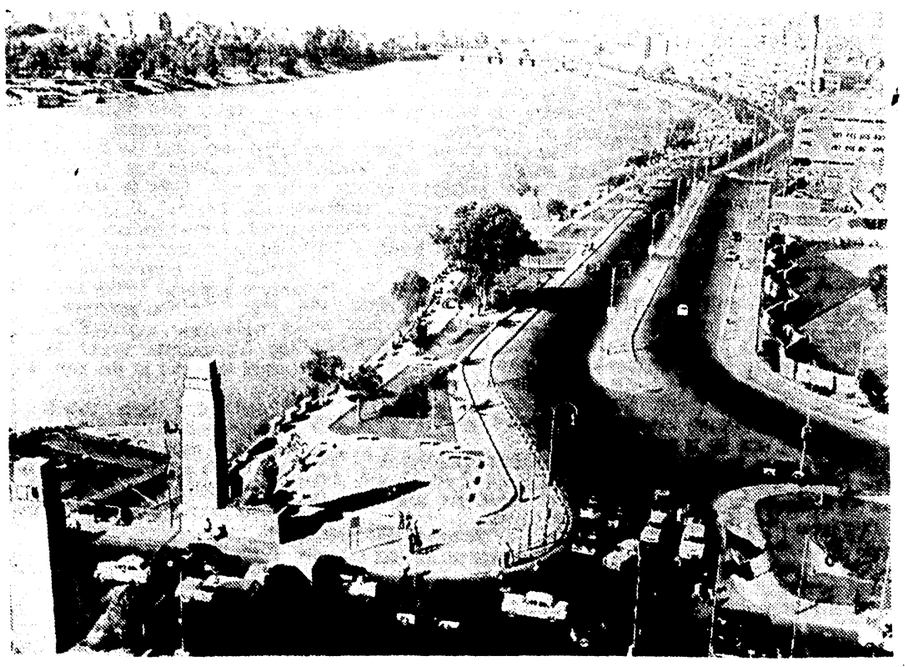
Puerto Rico Has Charms For Everyone

SAN JUAN, P. R. (UPI) — Even a quick glance about — at the blue sea, palms, luring green mountains, luxury resort hotels, forceful reminders of a four-centuries - old Spanish culture — and it's no longer a mystery why Puerto Rico has become THE place to visit in the Caribbean.

Day or night there is something for everyone in and about this capital of the only Commonwealth of the United States. Beaches, pools, snorkeling, SCUBA diving, golf (with one course winding through the moat of a 400-year-old fortress), deep sea fishing, sailing.

Night presents a spectrum of entertainment possible only in a resort so popular that it now is attracting nearly 350,000 visitors annually, mostly from the mainland United States.

You won't read about it in the alluring advertisements, but there is casino gambling at several of the larger resort hotels, although it's of a flavor apart from either the European casinos or the more frantic variety in Las Vegas.



CAIRO'S CORNICHE ROAD is one of the main boulevards of Egypt's thriving capital. Along the street are modern apartments, office buildings and the Nile Hilton, a huge steel and glass edifice, which overlooks the Nile and distant pyramids.

DURING PAST WEEK

Completions Hit 17 In District Oil, Gas Activity

Drilling in the 14 parishes of the Monroe Oil & Gas District levelled on a high plain last week, according to Manager Duncan S. Cook, who reported 17 completions over the area as opposed to 18 the week before.

Bulk of the finals were plit between Ouachita and Union Parishes, reporting totals of four and five wells respectively, all concentrated in the Monroe Gas Field. All were relatively shallow wells, ranging between 2100 and 2400 feet in depth.

Other completions were in Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin, Grant, Morehouse and Tensas Parishes.

Union Parish listed two recompletions as well, both again in the Monroe Field and both units of the United C. Company. They were the Union Producing "C" 14 in section 5-21-3E and the Frost Lumber Industries (Primos) No. 2, section 7-21-3E.

In new locations, the area reported 26 stakings, seven of them in Concordia Parish and six in the Union Field. Ouachita Parish recorded only one new location, that in the Monroe Field being George M. Cox's George M. Cox No. 1.

There were 28 wells actively drilling or testing over the district at week's end and Ouachita Parish had three of them, all drilling. One each was found in the Monroe, Cheniere and Calhoun Fields. Ten of the total were in Catahoula Parish and seven in LaSalle.

Cook's records showed 13 wells abandoned during the week, holding the inactive total at 148, while locations numbered 74 and drilling locations 42.

Following is Cook's breakdown on the week's activity:

Past Week Is Dismal Month's End

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—September brings lower stock prices more often than it brings higher ones, and this September ran true to form.

Hope that the month would bring something new and encouraging to Wall Street was dashed and the stock market cut away a sizable percentage of its gains made in the summer rally.

The dismal market performance for the month was launched in the past week when the Dow Jones industrial average sank 12.80 to 578.98.

The decline was accompanied by "zipless" news about business and the economy, concern about the Cuban situation, and a standoffish attitude by the public, so far as the market is concerned.

Yet it all fitted into a broad pattern of market performance which had been anticipated after stocks rebounded from their lows of the year reached last June 26. The theorists then looked for a recovery of from one-third to one-half of the losses taken in the sharp plunge of last spring, followed by a renewed "testing" of the June lows before a really solid rally could be expected.

The rebound from the June lows actually covered about 40 per cent of the steep drop from last December's record high. The Dow industrials recovered 80.24 points from June 26 to the August 23 top of 616.00.

In September the Dow industrials fell 30.20 from the August close of 609.18 to Friday's close.

In the week just ended, the market went through a series of sharp, stabbing declines, punctuated by feeble, unconvincing rallies. It was uncomfortably reminiscent of the market performance just before the "Black Monday" plunge of May 28.

By week's end, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks had fallen 5.0 to 214.9 for its worst weekly loss since the week ended June 23 when it declined 11.6.

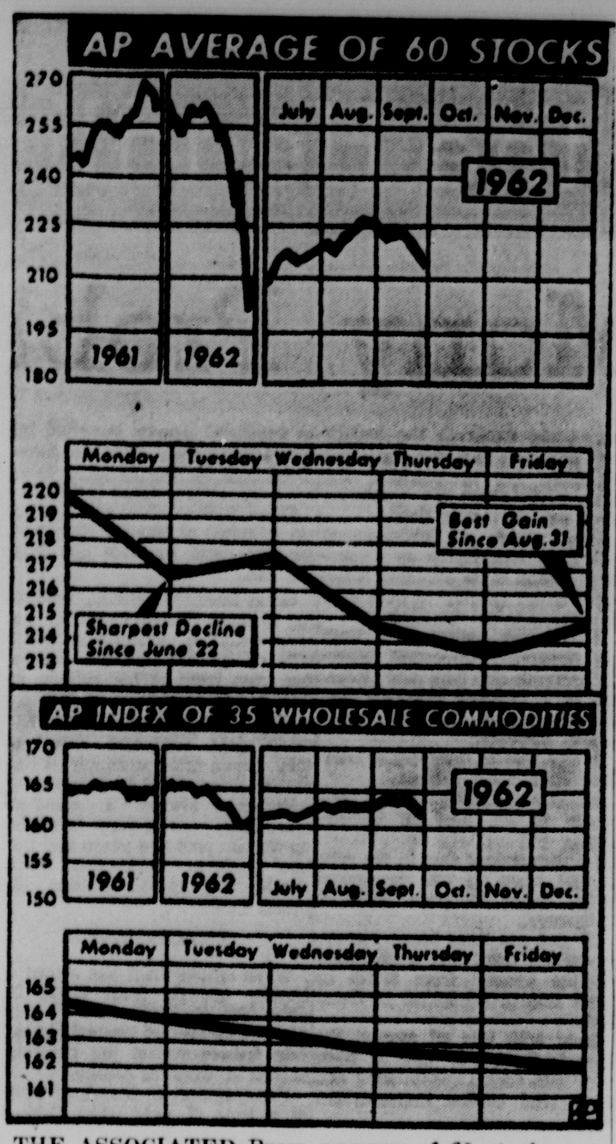
Volume rose to 18,564,370 shares from 17,597,070 the week before and was the heaviest since the week ended Aug. 25 when 20,493,852 shares were traded.

The stage was set for the week's decline by the fact that the Dow Jones industrial average sank below the psychologically important 600 level in the last session of the prior week. This cast a pall of discouragement over Wall Street and prompted a considerable amount of short selling. This is the sale of borrowed stock with the hope that a profit can be made by repaying the stock in the future with shares bought at lower prices. It reflected a continued bearish opinion about the immediate trend, seeming to confirm the theory that the market is likely to make a "test" of its 1962 lows before rebounding strongly.

Bond prices continued to rise in September, but the pace fell short of August's rally. Most U.S. government bonds could achieve only minor gains of about ⅛ of a point.

Corporate bonds posted a moderate advance on the New York Stock Exchange.

The over-all improvement made August and September the first consecutive months to show a general upward movement in bonds since March and April.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks registered its largest weekly loss in three months when it closed Friday at 214.9 from 219.9 a week ago. The commodity index declined sharply this week to 162.1 from 164.3 in the preceding period. Food and livestock were major losers. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

MIXED, CAUTIOUS

Business Optimism Aired For Editors

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers, industrialists and business magazine editors gathered this week to examine the economy and heard mixed but cautiously optimistic reports.

Nork City, and a government briefing of the editors in Washington.

The sessions provided sounding boards for economists, business leaders and public officials at a time of unusually keen interest in the smallest trends of the economy.

Sam M. Fleming of Nashville, Tenn., outgoing president of the Bankers Association, expressed the opinion that "There is no reason in the world to anticipate a recession."

He said that in an economy as large and diverse as that of the United States there are bound to be both favorable and unfavorable signs "but I'm not too pessimistic about our future. However, there's always the chance we could talk ourselves into a recession."

At the Industrial Conference Board session, Robert E. Williams, vice president for sales of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., predicted a relatively moderate business downturn beginning in the first quarter of 1963.

And George Troutt, vice president of Associated Dry Goods Corp., forecast a decline in the economic growth rate in the fourth quarter of this year and the first quarter of next year with a recovery starting in the 1963 second quarter.

However, on the brighter side, there were predictions of sales of seven million new cars next year, an increases in construction and sales of petroleum, chemicals, machinery and equipment and lead.

President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter W. Heller, told the editors he expected a continued modest expansion of business despite mixed trends in the economy.

Kennedy sought to assure the editors that his administration isn't antibusiness but conceded he has found it difficult to keep all business men happy. His secretary of commerce, Luther H. Hodges, expressed the opinion that misunderstanding and recrimination between business and government has been receding in recent weeks.

The stock market took some sharp setbacks during the week and some Wall Street analysts said much of the blame was due to investors' worry over sluggishness of the economy.

Senate and House conference committees reached agreement on a bill which would provide a $1.3 billion annual incentive for business to invest in machinery and equipment. It would allow businesses to charge off on their tax bills up to seven per cent of such spending.

A provision for withholding taxes on dividends and interest—which Kennedy wanted to counterbalance government income—was removed.

The cost of living remained unchanged in August from the July level of 105.5 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

For the first time in more than eight years costs of medical care failed to rise. Robert J. Meyers, deputy labor statistics commissioner, forecast a resumption of the slight increase in the cost of living when the September figures are announced.

Steel production last week increased to 1,715,000 tons, up 2 per cent from the previous week but industry leaders scaled down their 1962 output predictions to 100 million tons or less.

An industry publication, Iron Age, reported that all but a few pockets of abnormally large inventory in the hands of consumers and steel warehousers should be erased by the end of October and that shipments and consumption should reach a fairly good balance.

Four steel companies—Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and National—won their fight against a threat of citation for contempt of Congress for refusing to produce production cost data for the Senate Antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn. As a result, eight other companies which had agreed to supply the information no longer were required to do so. The four companies had argued to the Senate Judiciary Committee that disclosure of cost details would be helpful to domestic and foreign competition.

Automobile production continued to rise with an estimated 148,000 passenger cars coming off assembly lines as manufacturers pushed output of 1963 models with overtime work in some plants. Last week's total was 141,972. In the 1962 model year, which closed this week, 6,686,735 cars were built, a 24 per cent gain over 1961 and second only to 1965.

PUERTO RICO JOB

Drilling Project Goes To Phase 2

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The second phase of a $35 to $50 million drilling project is to begin next week in Puerto Rico.

Project Mohole eventually is to involve a record string of oil drilling pipe of from 30,000 to 35,000 feet even though the objective is not the discovery of oil.

Scientists hope to drill through the earth's crust within the decade and, for the first time, find out the composition and physical properties of the earth's mantle.

Geologists believe the mantle is a mass of solid rock some 1,800 miles thick but, in the absence of samples, no one knows the exact composition.

A drilling crew is to begin next week a 1,000-foot test 1½ miles inland from Mayaguez on the west coast of Puerto Rico. The objective is to find out more about the rock formation which may be encountered while drilling through the crust.

A diamond-studded drill bit shaped like a doughnut will cut out core samples of a rock formation similar to that geologists believe they will find in lower zones of the crust.

Two of the four prospective sites for the ongrange project's final drilling site are near Puerto Rico. One is north of the island and another is off its east coast. The other prospecive sites are off the Hawaiian Islands.

An ocean site will be used in that the earth's crust ranges in thickness from 3 to 30 miles and the ocean floor provides the thinnest segment.

Scientists curently believe the string of pipe that eventually is to reach the mantle will extend through from some 15,000 to 20,000 feet of water and through crust formations approximating another 15,000 feet.

The first phase of Mohole included Pacific tests last year offshore from La Jolla, Calif., and Guadalupe Island near Lower Caliornia.

From a water depth of 3,000 feet, the La Jolla test drilled 1,035 feet beneath the ocean floor. The Guadalupe test was made in 11,700 feet of water and the drill bit probed 601 feet below the ocean floor.

Mohole is sponsored by the National Science Foundation, an independent federal agency. The miscellaneous projects committee of the National Academy of Sciences handled the first phase and is providing scientific advice and guidance for the second phase.

The Puerto Rico test is being drilled on recommendation of the committee.

The National Foundation last February named Brown & Root Inc., a world wide Houston construction and engineering firm, as Mohole's prime contractor. The Boyle Bros. Drilling Co. of Salt Lake City is handling the Puerto Rico test as a subcontractor.

Project Mohole obtains its name from the "Mohorovicic discontinuity," a name scientists have given to the boundary between the crust and the mantle.

The boundary was discovered in 1909 by a Yugoslav seismologist, Dr. Andriju Mohorovicic, while analyzing earthquake waves.

Oil well holes have been drilled on land to depths in excess of 25,000 feet but their bottoms still were miles from the earth's mantle. Scientists believe it would be impossile to reach the mantle from land.

It probably will be at least two or three years before the final phase of Mohole gets under way.

One of the purposes of the Puerto Rico test is to obtain information needed in designing and developing special equipment. A special ship capable of handling the tremendous quantity of drilling equipment must be designed.

Scientists have called Project Mohole man's greatest single geological experiment.

Cotton Futures Show Moderate Market Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices posted moderate gains this week although easing in late trading.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange advanced 45 cents to 85 cents a bale. In the previous week they declined 45 cents to $2.60 a bale.

The early firmness of the market reflected short covering in the spot month and the relatively prompt stopping of notices. Bullish sentiment was influenced by the continuing increase in loan entries.

The exchange said a factor in the easing of the distant positions was a statement by President Kennedy that the Department of Agriculture in January will submit a plan to eliminate "inequities" between subsidized cotton prices for export and higher domestic prices paid by U. S. Mills.

The Census Bureau reported that 1,214,000 bales had been ginned during the first half of September, bringing the total through Sept. 15 to 2,715,000 bales.

The Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated that 399,000 bales had been exported for the season through Sept. 25 against 919,000 in the same period last season. For the week ended Tuesday, exports totaled 33,000 bales against 45,000 the previous week and 131,00 a year earlier.

Traveling Topics

WELCOME FOR ALL

Belgian Hospitality Is Big Asset For Traveler

BRUSSELS — The traveler, trained in the fine art of combining business with pleasure, can have a field day in Belgium. A hard-working, hospitable people, the Belgians are as anxious to show off their workshops and factories as their resorts and art treasures.

No one has to be a tycoon in steel to inspect the blast furnaces of Liege or a buyer from Tiffany's to view the diamond-cutting centers of Antwerp. The tourist needs no other motive than plain curiosity to be invited to watch artisans weaving tapestries, fashioning precision rifles or turning out exquisite glass crystal. The arts and crafts of this prosperous nation reflect centuries of tradition, and offer the outsider a keen insight into the Belgian way of life.

HOSPITALITY

Anyone who wants to meet a Belgian who shares his profession or hobby can do so with no effort at all. Americans, who do not know their apartment house neighbors back home, return with glowing reports of the hospitality of their new Belgian friends. The moving force behind all this meet-the-people-at-work-and-play sociability is the Belgian Information Office at 3 rue Montoyer in Brussels, which supports Europe's "Open House"in the fall and winter months.

The sophisticated capital of a tiny nation, Brussels is the hub for all travelers, whether they come to work, play or walk the tight rope between the two. The city, incidentally, is at its fashionable best in the fall, when the opera, theaters and smart supper clubs re-open after the summer lull. The cost of a flight from New York to Brussels between October 1 and March 31 is at its lowest, reports Pan American Airways. The 17-day Excursion Fare brings the price of a round-trip down to $389.60 — a saving of $136 over regular Economy fares.

Thanks to the World's Fair held in the city a few years ago, Brussels has its share of modern, central hotels, such as the Amigo with 170 rooms. Now under construction at a cost of eight million dollars is a 25-story hostelry, the tallest not only in Brussels but in Europe. These modern inns are in sharp contrast to such temples of tradition as the Metropole with its crystal chandeliers and drawing room elegance. The quality of service and courtesy in these establishments, new or old, is impeccable.

As the capital of the European Common Market, Brussels is the showcase of the Continent. Shop windows are crammed with imported luxury items, but the best bargain for tourists, of course, is such high quality Belgian merchandise as lace, linen, leatherwork, hand - wrought firearms, tapestries, crystal and jewelry. Since no point in the country is more than a few hours' drive from Brussels, the travelers can easily take in the studios of artists and artisans outside the big cities.

FOR BELL RINGERS

A pleasant day's excursion along these lines leads from Brussels via Malines to the port of Antwerp 28 miles away. Malines, a medieval town still the seat of the Belgian Primate, is famous for its 13th Century Cathedral with its unfinished tower rising some 320 feet. At the top of the tower is a 45-bell carillon, one of the finest in the world. A school for bell ringers or "carillonneurs" was founded in Malines 70 years ago to revive this rare art. When carillon concerts are held, crowds gather in the square below to listen to the great waves of melody floating out over the town.

Another ancient art which continues to flourish in Malines is tapestry making. The Malines plant, larger than the Gobelin works in France, has an international reputation. The huge tapestry, hanging in the United Nations Building in New York, was fashioned on the looms of Malines. New methods are being applied to this old craft and designs are being changed to appeal to contemporary tastes.

Nothing typifies the mercantile spirit of Malines more perfectly than the Market Square with its handsome 14th Century Cloth Hall, seat of the cloth guild in the Renaissance. Other sights include the Palace of Justice with its ornate galleries, and the Church of St. John with a fine triptych by Rubens.

Antwerp, a city rebuilt after the last war, still contains many traces of its glorious past. Among them is the vast cathedral, begun in 1352; the home of Rubens with an array of drawings by the master; the Museum of Fine Arts with a superb collection of works by Breughels, Hals, van Eyck, Meling, and, of course, Rubens. The Market Square, as in all Belgian cities, contains its share of Guild Houses and a Town Hall, restored in gaudy Gothic detail.

DIAMOND CLUB

Antwerp shares with Amsterdam a reputation as the diamond-cutting center of the world. Anyone can be admitted to these workshops by contacting the Secretary of the Diamond Club, Pelikaanstraat, 62, Antwerp. Shoppers who do not know an old cut from a new or how to determine a flawless stone and select a setting should proceed with caution. Prices are most reasonable by New York standards, but the advice of a reliable jeweler is invaluable.

As simple as a sidetrip from Brussels to Antwerp are excursions to such other scenic cities as Bruges, Ghent or Liege. Summer or winter, the landscape is a dream of beauty with its windmills, tiny chapels and medieval facades. Winter, however, is a gala time in the villages with one carnival after another from early December until the start of Lent.

FOR VISITORS

Hawaii Offering Wide Excursions

There is a wide variety of off-the-beaten-track activities and excursions for the vacationer to Hawaii who ventures beyond the palm - fringed shores of the famed Waikiki Beach resort mecca.

Oahu, capital island of the chain and locale of Waikiki, has all the sophistication of a glamourous resort mecca but each of the islands in the chain has its own particular charm. Each, too, is endowed with a balmy year-round climate, cooling tradewinds and scenic beauty.

Even on Oahu, just minutes away from Waikiki Beach, the adventurous in spirit can follow the route of the old Oahu Railway to remote Kaena Point where they can pitch a tent, fish from the rocks and explore the rugged terrain. The road leading to the point winds along the leeward shore of Oahu where the Makaha Surfing Championships are held each January and turquoise waters of Pokai Bay hold promise of a future resort site.

On the north shore of Oahu, treks to Sacred Falls and Waimea Falls afford an insight to the Hawaii of yesteryear and cool mountain pools offer a sharp contrast to the warmer ocean swimming a few miles below. Horseback trips along the beach or mountain trails can also be arranged through stables all along the Windward Coast.

Hikers have many trails to choose from on Oahu. Information on organized hikes and well marked trails can be obtained from members of the local clubs on the island. And for the truly young of heart, a ti-leaf slide down the precipitous slopes of an island mountain side offers all the thrills of a toboggan ride — sans snow!

From the Honolulu International Airport it is just a few minutes' flight to Hawaii's Neighbor Islands of Kauai, Maui and Hawaii where there are numerous offbeat trips and activities to delight the hearts of the most free spirited traveler.

These include pig and bird hunting, trout fishing (in season) in the rugged Waimea Canyon region of the island of Kauai. Also, for the rugged outdoorsman, the seven mile hike along the Na Pali cliffs offers a real challenge. Horseback trips along the upper Wailua River to the foot of Mt. Waialeale or moonlight rides along the beach can also be enjoyed on this island which is aptly called the Garden Isle.

To the south of Oahu is Maui, the Valley Isle. A trip into mammoth Haleakala Crater — by foot or horseback — is a highlight of a Maui island visit. More than 3,000 feet below the 10,000 foot summit of the dormant volcano, is the glistening black sand floor of the crater. Unique volcanic formations, fields of the rare silversword plant and rocky desert-like terrain afford an eery "out of this world" atmosphere for this Hawaiian expedition.

A wealth of Hawaiiana can also be found on the Valley Isle. Ancient Petroglyphs, heiaus (temples), village ruins and burial caves abound on its shores. Although the roads circling the ends of the islands are far from super highways they are passable most of the year, winding through rolling pasture lands and groves of brightly hued wili wili trees.

Southernmost of the Hawaiian chain is the Big Island of Hawaii, and "big" it is! Here is your "drive in" volcano in the Hawaii Valcanoes National Park and here too is a network of fine parks for camping, picnicking or just plain sightseeing.

Off - the - beaten tourist path is the jeep trip into Waipio Valley, site of an ancient village, temple and lush vegetation. The Kohala ditch trail also offers some of Hawaii's most outstanding sightseeing.

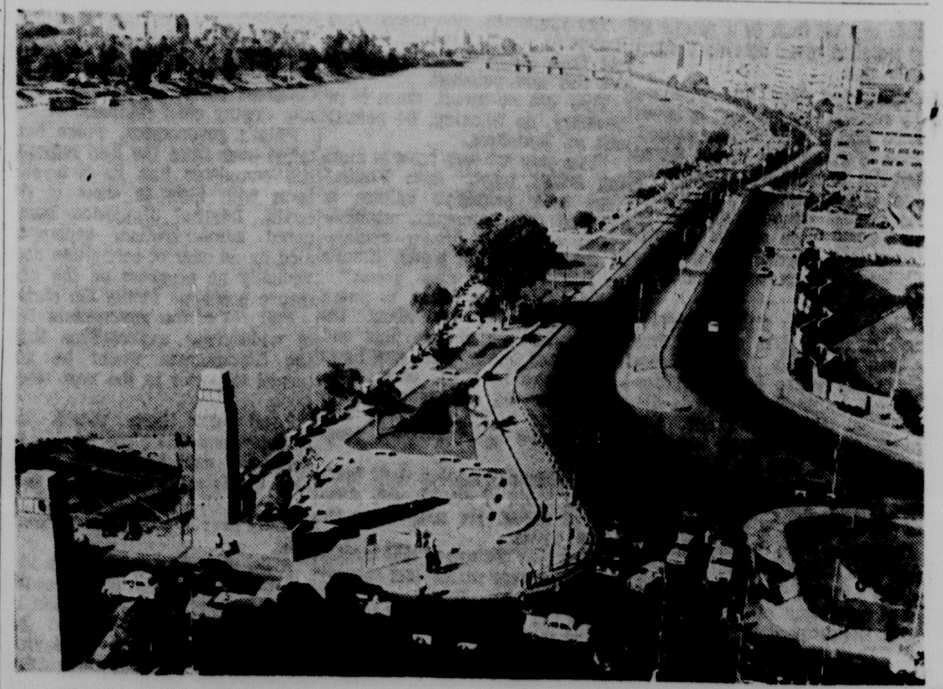
Puerto Rico Has Charms For Everyone

SAN JUAN, P. R. (UPI) — Even a quick glance about — at the blue sea, palms, luring green mountains, luxury resort hotels, forceful reminders of a four-centuries - old Spanish culture — and it's no longer a mystery why Puerto Rico has become THE place to visit in the Caribbean.

Day or night there is something for everyone in and about this capital of the only Commonwealth of the United States. Beaches, pools, snorkeling, SCUBA diving, golf (with one course winding through the moat of a 400-year-old fortress), deep sea fishing, sailing.

Night presents a spectrum of entertainment possible only in a resort so popular that it now is attracting nearly 350,000 visitors annually, mostly from the mainland United States.

You won't read about it in the alluring advertisements, but there is casino gambling at several of the larger resort hotels, although it's of a flavor apart from either the European casinos or the more frantic variety in Las Vegas.



CAIRO'S CORNICHE ROAD is one of the main boulevards of Egypt's thriving capital. Along the street are modern apartments, office buildings and the Nile Hilton, a huge steel and glass edifice, which overlooks the Nile and distant pyramids.

Indians Sparkle In 14-12 Upset Win

Jerry Stovall LSU's Lone Bright Spot

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor

BATON ROUGE — Walter McReynolds, a slender 19 - year - old sophomore, playing his first varsity game, passed Louisiana State University dizzy Saturday night in leading a crippled Rice team to a 6 to 6 tie with the once highly regarded Tigers.

McReynolds, who could throw long or short with the precision of a machine, put Rice ahead mid - way of the second period with a beautifully executed concoction play from the LSU 30 to halfback Gene Flemming who dashed down the sideline to score standing up. However, end Preston Johnson's conversion attempt was wide.

The Tigers, baffled up in their end of the field most of the night, scored with only five minutes left in the third period, when Wes Monroe's Jerry Stovall, on a brilliant but short seven yard dash, scored. Lynn Amedee, who looked like a class B high school quarterback most of the night, missed the conversion try and that was the ball game as far as scoring went.

Late in the fourth period, the Tigers made a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire, but failed. On a 39-yard Amedee - Stovall pass, they moved to the Owl's 13-yard line. However, on the next play, Amedee tossed to Danny LeBlanc, the Lake Charles Sophomore, who caught the ball on the 10, then fumbled. Rice recovered and ran out the clock.

The Rice Owls came to town a 15 - point underdog and crippled. Then number one quarterback Billy Cox was out and was Randall Kerbow, who was supposed to have taken over quarterbacking duties. Both were injured.

But they couldn't have been any better than McReynolds. If they were, the 68,000 partisan LSU fans wouldn't have wanted to see them.

Including his touchdown pass, McReynolds completed a total of 13 out of 23 passes for 159 yards, which was most of the yardage Rice gained. The Owls' rushing total came to only 34 yards, but it didn't matter really after the awesome display of air power.

The score would have been much worse had it not been for Stovall, tackle Fred Miller and guard Robbie Hucklebridge. Time and time again they practically single - handed stopped threatening Rice drives.

But almost from the start it was apparent Rice came to play football and controlled the ball two - thirds of the game.

The Rice touchdown drive actually started in the first period on the Owls 28 yard line. From that point, McReynolds hit end Gene Raesz with two quick tosses that moved the ball to the LSU 44 as the first period ended.

He took up where he left off as the second period opened, but this time hit ends George Parry and Jerry Kelley, moving the ball to the LSU 25, the Tiger defense tightened, with Miller bursting through on three successive plays to push the Owls back to the 30. Then on fourth down, McReynolds threw the convoy pass to Flemming who tight - roped down the sideline to score. Not a single LSU player touched him.

Only once in the first half did LSU threaten. With Stovall doing most of the carrying, the Tigers moved to the Rice 22, but couldn't get any closer.

A short time later, it appeared that Rice would score. On a punt, LSU's Buddy Soefker of the Bandits fumbled on the Tiger 24 and Rice guard Doug Mills pounced on it. The Rice team, however couldn't capitalize and on fourth down, Johnson attempted a field goal from the 20, which was blocked by center Dennis Gaubatz.

The LSU touchdown drive started when end Gene Sykes intercepted a McReynolds pass, the only one the Tigers got all night, on the LSU 40 and returned it to midfield. From there, quarterback Jimmy Fields, who played like an amateur most of the night, hit Stovall with a 14 - yard pass. Stovall had to leap high in the air to grab it from between two Rice defenders. On the next play, Fields hit fullback Steve Ward with a 22 - yard toss, moving the ball to the Owl 13. Three plays later, Stovall went over from the seven. Twice it appeared it was stopped, once at the five and again at the three, but the big senior halfback bulled his way over two Rice tacklers and went in to score. Amedee could have put the Tigers ahead, but he failed to convert.

As the third period ended, Rice, with McReynolds at the helm, appeared headed for scoring territory again. In succession, he hit Kelley with a 17 yarder, then tossed to him two more times, one for 15 and one for 11, to move the ball to the LSU 25. At this point, thanks to Miller and Hucklebridge, the Tiger line held.

In the fading minutes, the Tigers tried desperately to pull the

Tribe Ruins Lions' First Home Contest

COMMERCE, Tex., (Special)— Northeast stemmed a furious last quarter surge by East Texas State to defeat the Lions 14-12 here Saturday night.

Jack Rowan's Indians built up a 14-0 lead on first and fourth quarter touchdowns before East Texas stormed back to score twice in the last stanza, the final TD coming on a spectacular 36 yard pass with nine seconds left.

East Texas' try for two points and a tie was spoiled after the last touchdown when quarterback John Stooksberry's PAT pass to end Joe Ed Matus was high.

Except for the final period, Northeast dominated the game as the Tribe knocked the Lions out of the unbeaten ranks. East Texas, a 36 - 0 victim of Northeast last fall had beaten Abilene Christian, 3-0 and Arlington 14 - 9 prior to Saturday night's game, played before an estimated 6,000 fans in Memorial Stadium.

Northeast fell before Lamar Tech, a Lone Star Conference team like ETS, by a 14-0 count in its opener last week.

Although the Lions ended up with an edge in statistics, East Texas' heralded defense never completely stopped a powerful, methodical Northeast attack that consistantly rolled up yards on the ground.

Meanwhile, Northeast's defense was rock - ribbed when it had to be until the wild fourth quarter.

Ronnie Myrick, a sensational quarterback, scored both the Indians' touchdowns on wide sweeps, one for five yards in the first and one for three early in the fourth quarter.

The margin of victory, however, came on the PAT boots of Gordon Salsman, the Tribe's third string kicker. Salsman converted after both touchdowns.

Willie Ragan and Pete Vincent, neither of whom made the trip because of injuries, usually handle Northeast's place kicking.

Salsman was also one of Northeast's defensive stars, along with center Tommy Beaube, who intercepted a pass in the end zone to choke off a threat in the third; guards Billy Foster and Larry Rambin, end Wendell Drost and freshman halfback Robert Payne.

Myrick was the Tribe's total offense leader with 79 yards, rushing 72 yards and picking up seven on three completions in five passes.

Workhorse Ken Newton turned in a brilliant game and was second to Myrick in rushing with 57 yards in 17 carries.

Northeast evened its series with ETS with the victory. Each team has now won two games, east Texas the first pair and Northeast the second two.

Next week the Indians begin Gulf States Conference competition by meeting Northwestern in the homecoming game in Monroe.

Indian tackle Ross Nolan, ill most of the week with a cold made the trip Saturday, a day later than the rest of his teammates, and turned in a fine game.

Northeast opened the game with a quick march from its 34 to the ETS 21 before a 15 yard personal foul penalty stalled the drive. Tribe center Stanley Starr was ejected from the game on the play and Beaube and Johnny Nolan handled pivot duties the rest of the night.

East Texas took over two plays later after a punt and ran the ball only once. Halfback Gordon Scarborough ran for nine yards and fumbled, Robert Payne recovering on the ETS 24.

Northeast scored in six plays with Devone Payne and Newton moving the ball to five, from which Myrick sprinted wide right and into the end zone with 7:37 left in the first quarter.

Salsman converted.

East Texas threatened late in the second quarter after Northeast punted from its seven. The Lions took over after the run back on the Indian 38 and moved to the 17. A fourth down field goal attempt by Marion Turner from the 23 was off to the right and Northeast carried a 7-0 lead into the dressing room.

The Lions came back fired up in the second half, took the opening kickoff and drove 52 yards to the Northeast six.

With third and goal, Beaube intercepted a Don Hartman pass one yard in the end zone and ran it out to the 17.

After an exchange of punts the Indians started their final scoring drive from their own 29.

Grinding out practically all the yardage on the ground and aided by a 25 - yard foul penalty against the Lions the Indians moved to the three before the third quarter ended.

Myrick circled right end on the first play of the final period to score the touchdown. Salsman converted again and Northeast had a 14-0 lead with 14:54 left in the game.

The Lions roared back with a 64 - yard march for a touchdown, the pay - off coming on a 15 yard run by Joe Bob Johnson.

The crucial play of the drive came on fourth down with 16 yards to go at the Northeast 32. Doug Pascal was back to pass and was thrown for an 11 - yard loss by Larry Rambin but the Indians were docked with a personal foul penalty to put the ball on the 15 and set up Johnson's touchdown.

The Lions tried to go for two on the extra point but Drost pulled down Johnson on the two yard line.

Northeast took the kickoff and moved from its own 34 to the East Texas 24 before a Myrick pass was intercepted by Stooksberry on the 16 with 3:43 left in the game.

Running in a different quarterback on every play, East Texas filled the air with passes and connected on five of them, the last one a picture throw of 36 - yards from Pascal to halfback Glen Robinson on the goal line with nine seconds left.

Going for two points again, Stooksberry threw into the end zone to Matus but the throw was high and bounded off his finger tips.

OVER KENTUCKY, 14-0

Griffing Directs Rebs To Victory

By CLIFF SESSIONS
United Press International

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Quarterback Glynn Griffing directed Mississippi to a pair of touchdowns Saturday night for a 14-0 triumph over Kentucky.

Both touchdowns came on short runs to climax long drives. Griffing scored 49 seconds before intermission and wingback A. J. Holloway scored 63 seconds after the play.

The game, played before 42,000, was closer than expected. The teams played on rather even terms during the first and fourth periods.

Kentucky's Jerry Woolum connected on several spectacular passes and the Wildcats made two serious scoring threats.

Griffing, whose running and passing had put the Rebels in scoring position as the first half neared an end, attempting to throw a two-yard touchdown pass, couldn't find a receiver open and stormed over two Wildcats for the first touchdown.

The march, which began with an 18-yard punt return by fullback Fred Roberts, included a 13-yard run by Griffing and two Griffing passes—one to end Reed Davis for 10 yards and the other to halfback Louis Guy for 11.

The Rebels received the kickoff after intermission and immediately began a 67-yard drive which was climaxed when wingback A. J. Holloway circled end for six yards and a touchdown.

An offside penalty cost the Rebels a touchdown earlier in the second period when fullback Buck Randall bulled across the Kentucky goal from the one yard line to climax an 87-yard drive. After the penalty, end Wes Sullivan missed a field goal attempt. The most serious Kentucky threat, in the second period, was highlighted by a 33-yard pass from Woolum to Hutchinson. The drives fell 11 yards short of a score. Facing a fourth-and-two situation, Woolum threw to halfback Gary Steward who was thrown for a one yard loss.

Army Defeats Syracuse For 2nd Win, 9-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Army's brash Chinese Bandits stole the ball twice in the space of 68 seconds Saturday and the West Point Cadets converted the breaks into a field goal and touchdown for a 9-2 football victory over Syracuse at the Polo Grounds.

Both Army scores came in the fading minutes of the second quarter with Art (Cammy) Lewis, son of the late West Virginia football coach, setting up the first and triggering the second as the high spots in a brilliant iron man performance at quarterback.

Dick Heydt, a place-kicking specialist from Palmerton, Pa., booted the field goal from the 20-yard line. A minute and 8 seconds later, Lewis dropped back from deep formation and rifled a 32-yard scoring pass to end Bobby Bedell. Heydt's attempt for the extra point banged against the goal post and bounced back.

The victory was the second for the "new look" Army team under the steel discipline of Paul Dietzel, who turned out championship elevens at Louisiana State. It was the second setback for Syracuse, perennial Eastern powerhouse beaten last week by Oklahoma 7-3.

Syracuse's two points came on a safety in the final period when halfback Ken Waldrop of Army took John Snider's punt on the goal line and was dumped in the end zone by Gene Stancin, Syracuse center.

Stanford Caller Racks Michigan For 16-13 Upset

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Stanford quarterback Steve Thurlow riddled Michigan State's defenses with passes Saturday leading the surprising Indians to a 16-13 football upset over the Spartans.

Passes by the 6-3 junior signal caller played a major role in all three Stanford scoring drives as Michigan State lost to a West Coast club the first time since 1949.

It marked the first victory for the Indians over MSU in four games and the first time a Duffy Daugherty coached Spartan team had lost to an outfit from the Pacific coast.

Demons Tie La. College

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Louisiana College and Northwestern Demons each scored in the opening period and then battled to a 7-7 tie Saturday night.

Ken Thompson scored the NSC touchdown on a 14-yard run. Louisiana College then tied the game when Phil Troutman tossed a 29-yard pass to Dave Brockmeyer.

Colorado In Win Over Kansas State

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Colorado and Kansas State handed each other countless scoring chances Saturday but only Colorado crossed the goal line for a 6-0 Big 8 conference football victory.

The Buffaloes, bearing no resemblance to last year's league champions, put together a 72-yard scoring drive in 17 plays midway of the third period.

Kansas In Victory Over Rough Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Eager Kansas capitalized on a pair of fumbles and scored on plunges by Roger McFarland and Ken Coleman for a 14-0 football victory over stubborn Boston University Saturday night.

Forced to display their defensive wares by the show-me Terriers and their own heavy burden of penalties, the Jayhawks of the Big Eight proved their mettle. Ends Pack St. Clair and Mike Shinn, center Pete Quatrochi and Coleman were standouts warding off the home team.

McNeese Upset By Bulldogs, 14-6

RUSTON — Junior halfback Paul LeBenne slammed into the end zone from nine yards out with 58 seconds left to give Louisiana Tech a shocking 14-6 upset victory over favored McNeese State here Saturday night.

An overflow crowd of more than 7,500 fans watched the Cannes fight back from behind with two fourth quarter touchdowns to win the Gulf State Conference opener for both teams.

Down 6-0 starting the final period, Tech scored on drives of 65 and 13 yards behind the generalship of quarterbacks Mickey Slaughter and freshman Billy Laird.

LaBenne's winning touchdown came on a pitchout from Slaughter. The 170 - pound Fair Park product took the ball and went to his right, twisting and turning past a bevy of McNeese defenders to blast across the goal - line. LaBenne, who led Tech rushers with 62 yards on 13 carries, completely bowled one man at the goal - line.

After the score, Slaughter the old pro, calmly fired to halfback Corky Corkern, who was standing all alone in the end zone, for the two pointer and an unbeatable 14-6 lead.

Minutes earlier, Tech capped a 36 - 55 yard drive sending freshman fullback Gerald McDowell across from one and a half yards out for the tie.

The Cowboys operating from behind a hard-nosed line, blocked the try for the extra point.

The Cowboys drove 84 yards in the second period to go ahead, 6-0, when quarterback Tommy Thompson scored on the option play from eight yards away.

Early in the third quarter the Cowboys punched down to the Tech 23 behind the brusing rushes of fullback Don Bosser and seemed headed for another touchdown until LaBenne came up with an all - important interception.

This play may have turned the tide in the game. Up until that point McNeese's line had dominated the game, halting all Tech offensive moves and giving the Cowboys a powerful running attack. Another McNeese touchdown might have spelled finish to any Tech comeback hopes.

In the first half, McNeese rushed Slaughter, dumping him mercilessly time and again. But as the game progressed Slaughter and Laird both connected with Labenne, Corkern and sophomore Jack Odom on a number of beautiful screen passes to remove the red-dogging pressure. Slaughter, who had the nation's best average among small college passers last year, wound up completing 12 of 16 passes for 163 yards. Laird, former Wood lawn passing ace, hit 7 of 9 for 56 yards. Corkern snared three of these passes for 53 yards and Odom caught two for 47.

McDowell, a 190-pound freshman from Sulphur, followed LaBenne in Tech rushing with 35 yards on 11 carries.

Thompson was number two in McNeese rushing. He gained 29 yards on nine attempts and completed two of seven passes for 32 yards.

Tech recovered two McNeese fumbles in the first period to keep the Cowboys bottled up. But a quick, hard-hitting McNeese defense kept the rush on Slaughter and blunted Canine running efforts. First Labenne recovered a Lloyd Guillot fumble at the McNeese 30. But Slaughter was dropped back to the 35 on the first play and two of his passes fell incomplete after Labenne gained back to the 26.

Moments later Tech's Pat Shows snatched a Bosster bobble at the Poke 43. This time the Canines rambled to the 20, largely on an 18 yard screen pass from Laird to Odom. The Cowboys got tough then and pushed Tech back to the 30 before end David Lee booted out of bounds to the Cowboy 22.

The Bulldogs started a drive on their 31 early in the second period and marched all the way down to the Cowboy 16. A 35-yard screen pass from Slaughter to Labenne accounted for most of the yardage. Once again the Cowboy rushers broke through at this point, spilling Slaughter twice and killing the effort.

From the 16, McNeese took over and marched 84 yards in 11 plays for their only touchdown of

Irish Topple Sooners, 13-7 In Big Upset

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Notre Dame beat off a pair of late Oklahoma challenges Saturday and defeated the Sooners 13-7 in a nationally televised football game.

The Sooners drove to a first down on the Notre Dame three late in the last quarter but the Fighting Irish yielded only two yards before quarterback Monte Deere's fourth down pitchout was wild. Notre Dame recovered on the 1.

But the Irish gave the Sooners another chance a minute later when quarterback Daryle Lamonica fumbled and end John Flynn recovered on the Notre Dame 30.

Lamonica redeemed himself quickly, picking off Norman Smith's first down pass at the 15.

Notre Dame drove for touchdowns after receiving the opening and second half kickoffs.

Halfback Ed Rutkowski capped the 69-yard opening drive with a burst into the end zone from the seventy. Rutkowski also kicked the extra point.

The Irish gave Oklahoma a lesson in ball control after receiving the second half kickoff, using 11 minutes and 35 seconds to go 39 yards.

Fullback Bill Ahern scored the clincher from the nine but Rutkowski's kick was wide to give Oklahoma hope.

Illinois Downed By Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington sputtered at times but hounded Illinois like a hungry hunting pack when the opportunity offered and whipped the eager young Illinois 28-7 Saturday.

Illinois threatened to make a game of it in the second quarter and got its only touchdown just two seconds before the halftime gun. But even that upsurge had been offset in the same period by an unexpected Washington score.

The Huskies, showing the power that has made them a western favorite, slashed 69 yards in 12 plays in the opening quarter, never once trying a pass. Charley Mitchell knifed the last four yards and sophomore Jim Norton kicked his first of four conversions.

McReynolds Passes Rice Owls To 6-6 Tie With LSU Tigers

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor

BATON ROUGE — Walter McReynolds, a slender 19 - year - old sophomore, playing his first varsity game, passed Louisiana State University dizzy Saturday night in leading a crippled Rice team to a 6 to 6 tie with the once highly - regarded Tigers.

McReynolds, who could throw long or short with the precision of a machine, put Rice ahead mid - way of the second period with a beautifully executed convoy pass play from the LSU 30 to halfback Gene Flemming who dashed down the sideline to score standing up. However, end Preston Johnson's conversion attempt was wide.

The Tigers, bottled up in their end of the field most of the night, scored with only five minutes left in the third period, when West Monroe's Jerry Stovall, on a brilliant, but short seven yard dash scored. Lynn Amedee, who looked like a class B high school quarterback most of the night, missed the conversion try and that was the ball game as far as scoring went.

Late in the fourth period, the Tigers made a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire, but failed. On a 39-yard Amedee-Stovall pass, they moved to the Owl's 18-yard line. However, on the next play, Amedee tossed to Danny LeBlanc, the Lake Charles Sophomore, who caught the ball on the 10, then fumbled. Rice recovered and ran out the clock.

The Rice Owls came to town a 15 - point underdog and crippled. Their number one quarterback Billy Cox was out as was Randall Kerbow, who was supposed to have taken over quarterbacking duties. Both were injured.

But they couldn't have been any better than McReynolds. If they were, the 68,000 partisian LSU fans wouldn't have wanted to see them.

Including his touchdown pass, McReynolds completed a total of 13 out of 23 passes for 179 yards, which was most of the yardage Rice gained. The Owls' rushing total came to only 34 yards, but it didn't matter really after the awesome display of air power.

The score would have been much worse had it not been for Stovall, tackle Fred Miller and guard Robbie Hucklebridge. Time and time again they practically single - handed stopped threatening Rice drives.

But almost from the start, it was apparent Rice came to play football and controlled the ball two - thirds of the game.

The Rice touchdown drive actually started in the first period, on the Owls 28 yard line. From that point, McReynolds hit end Gene Raesz with two quick tosses that moved the ball to the LSU 44 as the first period ended.

He took up where he left off as the second period opened, but this time hit ends George Parry and Jerry Kelley, moving the ball to the LSU 25, the Tiger defense tightened, with Miller bursting through on three successive plays to push the Owls back to the 30. Then on fourth down, McReynolds threw the convoy pass to Flemming who tight - roped down the sideline to score. Not a single LSU player touched him.

Only once in the first half did LSU threaten. With Stovall doing most of the carrying, the Tigers moved to the Rice 22, but couldn't get any closer.

A short time later, it appeared that Rice would score. On a punt, LSU's Buddy Soefker of the Bandits fumbled on the Tiger 24 and Rice guard Doug Mills pounced on it. The Rice team, however couldn't capitalize and on fourth down, Johnson attempted a field goal from the 20, which was blocked by center Dennis Gaubatz.

The LSU touchdown drive started when end Gene Sykes intercepted a McReynolds pass, the only one the Tigers got all night, on the LSU 40 and returned it to midfield. From there, quarterback Jimmy Fields, who played like an amateur most of the night, hit Stovall with a 14 - yard pass. Stovall had to leap high in the air to grab it from between two Rice defenders. On the next play, Fields hit fullback Steve Ward with a 22 - yard toss, moving the ball to the Owl 13. Three plays later, Stovall went over from the seven. Twice it appeared it was stopped, once at the five and again at the three, but the big senior halfback bulled his way over two Rice tacklers and went in to score. Amedee could have put the Tigers ahead, but he failed to convert.

As the third period ended, Rice, with McReynolds at the helm, appeared headed for scoring territory again. In succession, he hit Kelley with a 17 yarder, then tossed to him two more times, one for 15 and one for 11, to move the ball to the LSU 25. At this point, thanks to Miller and Hucklebridge, the Tiger line held.

In the fading minutes, the Tigers tried desperately to pull the

Tribe Ruins Lions' First Home Contest

COMMERCE, Tex., (Special)— Northeast stemmed a furious last quarter surge by East Texas State to defeat the Lions 14-12 here Saturday night.

Jack Rowan's Indians built up a 14-0 lead on first and fourth quarter touchdowns before East Texas stormed back to score twice in the last stanza, the final TD coming on a spectacular 36 yard pass with nine seconds left.

East Texas' try for two points and a tie was spoiled after the last touchdown when quarterback John Stooksberry's PAT pass to end Joe Ed Matus was high.

Except for the final period, Northeast dominated the game as the Tribe knocked the Lions out of the unbeaten ranks. East Texas, a 36 - 0 victim of Northeast last fall had beaten Abilene Christian, 3-0 and Arlington 14 - 9 prior to Saturday night's game, played before an estimated 6,000 fans in Memorial Stadium.

Northeast fell before Lamar Tech, a Lone Star Conference team like ETS, by a 14-0 count in its opener last week.

Although the Lions ended up with an edge in statistics, East Texas' heralded defense never completely stopped a powerful, methodical Northeast attack that consistantly rolled up yards on the ground.

Meanwhile, Northeast's defense was rock - ribbed when it had to be until the wild fourth quarter.

Ronnie Myrick, a sensational quarterback, scored both the Indians' touchdowns on wide sweeps, one for five yards in the first and one for three early in the fourth quarter.

The margin of victory, however, came on the PAT boots of Gordon Salsman, the Tribe's third string kicker. Salsman converted after both touchdowns.

Willie Ragan and Pete Vincent, neither of whom made the trip because of injuries, usually handle Northeast's place kicking.

Salsman was also one of Northeast's defensive stars, along with center Tommy Beaube, who intercepted a pass in the end zone to choke off a threat in the third; guards Billy Foster and Larry Rambin, end Wendell Drost and freshman halfback Robert Payne.

Myrick was the Tribe's total offense leader with 79 yards, rushing 72 yards and picking up seven on three completions in five passes.

Workhorse Ken Newton turned in a brilliant game and was second to Myrick in rushing with 57 yards in 17 carries.

Northeast evened its series with ETS with the victory. Each team has now won two games, east Texas the first pair and Northeast the second two.

Next week the Indians begin Gulf States Conference competition by meeting Northwestern in the homecoming game in Monroe.

Indian tackle Ross Nolan, ill most of the week with a cold made the trip Saturday, a day later than the rest of his teammates, and turned in a fine game.

Northeast opened the game with a quick march from its 34 to the ETS 21 before a 15 yard personal foul penalty stalled the drive. Tribe center Stanley Starr was ejected from the game on the play and Beaube and Johnny Nolan handled pivot duties the rest of the night.

East Texas took over two plays later after a punt and ran the ball only once. Halfback Gordon Scarborough ran for nine yards and fumbled, Robert Payne recovering on the ETS 24.

Northeast scored in six plays with Devone Payne and Newton moving the ball to five, from which Myrick sprinted wide right and into the end zone with 7:37 left in the first quarter.

Salsman converted.

East Texas threatened late in the second quarter after Northeast punted from its seven. The Lions took over after the run back on the Indian 38 and moved to the 17. A fourth down field goal attempt by Marion Turner from the 23 was off to the right and Northeast carried a 7-0 lead into the dressing room.

The Lions came back fired up in the second half, took the opening kickoff and drove 52 yards to the Northeast six.

With third and goal, Beaube intercepted a Don Hartman pass one yard in the end zone and ran it out to the 17.

After an exchange of punts the Indians started their final scoring drive from their own 29.

Grinding out practically all the yardage on the ground and aided by a 25 - yard foul penalty against the Lions the Indians moved to the three before the third quarter ended.

Myrick circled right end on the first play of the final period to score the touchdown. Salsman converted again and Northeast had a 14-0 lead with 14:54 left in the game.

The Lions roared back with a 64 - yard march for a touchdown, the pay - off coming on a 15 yard run by Joe Bob Johnson.

The crucial play of the drive came on fourth down with 16 yards to go at the Northeast 32. Doug Pascal was back to pass and was thrown for an 11 - yard loss by Larry Rambin but the Indians were docked with a personal foul penalty to put the ball on the 15 and set up Johnson's touchdown.

The Lions tried to go for two on the extra point but Drost pulled down Johnson on the two yard line.

Northeast took the kickoff and moved from its own 34 to the East Texas 24 before a Myrick pass was intercepted by Stooksberry on the 16 with 3:43 left in the game.

Running in a different quarterback on every play, East Texas filled the air with passes and connected on five of them, the last one a picture throw of 36 - yards from Pascal to halfback Glen Robinson on the goal line with nine seconds left.

Going for two points again, Stooksberry threw into the end zone to Matus but the throw was high and bounded off his finger tips.

The game ended as East Texas tried an on - side kick off.

McNeese Upset By Bulldogs, 14-6

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Junior halfback Paul LeBenne slammed into the end zone from nine yards out with 58 seconds left to give Louisiana Tech a shocking 14-6 upset victory over favored McNeese State here Saturday night.

An overflow crowd of more than 7,500 fans watched the Canines fight back from behind with two fourth quarter touchdowns to win the Gulf State Conference opener for both teams.

Down 6-0 starting the final period, Tech scored on Grives of 65 and 43 yards behind the generalship of quarterbacks Mickey Slaughter and freshman Billy Laird.

LaBenne's winning touchdown came on a pitchout from Slaughter. The 170 - pound Fair Park product took the ball and went to his right, twisting and turning past a bevy of McNeese defenders to blast across the goal - line. LaBeene, who led Tech rushers with 62 yards on 13 carries, completely bowled one man at the goal - line.

After the score, Slaughter the old pro, calmly fired to halfback Corky Corkern, who was standing all alone in the end zone, for the two pointer and an unbeatable 14-6 lead.

Minutes earlier, Tech capped a 35 yard drive sending freshman fullback Gerald McDowell across from one and a half yards out for the tie.

The Cowboys operating from behind a hardnosed line, blocked the try for the extra point.

The Cowboys drove 84 yards in the second period to go ahead, 6-0, when quarterback Tommy Thompson scored on the option play from eight yards away.

Early in the third quarter the Cowboys punched down to the Tech 23 behind the bruising rushes of fullback Don Bossier and seemed headed for another touchdown until LaBenne came up with an all - important interception.

This play may have turned the tide in the game. Up until that point McNeese's line had dominated the game, halting all Tech offensive moves and giving the Cowboys a powerful running attack. Another McNeese touchdown might have spelled finish to any Tech comeback hopes.

In the first half, McNeese rushed Slaughter, dumping him mercilessly time and again. But as the game progressed Slaughter and Laird both connected with Labenne, Corkern and sophomore Jack Odom on a number of beautiful screen passes to remove the red-dogging pressure.

Slaughter, who had the nation's best average among small college passers last year, wound up completing 12 of 16 passes for 163 yards. Laird, former Woodlawn passing ace, hit 7 of 9 for 86.

Corkern snared three of these passes for 53 yards and Odom caught two for 47.

McDowell, a 190-pound freshman from Sulphur, followed LaBenne in Tech rushing with 35 yards on 11 carries.

Thompson was number two in McNeese rushing. He gained 29 yards on nine attempts and completed two of seven passes for 32 yards.

Tech recovered two McNeese fumbles in the first period to keep the Cowboys bottled up. But a quick, hard-hitting McNeese defense kept the rush on Slaughter and blunted Canine running efforts. First Labenne recovered a Lloyd Guillot fumble at the McNeese 30. But Slaughter was dropped back to the 35 on the first play and two of his passes fell incomplete after Labenne gained back to the 28.

Moments later Tech's Pat Shows snatched a Bossier bobble at the Poke 43. This time the Canines rambled to the 20, largely on an 18 yard screen pass from Laird to Odom. The Cowboys got tough then and pushed Tech back to the 30 before end David Lee booted out of bounds to the Cowboy 22.

The Bulldogs started a drive on their 31 early in the second period and marched all the way down to the Cowboy 16. A 35-yard screen pass from Slaughter to Labenne accounted for most of the yardage. Once again the Cowboy rushers broke through at this point, spilling Slaughter twice and killing the effort.

From the 16, McNeese took over and marched 84 yards in 11 plays for their only touchdown of

Irish Topple Sooners, 13-7 In Big Upset

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Notre Dame beat off a pair of late Oklahoma challenges Saturday and defeated the Sooners 13-7 in a nationally televised football game.

The Sooners drove to a first down on the Notre Dame three late in the last quarter but the Fighting Irish yielded only two yards before quarterback Monte Deere's fourth down pitchout was wild. Notre Dame recovered on the 12.

But the Irish gave the Sooners another change a minute later when quarterback Daryle Lamonica fumbled and end John Flynn recovered on the Notre Dame 30.

Lamonica redeemed himself quickly, picking off Norman Smith's first down pass at the 15.

Notre Dame drove for touchdowns after receiving the opening and second half kickoffs.

Halfback Ed Rutkowski capped the 69-yard opening drive with a burst into the end zone from the seventy. Rutkowski also kicked the extra point.

The Irish gave Oklahoma a lesson in ball control after receiving the second half kickoff, using 11 minutes and 35 seconds to go 89 yards.

Fullback Bill Ahern scored the clincher from the nine but Rutkowski's kick was wide to give Oklahoma hope.

Illinois Downed By Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington sputtered at times but hounded Illinois like a hungry hunting pack when the opportunity offered and whipped the eager young Illinois 28-7 Saturday.

Illinois threatened to make a game of it in the second quarter and got its only touchdown just two seconds before the halftime gun. But even that upsurge had been offset in the same period by an unexpected Washington score.

The Huskies, showing the power that has made them a western favorite, slashed 69 yards in 12 plays in the opening quarter, never once trying a pass. Charley Mitchell knifed the last four yards and sophomore Jim Norton kicked his first of four conversions.

Colgate Races

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — Sophomore talent showed the way for Colgate Saturday in a 23-12 victory over Cornell in the 49th renewal of a football rivary dating back to 1896. Colgate lost its opener to Brown last week. Cornell was playing its first game.

OVER KENTUCKY, 14-0

Griffing Directs Rebs To Victory

By CLIFF SESSIONS
United Press International

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Quarterback Glynn Griffing directed Mississippi to a pair of touchdowns Saturday night for a 14-0 triumph over Kentucky.

Both touchdowns came on short runs to climax long drives. Griffing scored 49 seconds before intermission and wingback A. J. Holloway scored 63 seconds after the play.

The game, played before 42,000, was closer than expected. The teams played on rather even terms during the first and fourth periods.

Kentucky's Jerry Woolum connected on several spectacular passes and the Wildcats made two serious scoring threats.

Griffing, whose running and passing had put the Rebels in scoring position as the first half neared an end, attempting to throw a two-yard touchdown pass, couldn't find a receiver open and stormed over two Wildcats for the first touchdown.

The march, which began with an 18-yard punt return by fullback Fred Roberts, included a 13-yard run by Griffing and two Griffing passes—one to end Reed Davis for 10 yards and the other to halfback Louis Guy for 11.

The Rebels received the kickoff after intermission and immediately began a 67-yard drive which was climaxed when wingback A. J. Holloway circled end for six yards and a touchdown.

An offside penalty cost the Rebels a touchdown earlier in the second period when fullback Buck Randall bulled across the Kentucky goal from the one yard line to climax an 87-yard drive. After the penalty, end Wes Sullivan missed a field goal attempt.

The most serious Kentucky threat, in the second period, was highlighted by a 33-yard pass from Woolum to Hutchinson. The drives fell 11 yards short of a score. Facing a fourth-and-two situation, Woolum threw to halfback Gary Steward who was thrown for a one yard loss.

Army Defeats Syracuse For 2nd Win, 9-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Army's brash Chinese Bandits stole the ball twice in the space of 68 seconds Saturday and the West Point Cadets converted the breaks into a field goal and touchdown for a 9-2 football victory over Syracuse at the Polo Grounds.

Both Army scores came in the fading minutes of the second quarter with Art (Cammy) Lewis, son of the late West Virginia football coach, setting up the first and triggering the second as the high spots in a brilliant iron man performance at quarterback.

Dick Heydt, a place-kicking specialist from Palmerton, Pa., booted the field goal from the 20-yard line. A minute and 8 seconds later, Lewis dropped back from deep formation and rifled a 32-yard scoring pass to end Bobby Bedell. Heydt's attempt for the extra point banged against the goal post and bounced back.

The victory was the second for the "new look" Army team under the steel discipline of Paul Dietzel, who turned out championship elevens at Louisiana State. It was the second setback for Syracuse, perennial Eastern powerhouse beaten last week by Oklahoma 7-3.

Syracuse's two points came on a safety in the final period when halfback Ken Waldrop of Army took John Snider's punt on the goal line and was dumped in the end zone by Gene Stancin, Syracuse center.

Stanford Caller Racks Michigan For 16-13 Upset

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Stanford quarterback Steve Thurlow riddled Michigan State's defenses with passes Saturday leading the surprising Indians to a 16-13 football upset over the Spartans.

Passes by the 6-3 junior signal caller played a major role in all three Stanford scoring drives as Michigan State lost to a West Coast club the first time since 1949.

It marked the first victory for the Indians over MSU in four games and the first time a Duffy Daugherty coached Spartan team had lost to an outfit from the Pacific coast.

Demons Tie La. College

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) Louisiana College and Northwestern Demons each scored in the opening period and then battled to a 7-7 tie Saturday night.

Ken Thompson scored the NSC touchdown on a 14-yard run. Louisiana College then tied the game when Phil Troutman tossed a 29-yard pass to Dave Brockmeyer.

Colorado In Win Over Kansas State

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Colorado and Kansas State handed each other countless scoring chances Saturday but only Colorado crossed the goal line for a 6-0 Big 8 conference football victory.

The Buffaloes, bearing no resemblance to last year's league champions, put together a 72-yard scoring drive in 17 plays midway of the third period.

Kansas In Victory Over Rough Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Eager Kansas capitalized on a pair of fumbles and scored on plunges by Roger McFarland and Ken Coleman for a 14-0 football victory over stubborn Boston University Saturday night.

Forced to display their defensive wares by the show-me Terriers and their own heavy burden of penalties, the Jayhawks of the Big Eight proved their mettle. Ends Pack St. Clair and Mike Shinn, center Pete Quatrochi and Coleman were standouts warding off the home team.

Colts Top Giants In Second Game

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Houston's Bob Bruce baffled San Francisco 4-2 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday, virtually eliminating the Giants from the National League Pennant race after they had stayed alive with an 11-5 decision in the opener.

The split left the second placers 1½ games behind Los Angeles with the Dodgers needing only one victory over St. Louis Saturday night or Sunday to win the flag.

Another Colts' victory over the Giants on Sunday would also win the pennant for the Dodgers.

game out. Twice they drove to Owl territory, the first time on a 30 - yard run by Fields, but the threat died on the 41.

The second effort came with two minutes left, when Amedee hit Stovall with a pass in the flat and the West Monroe youth galloped down the sideline to the 18. It appeared for a minute that he might go all the way. It was on the next play that LeBlanc fumbled the pass at the 10 and Rice recovered.

In all, Fields attempted 10 passes and completed only three for 55 yards, while Amedee hit on three of four for 52 yards, the big one going to Stovall, who caught a total of three for 72 yards. In addition to his pass yardage, Stovall picked up another 35 yards rushing, while Fields gained 49.

Overall, LSU picked up a total of 240 yards to 213 for Rice, while Rice moved for 14 first downs to 10 for the Tigers.

Rice coach Jess Neely was disappointed his team didn't win.

"We came over here to try and whip 'em, so we're not satisfied with a tie," he said. "We couldn't have been puting the ball in the air late in the game if we just wanted a tie. I was disappointed we couldn't run on them. They stopped us on the ground. Actually I was surprised we didn't fumble, since it seemed those linemen were getting to our backs about the time the ball did."

Ironically, it was Rice that handed LSU its lone defeat last season in the opening game. After that the Tigers went on to win in a row before Saturday night's tie. And it was the first time the Tigers hadn't won in LSU stadium since the Florida game in 1960.

Of the game, LSU coach Charles McClendon said.

"It looks like we made many very costly errors again.

"I was pleased that we stopped their ground attack, but we didn't slow them down too much in the air. They had a very good execution of passes.

"I think that Fred Miller did an oustanding defensive job for us. He was head and shoulders above everyone else.

"Rice played good hard - nosed football. I thought McReynolds was a real cool sohpomore. We threw him for some losses, but he didn't get rattled. He just stayed in his pocket like a veteran.

"I am real disappointed that we didn't win, but we didn't lose either."

"We have a lot of work to do to minimize these mistakes."

the night. Thompson went right on the option from eight yards out, found an opening and raced into the end zone. The extra point was no good and the Cowboys led 6-0 with 3:40 left in the half.

Neither team scored in the third period but Tech started a drive at its 35 with Laird at the helm. He marched the ball to the 10 where Slaughter came in on fourth down and hit freshman Tommy Robertson at the four to keep the drive going. McDowell's score came with 9:57 left in the game.

Slaughter completed another fourth down pass in the second TD drive, hitting Corkern at the 16 with a 21-yarder. Three plays later Labenne rammed over and coach Joe Aillet and his Tech Bulldogs had wrapped up another victory.

Navy Gets Win On Last Period Scoring Drive

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy staved off a William and Mary scoring threat late in the fourth quarter Saturday and escaped with a 20-16 football victory over the underdog Indians.

The middies, favored by more than three touchdowns, mustered a 78-yard scoring drive in the final period with sophomore fullback Pat Donnelly going over from the 3 for the margin of victory.

It was Donnelly's second scoring play of the day. He took a 18-yard pass from Ron Klemick and raced 36 yards with it to give Navy a 13-3 lead in the second period. The first Navy score was counted by halfback John Sai, climaxing a 69-yard drive the first time it had the ball.

The visitors hung in the ball game with a 37-yard field goal by left footed Steve Bishop in the first quarter and after Donnelly's long touchdown run in the third, came back with a 65-yard scoring drive. Fullback Stan Pekunas scooped up a fumble in his own backfield and ran 54 yards to set the stage for a 13-yard scoring pass from Dan Henning to halfback Charley Weaver.

Six-foot-seven TCU quarterback Sonny Gibbs, driving the Horned Frogs hard to the bitter end, heaved a 15-yard touchdown pass to halfback Donny Smith in the closing 100 seconds to pull scrambling TCU within one point of Miami.

But then Gibbs called a running play—going for two points to win—and the big Hurricane line stopped Smith short of the goal.

Razorbacks Win With Billy Moore

By AL DOPKING

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Billy Moore dove - tailed a 90-yard touchdown run into what was pretty much a one-man passing show Saturday as Arkansas Razorbacks swamped Tulsa 42-14.

Moore's long scoring gallop came in the third period after his uncanny passing had set up all three of the Razorbacks first half touchdowns.

From the start, the game was a wide-open affair with Tulsa's passing ace, Stu McBirnie, threatening to make it a two-way air traffic deal.

But by the second quarter Arkansas had established that its depth and Moore's deadly passing would be too much for the Tulsans.

Moore completed 12 of 14 passes for 111 yards and piled up 126 yards more rushing, including his 90-yard scoring scamper which set a record for a Razorback touchdown run from scrimmage. The old record was 85 yards against Southern Methodist by Aubrey Fowler in 1946.

Each team scored the first time it had the ball. Arkansas drove 77 yards with the kickoff and Jesse Branch, who caught two of Moore's five passes, which accounted for 44 yards in the march scored on an 8-yard run.

McBirnie then put on his own aerial show. He completed four of five passes for 49 of the 65 yards in a drive which ended with fullback Jerry Swanson's 1-yard plunge.

Pitt Romps Over Baylor's Squad For 24-14 Win

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Pitt unveiled a covey of dazzling backfield aces Saturday night and romped virtually unhindered to a 24-14 non-conference victory over Baylor.

Jim Traficant and Fred Mazurek, a pair of tricky ball-handlers, directed the Panthers to their first victory of the season.

Mazurek passed two yards to William Howley for one touchdown. Richard Leeson sped six yards for another. Paul Martha wheeled 13 yards for a third and Leeson added a 26-yard field goal and three extra points.

OVER TENNESSEE CREW

Tigers Get 22-21 Win In Thrill-Packed Upset

By VERNON BUTLER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Jimmy Sidle riddled a porous Tennessee pass defense Saturday and sent bullish halfback Larry Laster in for two vital touchdowns to lead Auburn to a pulsating 22-21 football upset.

Sidle, a 190-pound Birmingham native, directed Auburn on three touchdown drives and another that ended in a field goal as the Tigers opened their Southeastern Conference season with a tremendous comeback triumph.

Tennessee, opportunists as always, turned two breaks into a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, but Sidle and his sophomore cronies Bucky Waid and David Rawson sparked a furious Auburn rally that was almost a carbon copy of last year's 24-21 Auburn victory at Knoxville.

A 27-yard field goal by Woody Woodall in the second quarter turned out to be the vital points, but the show belonged to Sidle and his pin-point passing accuracy. He threw 6 yards to end Howard Simpson for one score and sent Laster in for the other two.

Tennessee scored its first touchdown when Auburn center Jim Price snapped the ball several feet over the head of punter Jon Kilgore at the Auburn 20. The ball bounded goalward, and Tennessee guard Joe Foxall slid across the goal line with it in his possession for six points.

The Vols, aided by a pass interference call at the Auburn 9, scored again minutes later when Mallon Faircloth passed to John Hudson in the end zone.

It looked like a Tennessee waltz, but that was before the sizzling Sidle assumed command. He guided Auburn 57 yards early in the second quarter into field goal range, and Woodall kicked the three points.

Colts Top Giants In Second Game

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Houston's Bob Bruce baffled San Francisco 4-2 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday, virtually eliminating the Giants from the National League Pennant race after they had stayed alive with an 11-5 decision in the opener.

The split left the second placers 1½ games behind Los Angeles with the Dodgers needing only one victory over St. Louis Saturday night or Sunday to win the flag.

Another Colts' victory over the Giants on Sunday would also win the pennant for the Dodgers.

game out. Twice they drove to Owl territory, the first time on a 30 - yard run by Fields, but the threat died on the 41.

The second effort came with two minutes left, when Amedee hit Stovall with a pass in the flat and the West Monroe youth galloped down the sideline to the 18. It appeared for a minute that he might go all the way. It was on the next play that LeBlanc fumbled the pass at the 10 and Rice recovered.

In all, Fields attempted 10 passes and completed only three for 55 yards, while Amedee hit on three of four for 52 yards, the big one going to Stovall, who caught a total of three for 72 yards. In addition to his pass yardage, Stovall picked up another 35 yards rushing, while Fields gained 49.

Overall, LSU picked up a total of 240 yards to 213 for Rice, while Rice moved for 14 first downs to 10 for the Tigers.

Rice coach Jess Neely was disappointed his team didn't win.

"We came over here to try and whip 'em, so we're not satisfied with a tie," he said. "We couldn't have been puting the ball in the air late in the game if we just wanted a tie. I was disappointed we couldn't run on them. They stopped us on the ground. Actually I was surprised we didn't fumble, since it seemed those linemen were getting to our backs about the time the ball did."

Ironically, it was Rice that handed LSU its lone defeat last season in the opening game. After that the Tigers went on to win in a row before Saturday night's tie. And it was the first time the Tigers hadn't won in LSU stadium since the Florida game in 1960.

Of the game, LSU coach Charles McClendon said.

"It looks like we made many very costly errors again.

"I was pleased that we stopped their ground attack, but we didn't slow them down too much in the air. They had a very good execution of passes.

"I think that Fred Miller did an oustanding defensive job for us. He was head and shoulders above everyone else.

"Rice played good hard - nosed football. I thought McReynolds was a real cool sohpomore. We threw him for some losses, but he didn't get rattled. He just stayed in his pocket like a veteran.

"I am real disappointed that we didn't win, but we didn't lose either."

"We have a lot of work to do to minimize these mistakes."

the night. Thompson went right on the option from eight yards out, found an opening and raced into the end zone. The extra point was no good and the Cowboys led 6-0 with 3:40 left in the half.

Neither team scored in the third period but Tech started a drive at its 35 with Laird at the helm. He marched the ball to the 10 where Slaughter came in on fourth down and hit freshman Tommy Robertson at the four to keep the drive going. McDowell's score came with 9:57 left in the game.

Slaughter completed another fourth down pass in the second TD drive, hitting Corkern at the 16 with a 21-yarder. Three plays later Labenne rammed over and coach Joe Aillet and his Tech Bulldogs had wrapped up another victory.

Navy Gets Win On Last Period Scoring Drive

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy staved off a William and Mary scoring threat late in the fourth quarter Saturday and escaped with a 20-16 football victory over the underdog Indians.

The middies, favored by more than three touchdowns, mustered a 78-yard scoring drive in the final period with sophomore fullback Pat Donnelly going over from the 3 for the margin of victory.

It was Donnelly's second scoring play of the day. He took a 18-yard pass from Ron Klemick and raced 36 yards with it to give Navy a 13-3 lead in the second period. The first Navy score was counted by halfback John Sai, climaxing a 69-yard drive the first time it had the ball.

The visitors hung in the ball game with a 37-yard field goal by left footed Steve Bishop in the first quarter and after Donnelly's long touchdown run in the third, came back with a 65-yard scoring drive. Fullback Stan Pekunas scooped up a fumble in his own backfield and ran 54 yards to set the stage for a 13-yard scoring pass from Dan Henning to halfback Charley Weaver.

MIAMI (UPI)—Miami's George Mira, far from his best in a quarterbacking match against a giant Texan, kept a stuttering offense alive Saturday night for a 21-20 victory over a daring Texas Christian University team whose last-minute gamble didn't pay off.

Six-foot-seven TCU quarterback Sonny Gibbs, driving the Horned Frogs hard to the bitter end, heaved a 15-yard touchdown pass to halfback Donny Smith in the closing 100 seconds to pull scrambling TCU within one point of Miami.

But then Gibbs called a running play—going for two points to win—and the big Hurricane line stopped Smith short of the goal.

Razorbacks Win With Billy Moore

By AL DOPKING

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Billy Moore dove - tailed a 90-yard touchdown run into what was pretty much a one-man passing show Saturday as Arkansas Razorbacks swamped Tulsa 42-14.

Moore's long scoring gallop came in the third period after his uncanny passing had set up all three of the Razorbacks first half touchdowns.

From the start, the game was a wide-open affair with Tulsa's passing ace, Stu McBirnie, threatening to make it a two-way air traffic deal.

But by the second quarter Arkansas had established that its depth and Moore's deadly passing would be too much for the Tulsans.

Moore completed 12 of 14 passes for 111 yards and piled up 126 yards more rushing, including his 90-yard scoring scamper which set a record for a Razorback touchdown run from scrimmage. The old record was 85 yards against Southern Methodist by Aubrey Fowler in 1946.

Each team scored the first time it had the ball. Arkansas drove 77 yards with the kickoff and Jesse Branch, who caught two of Moore's five passes, which accounted for 44 yards in the march scored on an 8-yard run.

McBirnie then put on his own aerial show. He completed four of five passes for 49 of the 65 yards in a drive which ended with tailback Jerry Swanson's yard plunge.

Pitt Romps Over Baylor's Squad For 24-14 Win

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Pitt unveiled a covey of dazzling backfield aces Saturday night and romped virtually unhindered to a 24-14 non-conference victory over Baylor.

Jim Traficant and Fred Mazurek, a pair of tricky ball-handlers, directed the Panthers to their first victory of the season.

Mazurek passed two yards to William Howley for one touchdown, Richard Leeson sped six yards for another, Paul Martha wheeled 18 yards for a third and Leeson added a 26-yard field goal and three extra points.

OVER TENNESSEE CREW

Tigers Get 22-21 Win In Thrill-Packed Upset

By VERNON BUTLER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Jimmy Sidle riddled a porous Tennessee pass defense Saturday and sent bullish halfback Larry Laster in for two vital touchdowns to lead Auburn to a pulsating 22-21 football upset.

Sidle, a 190-pound Birmingham native, directed Auburn on three touchdown drives and another that ended in a field goal as the Tigers opened their Southeastern Conference season with a tremendous comeback triumph.

Tennessee, opportunists as always, turned two breaks into a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, but Sidle and his sophomore cronies Bucky Waid and David Rawson sparked a furious Auburn rally that was almost a carbon copy of last year's 24-21 Auburn victory at Knoxville.

A 27-yard field goal by Woody Woodall in the second quarter turned out to be the vital points, but the show belonged to Sidle and his pin-point passing accuracy. He threw 6 yards to end Howard Simpson for one score and sent Laster in for the other two.

Tennessee scored its first touchdown when Auburn center Jim Price snapped the ball several feet over the head of punter Jon Kilgore at the Auburn 20. The ball bounded goalward, and Tennessee guard Joe Foxall slid across the goal line with it in his possession for six points.

The Vols, aided by a pass interference call at the Auburn 9, scored again minutes later when Mallon Faircloth passed to John Hudson in the end zone.

It looked like a Tennessee waltz, but that was before the sizzling Sidle assumed command. He guided Auburn 57 yards early in the second quarter into field goal range, and Woodall kicked the three points.

Squirrels, Dry Woods

Louisiana's most popular small game sport — squirrel hunting — begins next Saturday for what promises to be a good season with an ample crop of bushytails around.

The bag limit is eight while season lasts until January 10th, beginning, of course, on October 6th.

Squirrel hunting, like all the other hunts nowdays, attracts people to the woods by the hundreds, especialy during the early stages of the season.

But this small army of hunters should be cautioned against reckless actions, because the danger of shooting a fellow human be comes greater when the woods are full of people.

A second to pause and thank could save another hunter's life

Hunters also should keep in mind that the snakes are still out. Some hunters are not afraid of snakes, but it's still a wise practice to avoid the weedy sections of the woods and look before you step.

Squirrel hunting is a sport where silence on the part of the hunter can go a long way toward the success of the hunt. If you aren't having any luck, then don't spoil another hunter's trip by banging around in the woods and shooting birds just to be shooting.

Squirrel hunters also kill a lot of coons, some of whom are still rambling in the wee hours of the hunt. If you kill one, then take it to somebody who eats coon. It's terrible to leave dead game in the woods.

And as usual, the squirrel season is opening this year at a time when the woods are dry — when the woods are in an A-1 fire starting status.

Watch your campfire and don't leave a burning cigarette on the ground.

Keep in mind that this year's squirrel season is not the last.

Joe Herring's Promotion

The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission has promoted one of the most deserving men we know — Joe Herring, who served this district very ably for five years as chief supervisor.

Joe, a Louisiana Tech graduate, was elevated to the post of chief of the fish and game division, which is a section of the commission's program that reaches of every phase of hunting.

Practically all of the game programs — the development of the game management areas and the setting of the seasons — originate in the fish and game division. The new approaches to game management come from this section.

In short, the division chief is one of the key men in the commission's operation while his responsibilities are great. His responsibilities are great in another way too in that the chief takes much of the rant of criticism from the sportsmen when new programs are begun.

Joe Herring can fill this role, however.

He left his old job here two years ago to begin a new educational program. As chief educational biologist, he began a program of putting conservation education in the classroom.

While in Monroe, Joe played a vital role in the state's purchase of the Lafourche Swamp property — now the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area. He was the first man to recognize the state's opportunity to obtain the land, then convert it into a public hunting area.

But Joe Herring's outstanding quality is his dedication to his work. He's a wildlife man from head to toe.

If you don't believe it, just speak to him. That's the only opening he needs to sell conservation.

Good Reading

If you are a boy, or a grown up boy, as Robert Ruark would say, you will enjoy Robert Ruark's books on his youth in North Carolina and his adult experiences throughout the world.

Robert Ruark writes with an understanding of life as seen through the eyes of the boy and the man who love to hunt and fish.

These writings are contained in "The Old Man and The Boy," followed by "The Old Man's Boy Grows Older."

Ruark is the boy in his first work — a boy growing up in a world of charming season, each featuring a different sport afield, with a grandfather as chief companion.

In the sequence that followed, the author is the boy grown older, a man who has ventured into the world to hunt big game but accompanied constantly with memories of his youth and the old man, his grandfather.

Ruark writes with such a flare for his subject that the reader can see the dogs on point or the tiger in the bush or better still the old man with his smoking briar.

The message is Ruark's approach to life enriched by his experiences afield. But the beauty of his writing is that it can be understood by youngsters while meaningful for adults.

Robert Ruark is good reading. We highly recommend it for both the old man and the boy.

A Proposed Survey

Last week, in this corner, we called for a state - wide program to focus attention to the needs of outdoor recreational facilities, namely public boat launching ramps and public camps and parks.

This, of course, could be a costly undertaking, but at any rate there is a need for it, or at least there is a need for improvements in this field.

At least one legislator, Rep. Mike John Jr. of Monroe, responded to the suggestion.

Mike, in a letter to E. R. McDonald Sr., chairman of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, asked McDonald to serve as co - ordinator between the commission, the Department of Highways, the Department of Public Works and the Parks and Recreation Commission in undertaking a state - wide survey to determine the needs for "expanded facilities relative to public parks, camping areas, launching facilities, etc."

John said:

I feel that most of this work can and should be done prior to the 1964 regular session of the Legislature. I believe it can be done out of existing funds appropriated to the several departments mentioned above.

"If action can not and will not be taken in this matter as a result of my request herewith, I will introduce a bill in 1963 directing the same."

Such an undertaking could very well be launched in this manner. Here's hoping that it will.

Little Man's Corner

The weather was nippy as the squirrel season approached, but the little men made news afield.

While most sportsmen were oiling their guns for the coming season, others were already shooting, but in a sport along different vains.

For instance, the Pine Hills Gun Club, composed of local sportsmen, conducted its annual fall shoot a few days ago. Ross Grave was the top over - all shot, including both trap and skeet.

Here's how the other winners and events went.

Trap handicap shoot — Fred Cotton; runner - up, Charley White.

Buddy shoot — Ross Graves and C. G. Pearce Jr. won with a total of 46 out of 50.

While the hunting seasons open, the Pine Hills Gun Club will remain open each Sunday with the next trap challenge cup shoot set for October 28.

In the fishing news, two Winnsboro anglers, W. A. Butler Sr. and W. A. Butler Jr., caught a total of 192 chinkapins on three trips to Lake St. John. They were fishing with red worms.

Gophers Tie Missouri With Defensive Effort

By TED SMITS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota and Missouri battled to a scoreless tie Saturday before 60,133 in a football game highlighted by Missouri's goal line stands on its 2 and again on its one.

The tight defenses bottled up both Missouri's Johnny Roland and Minnesota's Bill Munsey.

Minnesota had the edge statistically but Missouri got off the longest play of the game, a pass from Jim Johnson to Bill Tobin in the third period, good for 55 yards. Munsey hauled Tobin down from behind on the Minnesota 30.

Missouri then pushed to the 26 and tried a field goal. A 5-yard penalty for delay of the game forced Tobin to kick from the 38. His attempt fell about 7 yards short.

An interception by Missouri's Vince Turner on the 3 with six seconds left thwarted Minnesota's final drive as Duane Blaska fired a long pass intended for Munsey near the goal line.

Minnesota's first golden opportunity came in the opening period when Paul Benson recovered Johnson's fumble on the Missouri 21. Munsey and Jerry Jones punched the line to the Missouri 3 where on fourth down Munsey tripped and could gain only one. Missouri took over on its 2.

A second Minnesota drive that failed started in the second period from the Minnesota 11 at which point Daryl Krugman had punted out of bounds.

A 13-yard run by Jones and a 30-yard pass from Blaska to Jim Cairns were the longest offensive thrusts in a steady march down the field that finally reached the Missouri 10 and a first down. Munsey was stopped at the line but Jay Sharp broke through for 4 and Blaska made 4 more around end. Then on the fourth down Blaska was stopped a yard away from the goal by Jim Johnson.

Missouri also had threatened in the final minutes when a roughness penalty against Minnesota on a punt gave Missouri the ball on the Minnesota 29, its deepest penetration of the game. Munsey then intercepted a pass from Roland on the Minnesota 27 to put on the damper.

Buckeyes Race For 41-7 Victory

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's highly ranked Bucks interspersed a sprinkling of passes with a devastating ground attack Saturday to overwhelm undermanned North Carolina 41-7.

A crowd of 84,009, largest in Buckeye history and the 24th straight over 80,000 throng, watched the Buckeye juggernaut pile up 314 yards on the ground and 110 in the air in its six-touchdown splurge.

The Ohio defense, expected to be leaky due to seven sophomores in the starting corps, allowed the Tar Heels to reach Ohio territory only twice in 12 tries, each coming on a recovered fumble in the second period.

Ohio intercepted four passes. Three of the Buckeye passes were captured by the visitors. The Bucks fumbled away the ball twice and the Tar Heels once.

North Carolina, held to 58 yards rushing, used the flare pass as its most potent weapon, but Ohio stuck mostly to its fullback plunges and quarterback rollouts.

Quarterback John Mummey was the big ball carrier with 110 yards in 15 tries, one for an 8-yard touchdown. He also made his only pass good for a 42-yard touchdown to Paul Warfield.

Junior Edge, Tar Heel quarterback, plunged a yard for his team's only score in the second period after Ohio had taken a 14-0 lead on touchdowns by Mummey and fullback Dave Francis.

Other Ohio scores, as the Bucks turned it into a romp with a 27-point last half, were by fullback Dave Katterhenrich, a pair by Warfield, one on pass from Mummey and one on a 4-yard run, by Bob Scott, sophomore fourth-string fullback.

Duke In Win With Fired-Up 2nd Half Play

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Duke's Blue Devils, stymied for two periods, uncorked a vicious second half punch to defeat South Carolina 21-8 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

A crowd of 24,500 saw Duke step from a defensive first half and shake halfback Bill Futrell loose for 14 yards and a third period touchdown. Halfback Bill Reynolds kicked the first to three extra points. Futrell set up the score with a brilliant catch of a 39-yard pass from quarterback Walt Rappld on the South Carolina 27.

Duke, bouncing back from the 14-7 loss to Southern California, rammed 77 yards for a fourth period touchdown with halfback Mark Leggett going over from the 6.

The Blue Devils scored again on a 61-yard fourth period drive with fullback Mike Curtis scoring from the 4.

Iowa State Rolls Past Oregon 11

IOWA CITY, Iowa. (AP)—Surehanded Matt Szykowny drove Iowa to a 28-8 victory over Oregon State Saturday with the help of explosive running backs and bruising linemen who blunted the Beavers' aerial and running attack.

The Hawkeyes' rush was so rugged that Oregon State lost a total of 8 yards on the ground.

Szykowny, taking advanage of Iowa's new "floating-T" offense designed to give him more targets, tossed three touchdown passes, kicked two extra points and passed for a two-point conversion.

The slender quarterback, showing mid-season form in Iowa's opener, connected on 12 of 17 passes for 144 yards and overshadowed Terry Baker, Oregon States famed passer.

Lothridge Stars Again As Jackets Roll, 17-0

By F. T. MacFeely

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sensational Billy Lothridge scored by running, passing and kicking in a do-everything performance that carried eighth ranked Georgia Tech to a 17-0 football victory over Florida Saturday.

Lothridge turned an even game into a Tech romp when he cannily moved the Yellow Jackets to a field goal and touchdown in the last two minutes of the first-half for a 10-point lead.

He opened the scoring with a 25-yard field goal. Less than two minutes later he passed 31 yards to end Billy Martin for a touchdown and kicked the extra point.

Early in the third quarter, after Tech center Bobby Caldwell intercepted a Florida pass, Lothridge quarterbacked a 30-yard drive. He scored on a yard burst around right end.

Tech's big front line showed no signs of wearing out from Florida's supposedly superior depth. The Yellow Jackets were still carrying the battle to the Gators in the fourth quarter when Florida made its only threat after getting a fumble at the Tech 32 but never got past the 30.

Lothridge used the clock to perfection when Tech picked up its 10 points before halftime. He moved Tech from its 44 to the Florida 7 in 10 plays before he had to settle for a field goal from the 15.

There was 2 minutes 5 seconds left on the clock but in that short span, Florida ran two plays, kicked on third down and gave Tech the ball at its 39 with 1:05 left.

Lothridge ran 17 yards when his receivers were covered and the middle wide open. He called time out. On the next play Lothridge dropped back and threw. Florida linebacker Tom Kelley batted the ball but it fell into the hands of Tech's Joe Auer for a completion on the Florida 31.

Tech took time out again. Then Billy Martin beat out two Florida defenders and grabbed Lothridge's perfect scoring pass in the end zone. Lothridge added the extra point and still had 38 seconds to spare.

Boston College Takes 2nd Win

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Jack Concannon, a rangy quarterback, tossed touchdown passes of 78 and 58 yards and scored once himself Saturday in directing unbeaten Boston College to a 28-13 football victory over a Villanova University team that four times failed to score from inside the winner's 10-yard line.

Concannon, a junior from Dorchester, Mass., shocked the home crowd of 13,000 on the first play following the opening kickoff, completing a 78-yard pass-run touchdown play to Artie Graham.

After Villanova took a 7-6 lead in the second quarter on an 8-yard TD pass from quarterback Richie Richman to halfback Bob Merenda and a conversion, Concannon fired a third period 58-yard scoring pass to Jim Whalen, and ran across with a two-point converstion to give B.C. a lead it never relinquished.

Touch Football Starts Monday

The Monroe Recreation Department's touch football leagues begin their first week of competition Monday with four games slated in the high school league.

Two leagues, the high school and city league, are in operation this season.

Squirrels, Dry Woods

Louisiana's most popular small game sport — squirrel hunting — begins next Saturday for what promises to be a good season with an ample crop of bushytails around.

The bag limit is eight while season lasts until January 10th, beginning, of course, on October 6th.

Squirrel hunting, like all the other hunts nowdays, attracts people to the woods by the hundreds, especialy during the early stages of the season.

But this small army of hunters should be cautioned against reckless actions, because the danger of shooting a fellow human becomes greater when the woods are full of people.

A second to pause and think could save another hunter's life.

Hunters also should keep in mind that the snakes are still out. Some hunters are not afraid of snakes, but it's still a wise practice to avoid the weedy sections of the woods and look before you step.

Squirrel hunting is a sport where silence on the part of the hunter can go a long way toward the success of the hunt. If you aren't having any luck, then don't spoil another hunter's trip by banging around in the woods and shooting birds just to be shooting.

Squirrel hunters also kill a lot of coons, some of whom are still rambling in the wee hours of the hunt. If you kill one, then take it to somebody who eats coon. It's terrible to leave dead game in the woods.

And as usual, the squirrel season is opening this year at a time when the woods are dry — when the woods are in an A-1 fire starting status.

Watch your campfire and don't leave a burning cigarette on the ground.

Keep in mind that this year's squirrel season is not the last.

Joe Herring's Promotion

The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission has promoted one of the most deserving men we know — Joe Herring, who served this district very ably for five years as chief supervisor.

Joe, a Louisiana Tech graduate, was elevated to the post of chief of the fish and game division, which is a section of the commission's program that reaches of every phase of hunting.

Practically all of the game programs — the development of the game management areas and the setting of the seasons — originate in the fish and game division. The new approaches to game management come from this section.

In short, the division chief is one of the key men in the commission's operation while his responsibilities are great. His responsibilities are great in another way too in that the chief takes much of the runt of criticism from the sportsmen when new programs are begun.

Joe Herring can fill this role, however.

He left his old job here two years ago to begin a new educational program. As chief educational biologist, he began a program of putting conservation education in the classroom.

While in Monroe, Joe played a vital role in the state's purchase of the Lafourche Swamp property — now the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area. He was the first man to recognize the state's opportunity to obtain the land, then convert it into a public hunting area.

But Joe Herring's outstanding quality is his dedication to his work. He's a wildlife man from head to toe.

If you don't believe it, just speak to him. That's the only opening he needs to sell conservation.

Good Reading

If you are a boy, or a grown-up boy, as Robert Ruark would say, you will enjoy Robert Ruark's books on his youth in North Carolina and his adult experiences throughout the world.

Robert Ruark writes with an understanding of life as seen through the eyes of the boy and the man who love to hunt and fish.

These writings are contained in "The Old Man and The Boy," followed by "The Old Man's Boy Grows Older."

Ruark is the boy in his first work— a boy growing up in a world of changing season, each featuring a different sport afield, with a grandfather as chief companion.

In the sequence that followed, the author is the boy grown older, a man who has ventured into the world to hunt big game but accompanied constantly with memories of his youth and the old man, his grandfather.

Ruark writes with such a flare for his subject that the reader can see the dogs on point or the tiger in the bush or better still the old man with his smoking briar.

The message is Ruark's approach to life enriched by his experiences afield. But the beauty of his writing is that it can be understood by youngsters while meaningful for adults.

Robert Ruark is good reading. We highly recommend it for both the old man and the boy.

A Proposed Survey

Last week, in this corner, we called for a state - wide program to focus attention to the needs of outdoor recreational facilities, namely public boat launching ramps and public camps and parks.

This, of course, could be a costly undertaking, but at any rate there is a need for it, or at least there is a need for improvements in this field.

At least one legislator, Rep. Mike John Jr. of Monroe, responded to the suggestion

Mike, in a letter to E. R. McDonald Sr., chairman of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, asked McDonald to serve as co - ordinator between the commission, the Department of Highways, the Department of Public Works and the Parks and Recreation Commission in undertaking a state - wide survey to determine the needs for "expanded facilities relative to public parks, camping areas, launching facilities, etc."

John said:

I feel that most of this work can and should be done prior to the 1964 regular session of the Legislature. I believe it can be done out of existing funds appropriated to the several departments mentioned above.

"If action can not and will not be taken in this matter as a result of my request herewith, I will introduce a bill in 1963 directing the same."

Such an undertaking could very well be launched in this manner. Here's hoping that it will.

Little Man's Corner

The weather was nippy as the squirrel season approached, but the little men made news afield.

While most sportsmen were oiling their guns for the coming season, others were already shooting, but in a sport along different vains.

For instance, the Pine Hills Gun Club, composed of local sportsmen, conducted its annual fall shoot a few days ago. Ross Grave was the top over - all shot, including both trap and skeet.

Here's how the other winners and events went:

Trap handicap shoot — Fred Cotton; runner - up, Charley White.

Buddy shoot — Ross Graves and C. G. Pearce Jr. won with a total of 46 out of 50.

While the hunting seasons open, the Pine Hills Gun Club will remain open each Sunday with the next trap challenge cup shoot set for October 28.

In the fishing news, two Winnsboro anglers, W. A. Butler Sr. and W. A. Butler Jr., caught a total of 192 chinkapins on three trips to Lake St. John. They were fishing with red worms.

Gophers Tie Missouri With Defensive Effort

By TED SMITS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota and Missouri battled to a scoreless tie Saturday before 60,133 in a football game highlighted by Missouri's goal line stands on its 2 and again on its one.

The tight defenses bottled up both Missouri's Johnny Roland and Minnesota's Bill Munsey.

Minnesota had the edge statistically but Missouri got off the longest play of the game, a pass from Jim Johnson to Bill Tobin in the third period, good for 55 yards. Munsey hauled Tobin down from behind on the Minnesota 30.

Missouri then pushed to the 26 and tried a field goal. A 5-yard penalty for delay of the game forced Tobin to kick from the 38. His attempt fell about 7 yards short.

An interception by Missouri's Vince Turner on the 3 with six seconds left thwarted Minnesota's final drive as Duane Blaska fired a long pass intended for Munsey near the goal line.

Minnesota's first golden opportunity came in the opening period when Paul Benson recovered Johnson's fumble on the Missouri 21. Munsey and Jerry Jones punched the line to the Missouri 3 where on fourth down Munsey tripped and could gain only one. Missouri took over on its 2.

A second Minnesota drive that failed started in the second period from the Minnesota 11 at which point Daryl Krugman had punted out of bounds.

A 13-yard run by Jones and a 30-yard pass from Blaska to Jim Cairns were the longest offensive thrusts in a steady march down the field that finally reached the Missouri 10 and a first down. Munsey was stopped at the line but Jay Sharp broke through for 4 and Blaska made 4 more around end. Then on the fourth down Blaska was stopped a yard away from the goal by Jim Johnson.

Missouri also had threatened in the final minutes when a roughness penalty against Minnesota on a punt gave Missouri the ball on the Minnesota 29, its deepest penetration of the game. Munsey then intercepted a pass from Roland on the Minnesota 27 to put on the damper.

Buckeyes Race For 41-7 Victory

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's highly ranked Bucks interspersed a sprinkling of passes with a devastating ground attack Saturday to overwhelm undermanned North Carolina 41-7.

A crowd of 84,009, largest in Buckeye history and the 24th straight over 80,000 throng, watched the Buckeye juggernaut pile up 314 yards on the ground and 110 in the air in its six-touchdown splurge.

The Ohio defense, expected to be leaky due to seven sophomores in the starting corps, allowed the Tar Heels to reach Ohio territory only twice in 12 tries, each coming on a recovered fumble in the second period.

Ohio intercepted four passes. Three of the Buckeye passes were captured by the visitors. The Bucks fumbled away the ball twice and the Tar Heels once.

North Carolina, held to 58 yards rushing, used the flare pass as its most potent weapon, but Ohio stuck mostly to its fullback plunges and quarterback rollouts.

Quarterback John Mummey was the big ball carrier with 110 yards in 15 tries, one for an 8-yard touchdown. He also made his only pass good for a 42-yard touchdown to Paul Warfield.

Junior Edge, Tar Heel quarterback, plunged a yard for his team's only score in the second period after Ohio had taken a 14-0 lead on touchdowns by Mummey and fullback Dave Francis.

Other Ohio scores, as the Bucks turned it into a romp with a 27-point last half, were by fullback Dave Katterhenrich, a pair by Warfield, one on pass from Mummey and one on a 4-yard run, by Bob Scott, sophomore fourth-string fullback.

Duke In Win With Fired-Up 2nd Half Play

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Duke's Blue Devils, stymied for two periods, uncorked a vicious second half punch to defeat South Carolina 21-8 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

A crowd of 24,500 saw Duke step from a defensive first half and shake halfback Bill Futrell loose for 14 yards and a third period touchdown. Halfback Bill Reynolds kicked the first to three extra points. Futrell set up the score with a brilliant catch of a 39-yard pass from quarterback Walt Rappld on the South Carolina 27.

Duke, bouncing back from the 14-7 loss to Southern California, rammed 77 yards for a fourth period touchdown with halfback Mark Leggett going over from the 6.

The Blue Devils scored again on a 61-yard fourth period drive with fullback Mike Curtis scoring from the 4.

South Carolina scored in the closing minutes when quarterback Dan Reeves went over from the one after a fumble recovery by Jim Moss on Duke's 14.

Reeves' passed to end Ken Lester for the two extra points.

Lothridge Stars Again As Jackets Roll, 17-0

By F. T. MacFeely

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sensational Billy Lothridge scored by running, passing and kicking in a do-everything performance that carried eighth ranked Georgia Tech to a 17-0 football victory over Florida Saturday.

Lothridge turned an even game into a Tech romp when he cannily moved the Yellow Jackets to a field goal and touchdown in the last two minutes of the first-half for a 10-point lead.

He opened the scoring with a 25-yard field goal. Less than two minutes later he passed 31 yards to end Billy Martin for a touchdown and kicked the extra point.

Early in the third quarter, after Tech center Bobby Caldwell intercepted a Florida pass, Lothridge quarterbacked a 30-yard drive. He scored on a yard burst around right end.

Tech's big front line showed no signs of wearing out from Florida's supposedly superior depth. The Yellow Jackets were still carrying the battle to the Gators in the fourth quarter when Florida made its only threat after getting a fumble at the Tech 32 but never got past the 30.

Lothridge used the clock to perfection when Tech picked up its 10 points before halftime. He moved Tech from its 44 to the Florida 7 in 10 plays before he had to settle for a field goal from the 15.

There was 2 minutes 5 seconds left on the clock but in that short span, Florida ran two plays, kicked on third down and gave Tech the ball at its 39 with 1:05 left.

Lothridge ran 17 yards when his receivers were covered and the middle wide open. He called time out. On the next play Lothridge dropped back and threw. Florida linebacker Tom Kelley batted the ball but it fell into the hands of Tech's Joe Auer for a completion on the Florida 31.

Tech took time out again. Then Billy Martin beat out two Florida defenders and grabbed Lothridge's perfect scoring pass in the end zone. Lothridge added the extra point and still had 38 seconds to spare.

Boston College Takes 2nd Win

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Jack Concannon, a rangy quarterback, tossed touchdown passes of 78 and 58 yards and scored once himself Saturday in directing unbeaten Boston College to a 28-13 football victory over a Villanova University team that four times failed to score from inside the winner's 10-yard line.

Concannon, a junior from Dorchester, Mass., shocked the home crowd of 13,000 on the first play following the opening kickoff, completing a 78-yard pass-run touchdown play to Artie Graham.

After Villanova took a 7-6 lead in the second quarter on an 8-yard TD pass from quarterback Richie Richman to halfback Bob Merenda and a conversion, Concannon fired a third period 58-yard scoring pass to Jim Whalen, and ran across with a two-point converstion to give B.C. a lead it never relinquished.

Iowa State Rolls Past Oregon 11

IOWA CITY, Iowa. (AP)—Surehanded Matt Szykowny drove Iowa to a 28-8 victory over Oregon State Saturday with the help of explosive running backs and bruising linemen who blunted the Beavers' aerial and running attack.

The Hawkeyes' rush was so rugged that Oregon State lost a total of 8 yards on the ground.

Szykowny, taking advanage of Iowa's new "floating-T" offense designed to give him more targets, tossed three touchdown passes, kicked two extra points and passed for a two-point conversion.

The slender quarterback, showing mid-season form in Iowa's opener, connected on 12 of 17 passes for 144 yards and overshadowed Terry Baker, Oregon States famed passer.

Warren Spahn Beats Pirates For 327th Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves became the top left-handed pitcher in baseball history Saturday as he beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 for his 327th major league victory.

With the triumph, his 18th of the season against 14 losses, the 41-year-old hurler broke Eddie Plank's southpaw record and took clear title to ninth place on the all-time list.

Spahn gave up eight hits, seven of them in the first four innings when the Pirates scored all their runs. Two of the three runs he allowed were unearned.

Plank's career spanned the years from 1901 to 1917. He won 305 games for Philadelphia and St. Louis in the American League and 21 in the Federal League.

West Virginia Wins

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — West Virginia's big, slow-moving Mountaineers powered their way to a pair of first-half touchdowns, then spent the rest of the afternoon fighting off aroused Virginia Tech for a 14-0 Southern Conference football victory Saturday.

2ND SERVICE WIN

Penn State Tops Air Force, 20-6

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —Penn State's fourth ranked Nittany Lions finally came alive in the second half Saturday to down a fired-up Air Force Academy 20-6 for their second straight football victory over a Service Academy.

The Lions beat Navy 41-7 last week.

The Nittany Lions, billed as the top college power in the East, led by only one point at halftime, but quarterback Pete Liske fired two touchdown passes to halfback Roger Kochman in the final 30 minutes to break the game open.

The second scoring pass covered 15 yards while the first was for 3.

Kochman sparked the Lions second period comeback, grinding out 30 yards on the ground, and grabbing four passes for another 37.

Until that time, the Air Force played almost even ball with the Lions behind fancy running and passing of quarterback Terry Isaacson.

Isaacson scored the Air Force's lone tally in the second quarter on a 3-yard bootleg around his own right end.

Southern Cal Backs Defeat Trying SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Willie Brown took the opening kickoff back 92 yards for a touchdown, set up two more touchdowns with his running and pass-receiving and Bill Nelsen passed for two as Southern California rode over inept but trying Southern Methodist 33-3 Saturday night.

It was the second straight victory for unbeaten Southern California, the nation's No. 9 team, and the second consecutive loss for Southern Methodist, which hasn't been in the ratings in years. The Methodists have won only two games in three seasons.

Brown shocked SMU and the piddling crowd of 14,000 in the cavernous Cotton Bowl when he grabbed the opening kickoff on his eight-yard line and sped up the middle then to the right on an untouched jaunt to score.

His 32-yard run got the Trojans moving on their next touchdown drive of 89 yards, climaxed when Nelsen rammed over from the one. Then, in the third period Brown took a 1-yard pass from Nelsen to keep another drive that covered 68 yards winging.

Cards Defeat Dodgers With Broglio, 2-0

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, getting superb 2-hit pitching from Ernie Broglio, defeated Los Angeles 2-0 Saturday night and kept the reeling Dodgers from clinching the National League pennant.

This was the 9th loss for the Dodgers in their last 12 games, but they will still go into the final game of the season Sunday leading the second-place San Francisco Giants by a full game. If the Giants lose, or if the Dodgers win, or if both lose, Los Angeles will have its second National League pennant in four years. If the two clubs are tied after Sunday's games, a best-of-three playoff series will start in San Francisco Monday.

The Dodgers—through none of their own doing—clinched at least a first-place tie earlier when San Francisco lost the second game of its double-header with Houston.

The Dodgers set an all-time major league home attendance record by drawing 49,012 paid and running their season total to 2,641,845. The old record, 2,620,627, was established by Cleveland in 1948.

Broglio (12-9) struck out 9, walked 3 and retired 17 batters in order in one stretch. The only Dodger hits were a first-inning single by Duke Snider and a second-inning single by Wally Moon. The Dodgers didn't get a runner past second.

Right-hander Don Drysdale, a 25-game winner, went eight innings for Los Angeles, allowing no earned runs, and suffered his ninth loss. He was touched for five hits.

Warren Spahn Beats Pirates For 327th Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves became the top left-handed pitcher in baseball history Saturday as he beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 for his 327th major league victory.

With the triumph, his 18th of the season against 14 losses, the 41-year-old hurler broke Eddie Plank's southpaw record and took clear title to ninth place on the all-time list.

Spahn gave up eight hits, seven of them in the first four innings when the Pirates scored all their runs. Two of the three runs he allowed were unearned.

Plank's career spanned the years from 1901 to 1917. He won 305 games for Philadelphia and St. Louis in the American League and 21 in the Federal League.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —Penn State's fourth ranked Nittany Lions finally came alive in the second half Saturday to down a fired-up Air Force Academy 20-6 for their second straight football victory over a Service Academy.

The Lions beat Navy 41-7 last week.

The Nittany Lions, billed as the top college power in the East, led by only one point at halftime, but quarterback Pete Liske fired two touchdown passes to halfback Roger Kochman in the final 30 minutes to break the game open.

The second scoring pass covered 15 yards while the first was for 3.

Kochman sparked the Lions second period comeback, grinding out 30 yards on the ground, and grabbing four passes for another 37.

Until that time, the Air Force played almost even ball with the Lions behind fancy running and passing of quarterback Terry Isaacson.

Isaacson scored the Air Force's lone tally in the second quarter on a 8-yard bootleg around his own right end.

Southern Cal Backs Defeat Trying SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Willie Brown took the opening kickoff back 92 yards for a touchdown, set up two more touchdowns with his running and pass-receiving and Bill Nelsen passed for two as Southern California rode over inept but trying Southern Methodist 33-3 Saturday night.

It was the second straight victory for unbeaten Southern California, the nation's No. 9 team, and the second consecutive loss for Southern Methodist, which hasn't been in the ratings in years. The Methodists have won only two games in three seasons.

Brown shocked SMU and the piddling crowd of 14,000 in the cavernous Cotton Bowl when he grabbed the opening kickoff on his eght-yard line and sped up the middle then to the right on an untouched jaunt to score.

His 32-yard run got the Trojans moving on their next touchdown drive of 89 yards, climaxed when Nelsen rammed over from the one. Then, in the third period Brown took a 1-yard pass from Nelsen to keep another drive that covered 68 yards winging.

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — The play of quarterback Billy Coleman sparked Southern Mississippi to a 29-0 victory over Southwestern, La., Saturday night.

Cards Defeat Dodgers With Broglio, 2-0

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, getting superb 2-hit pitching from Ernie Broglio, defeated Los Angeles 2-0 Saturday night and kept the reeling Dodgers from clinching the National League pennant.

This was the 9th loss for the Dodgers in their last 12 games, but they will still go into the final game of the season Sunday leading the second-place San Francisco Giants by a full game. If the Giants lose, or if the Dodgers win, or if both lose, Los Angeles will have its second National League pennant in four years. If the two clubs are tied after Sunday's games, a best-of-three playoff series will start in San Francisco Monday.

The Dodgers—through none of their own doing—clinched at least a first-place tie earlier when San Francisco lost the second game of its double-header with Houston.

The Dodgers set an all-time major league home attendance record by drawing 49,012 paid and running their season total to 2,641,845. The old record, 2,620,627, was established by Cleveland in 1948.

Broglio (12-9) struck out 9, walked 3 and retired 17 batters in order in one stretch. The only Dodger hits were a first-inning single by Duke Snider and a second-inning single by Wally Moon. The Dodgers didn't get a runner past second.

Right-hander Don Drysdale, a 25-game winner, went eight innings for Los Angeles, allowing no earned runs, and suffered his ninth loss. He was touched for five hits.

For mountain lovers, Colorado is the spot par excellence for summer vacations. For those interested in winter sports, Aspen and Hidden Valley rank high. But today we sing the joys of Colorado in the Autumn, with a faint nip in the air and color showing in the forests.

Visitors arriving in Denver find an amazingly level town for an altitude over five thousand feet. The capital city is situated on high plains, with the Front Range serving as backdrop. One of the first distinctive features to catch the eye is the use of hanging baskets filled with flowers and greenery on street corners. Pairs of these decorate lampposts throughout the downtown area. Denver is a city built of brick. Few wooden buildings are needed in a town backed up to towering clay hills.

From the earliest days of Spanish Conquistadores, men came to Colorado seeking gold. And found it, too, in "the richest square mile on earth," near Black Hawk and Central City. Gold leaf covering the roof of the State Capitol in Denver reflects the state's wealth.

For those interested in money, and this includes a large segment of our readers, there is the U. S. Mint in Denver, which coins nearly ninety per cent of the nation's change. (The Philadelphia mint makes foreign money, American only when Denver needs help.) Visitors enter through bullet proof glass doors and then through bullet proof bronze doors covered by a mounted machine gun. This is the only pedestrian entrance, and the motor entrance is similarly controlled. Trucks are admitted through a door which closes behind them before another opens in front.

Guards conduct a tour through the mint. One sees where copper, silver, and alloys are shaped into long strips which are in turn cut into coin-size rounds. These blanks pass through presses, where heads and tails are printed simultaneously. A constant check is maintained on the money, by both men and machine. Faulty stampings are detected at several check points, and coins are weighed from man to man at the end of each step of the operation. Scales so sensitive that they miss a fifty-cent piece out of $10,000 are used.

On their way out, visitors are permitted a glimpse through a door of glass and steel at real gold bricks. The Denver mint contains the largest store of gold outside of Ft. Knox.

We were privileged to attend the first game in new Falcon Stadium at the U. S. Air Force Academy, near Colorado Springs last Saturday. Opening day, designated as "Colorado Day," attracted a record crowd of nearly fifth thousand persons to Academy grounds. The Falcons, "homeless" for seven seasons, opened their stadium with a sound 34-0 drubbing administered to hapless Colorado State.

Governor Steve McNichols stated at half-time ceremonies that the Academy is Colorado's number one tourist attraction. As indeed it should be. Grounds and buildings constitute the most spectacular installation anywhere in the country.

As one drives south from Denver, one travels a straight road on the flat lands, with mountains visible across a meadow on the right. At the Academy entrance, one can see only a building resembling a pointed quonset hut situated where the road leads up from the meadow to the mill hills. But on making the turn and driving toward the building, one finds that the meadow is really five to ten miles wide, that there are rolling hills and valleys hidden here, that the quonset hut is something else again.

Granite, marble, glass, and steel are used in a complex of buildings surrounding a series of courts, all commanding a breathtaking view. The Academy is built where the mountains rise, with the hills behind, and forty miles of prairie stretching away in front. The whole gives a marvelous feeling of freedom and space, entirely suitable for an Air Force Academy. Particularly outstanding are the chapel and Arnold Hall, the cadet recreation center, which are included in the buildings open to the public at designated times.

Falcon Stadium is built into a hill, with three tiers of seats laid directly on the ground. One overlooks the football field, cadets seated in a body on the single tier East Side, and the unbeatable view behind.

The above road, south from Denver, is heading for desert country. Summer months would find it barren, but at this time of year wild flowers in lavender and yellow carpet the ground. There are few shrubs and practically no trees on the rolling plains.

From Denver north and west, on the other hand, roads go by canyon and creek into high timber country. Natives refer to aspens' "burning," a term describing the color of these white-barked trees in Autumn. The yellows and orangey - reds of aspen lick up like tongues of flames between the somber ponderosa, spruce, blue spruce, pine, and occasional red of a scrub oak.

Lovely drive at this time of year is that northwest from Denver to Estes Park and then along the Trail Ridge road through Rocky Mountain National Park. Though closed in deep winter, Trail Ridge is usually open through October, height of fall foliage season.

Another one - day trip from Denver which calls up memories of old time prospectors is that West through Clear Creek canyon. Gold was first panned in Clear Creek in 1859, and today's highway follows the stream past Idaho Springs, Golden, Lawson, and other familiar names. Side roads lead to Central City, Black Hawk, or Echo Lake. Following Highway 40, one crosses the Continental Divide over Berthoud Pass at some 12,000 feet. This is part of the skiing country which centers around Fraser and Winter Park.

On the way back to Denver is Red Rocks Park, with its spectacular formations of red sandstone. "Fountain" eruptions of red stone form a natural amphitheatre, seating 10,000. Acoustics are so perfect that no amplification is needed. Summer concerts as well as Easter Sunrise Services are held here.

Visits to these areas increase our respect for mountain men and homesteaders who opened the West. These lines from Rosemary and Stephen Vincent Benet's "Book of Americans" express it well:

They went with axe and rifle,
when the trail was still to blaze,
They went with wife and children, in the prairie-schooner days,
With banjo and with frying pan—
Susanna, don't you cry!
For I'm off to California to get rich out there or die!
We've broken land and cleared it,
but we're tired of where we are.
They say that wild Nebraska is a better place by are.
There's gold in far Wyoming,
there's black earth in Iowa
So pack up the kids and blankets, for we're moving out today!
The cowards never started and the weak died on the road,
And all across the continent the endless campfires glowed.
We'd taken land and settled—but a traveler passed by —
And we're going West tomorrow—
Lordy, never ask us why!
We're going West tomorrow,
where the promises can't fail
O'er the hills in legions, boys and crowd the dusty trail!
We shall starve and freeze and suffer. We shall die, and tame the lands.
But we're going West tomorrow, with our fortune in our hands.

MR. AND MRS. TEDDY VALENTINE BOOTH

Vows Unite Northeast Students

The marriage of Miss Gratchel Collier and Teddy Valentine Booth on Friday, September 14, was solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clingan, Jr., on Milam Street with only close friends and relatives attending.

Miss Collier is the daughter of Mrs. C. S. Patrick and the late Marshall Collier of Winnsboro. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Booth of Harrisonburg.

The Rev. Jesse Booth, uncle of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony, before an arch of wedding bells, entwined with greenery.

The bride wore a wedding gown styled of lace over satin. The bodice was featured a square neckline and sleeves that came to points over the wrists. The full floor length skirt with inserts of lace ended in a chapel train. She wore a veil of illusion attached to a bandeau of seed pearls and satin. The bride's bouquet was a white orchid surrounded with lilies of the valley mounded on a white Bible.

Miss Sue Rayborn was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a green model and a beige headpiece with the veil attached to a bow effect. She carried white mums in a cascade design, with satin streamers.

Mr. Booth served as best man at his son's wedding.

A reception was held at the home following the wedding services. The bride's table was overlaid with a lace cloth over green. The bride's and Miss Rayborn's flowers were used to adorn the table. The three tiers' wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was placed on a mirror surrounded with lilies of the valley. The crystal punch service was on the opposite end of the table.

After a wedding trip to Galveston, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Booth will be at home in Monroe where both are enrolled at Northeast State college.

As a change from the usual potato dish served with roast fresh ham and applesauce, offer freshly cooked noodles dressed with brown butter and poppy seed.

St. Francis Hospital Guild Names Officers

The St. Francis Hospital Guild met on Monday in the solarium on the roof of the hospital. Mrs. Bert Root, the outgoing president, presided.

Letters of thanks were noted from Dr. Gallagher, director of Department of Nursing at Northeast Louisiana State College, and Mr. J. O. Lancaster, supervisor of Scholarships and Placements, for the check on Nurse's Scholarship provided by the Guild. Reports were given by the treasurer, Mrs. Dewitt Milam, gift shop chairman, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Public Relations, and Mrs. Al Huey, who stated that magazines are distributed regularly and out of town patients are called on and assisted if needed.

Mrs. George Lewis, chairman of Candy Stripers, gave a report of the fine work these girls are doing and it was agreed that these girls will now be trained by the Red Cross, as suggested by Mrs. Veasey of the Red Cross. The Guild, through the Appropriations Committee, will do some work in the Pediatrics Ward when the building is finished, either in decorating or furnishings.

The nominating committee presented the new officers as follows: President, Mrs. Max H. Kulke; vice president, Mrs. Bert Root; secretary, Mrs. Howard Greene; treasurer, Mrs. Dewitt Milam. They were unanimously elected. Mrs. Root then turned the meeting over to the new president, Mrs. Kulke, who named committee chairmen as follows: Finance and Ways & Means, to work with the treasurer, Mrs. Milam — Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. James Rivers and Mrs. D. L. Newton; telephone, Mrs. R. S. Langhart; Gift Shop, Mrs. T. H. Scott; Cheer Committee, Mrs. George Lewis; Nurses Scholarship Fund, Mrs. O. H. Vreeland; Public Relations, Mrs. Al Huey; Cart, Mrs. E. P. McCullough; Hospitality, Mrs. S. E. Burgoyne; membership, Mrs. Alan Sugar; Publicity, Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt; Christmas Party, Pediatric and Geriatric Wards, Mrs. D. M. Moore. The Guild is to meet on the 4th Mondays.

Following adjournment, Mother Finbar invited members to the cafeteria for coffee.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Sandra Jean Barrett to Thomas Grey Godwin is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Barrett, of Perryville. Mr. Godwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Godwin, of Fairbanks, and the wedding will be solemnized in the Fairbanks Baptist Church by Rev. H. P. Tarpley, at seven o'clock on the evening of November 16.

For mountain lovers, Colorado is the spot par excellence for summer vacations. For those interested in winter sports, Aspen and Hidden Valley rank high. But today we sing the joys of Colorado in the Autumn, with a faint nip in the air and color showing in the forests.

Visitors arriving in Denver find an amazingly level town for an altitude over five thousand feet. The capital city is situated on high plains, with the Front Range serving as backdrop. One of the first distinctive features to catch the eye is the use of hanging baskets filled with flowers and greenery on street corners. Pairs of these decorate lampposts throughout the downtown area, Denver is a city built of brick. Few wooden buildings are needed in a town backed up to towering clay hills.

From the earliest days of Spanish Conquistadores, men came to Colorado seeking gold. And found it, too, in "the richest square mile on earth," near Black Hawk and Central City. Gold leaf covering the roof of the State Capitol in Denver reflects the state's wealth.

For those interested in money, and this includes a large segment of our readers, there is the U. S. Mint in Denver, which coins nearly ninety per cent of the nation's change. (The Philadelphia mint makes foreign money, American only when Denver needs help.) Visitors enter through bullet proof glass doors and then through bullet proof bronze doors covered by a mounted machine gun. This is the only pedestrian entrance, and the motor entrance is similarly controlled. Trucks are admitted through a door which closes behind them before another opens in front.

Guards conduct a tour through the mint. One sees where copper, silver, and alloys are shaped into long strips which are in turn cut into coin-size rounds. These blanks pass through presses, where heads and tails are printed simultaneously. A constant check is maintained on the money, by both men and machine. Faulty stampings are detected at several check points, and coins are weighed from man to man at the end of each step of the operation. Scales so sensitive that they miss a fifty-cent piece out of $10,000 are used.

On their way out, visitors are permitted a glimpse through a door of glass and steel at real gold bricks. The Denver mint contains the largest store of gold outside of Ft. Knox.

1962 Fashion Decrees New Coat Styles

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

Because both are so contradictory is the reason females and fashions are compatible.

Nothing illustrates this point better than coat styles for the coming winter.

Consider the materials used. Style-conscious women want the traditionally smooth fabrics such as wool to have hair on them, either a stubbly beard or locks so shaggy they need an occasional combing.

If the material is fur, and therefore has a nature-given abundance of hair, fashion designers decide that the fur coat would be better without its fur.

Take the styling. Once the material used not only determined the price but the occasion for wearing the coat.

For example, cloth coats were caste as the outer garment for sports and business, and were often tailored, and generally lower priced.

Interesting variation: add cooked corn niblets (cut from fresh cobs or canned) to a cream sauce and serve over sliced hard-cooked eggs. Sprinkle with parsley or chives.

When macaroni is leftover, you'll find it takes on extra flavor when it is reheated with a little stock. But make sure the paste isn't overcooked in the first place!

Quick brunch bread: make a one - egg cake and turn into pan; sprinkle with a little sugar mixed with cinnamon. Cut into squares or bars in pan, remove with wide spatula and serve hot.

When French chefs prepare tomato halves for broiling, they often squeeze out the seeds gently before dressing with salt, pepper and buttered crumbs.

Fall-Winter Forecast Says Front Shaping

Front shaping, often continuing all around, is the fashion pivot for coats and suits. The fall news is in the fresh variations of the more-than-ever body conscious shape, Women's Wear Daily notes.

The space look is generating lots of excitement. Here subtle front and back shaping is kept "spare" and well under control at the lightly curved sides of coats and suits. "Madison Avenue" men's suit details like small notched collars, three-button closings and narrow set-in sleeves, follow.

The pea coat has given rise to a bevy of fresh, jaunty jackets and coats. The details: Notched reefer collar, double-breasted buttons, side-slashed pockets, melton cloth.

In suits front fullness is a must, Women's Wear Daily finds. The fall suit really stays close to the body at front. It looks as though there will be just as many suits with eased as with fitted backs. Skirts provide exciting below the waistline interest. Slim but easy is the rule. Matchbox seaming, unpressed front panel pleat, trouser pleats, gathered waistbands and pleats build a narrow but never confined silhouette.

Mohair is staging a comeback especially for barrel shaped coats.

Homemakers who complain about stubborn wrinkles, harshness and stiffness in dryer - dried clothes are over-drying. Home economists with the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association recommend that clothing be removed from the gas clothes dryer while a touch of moisture still clings to the fibers. Over-drying, according to the GAMA experts, causes selvages on sheets and table cloths to curl and reduces the absorbency of towels.

Interesting variation: add cooked corn niblets (cut from fresh cobs or canned) to a cream sauce and serve over sliced hard-cooked eggs. Sprinkle with parsley or chives.

When macaroni is leftover, you'll find it takes on extra flavor when it is reheated with a little stock. But make sure the paste isn't overcooked in the first place!

Quick brunch bread: make a one - egg cake and turn into pan; sprinkle with a little sugar mixed with cinnamon. Cut into squares or bars in pan, remove with wide spatula and serve hot.

When French chefs prepare tomato halves for broiling, they often squeeze out the seeds gently before dressing with salt, pepper and buttered crumbs.

Fall-Winter Forecast Says Front Shaping

Front shaping, often continuing all around, is the fashion pivot for coats and suits. The fall news is in the fresh variations of the more-than-ever body conscious shape, Women's Wear Daily notes.

The spare look is generating lots of excitement. Here subtle front and back shaping is kept "spare" and well under control at the lightly curved sides of coats and suits. "Madison Avenue" men's suit details, like small notched collars, three-button closings and narrow set-in sleeves, follow.

The pea coat has given rise to a bevy of fresh, jaunty jackets and coats. The details: Notched reefer collar, double-breasted buttons, side-slashed pockets, melton cloth.

In suits front shaping is a must, Women's Wear Daily finds. The fall suit really stays close to the body at front. It looks as though there will be just as many suits with eased as with fitted backs. Skirts provide exciting below-the-waistline interest. Slim but easy is the rule. Matchbox seaming, unpressed front panel pleat, trouser pleats, gathered waistbands and pleats build a narrow but never confined silhouette.

Mohair is staging a comeback especially for barrel shaped coats.

Homemakers who complain about stubborn wrinkles, harshness and stiffness in dryer - dried clothes are over-drying. Home economists with the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association recommend that clothing be removed from the gas clothes dryer while a touch of moisture still clings to the fibers. Over-drying, according to the GAMA experts, causes selvages on sheets and table cloths to curl and reduces the absorbency of towels.

A Czechoslovakian combination: slices of roast pork served with caper sauce.

Joyce Laverne Patrick, Joe Kyle Wed In Delhi

A wedding arch of ivy and pink carnations interspersed with pink tapers, and branched candelabra entwined with ivy formed a setting in the Dunn Baptist Church in Delhi for the wedding of Miss Joyce Laverne Patrick, of Dunn, and Joe Mike Kyle, of Delhi, the nuptials were solemnized Saturday, September 15, at 8:00 p.m., and Rev. S. B. Boyette performed the double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly R. Patrick of Dunn, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Kyle of Delhi.

Preceeding the ceremony Mrs. Edward Thomas at the organ, accompanied Edward Thomas in nuptial selections, including "O Promise Me," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white satin with bouffant skirt, featured a lace bodice with jeweled neckline, and long sleeves tapering to petal points over her wrists. A tiara of seed pearls and sequins held in place her fingertip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of lilies of the valley and satin leaves surrounding a white orchid. White streamers of showered satin fell from the bouquet.

Mrs. Patsy Howard Roberts, who served as matron of honor, wore a street length mint green dress of soft cotton. Her bouquet was of rose branched carnations. Miss Jane Teer of Delhi, bridesmaid, was dressed identical to the matron of honor, and carried a similar bouquet.

Garland Kyle of Delhi attended the groom as best man, and groomsman was Lamar Duckworth Jr., of Monroe. Tapers were lighted by John Truette Patrick, brother of the bride, and Paul Allen Wells.

Mrs. Patrick was wearing for her daughter's wedding an early fall ensemble of azalea pink with matching accessories, and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Kyle wore a sheath model in shades of brown, and her corsage was of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

The Patrick home in Dunn was scene of the reception following the church ceremony. The bouquets of the honor attendants formed the centerpiece of the round table, overlaid with a lace cloth over pink satin. Branched candelabra holding burning pink tapers flanked the centerpiece, while a tiered wedding cake reposed at one end of the table, and a punch service at the other end. Miss Alice Gilley, of Dunn, served the cake, while Miss Jane McKibben, also of Dunn, poured punch. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Jane Fitzgerald, and assisting with the courtesies was Mrs. Clayton Cooper.

Out - of - town guests included Walter Robertson of Houma, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ellerman, Miss Wydell Ellerman, Miss Jean Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Womble, all of Winnsboro; Mrs. C. C. Dopson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Orndoff, Linda and Louise Orndoff, Miss Linda Morse, all of Rayville, and Mrs. Lamar Duckworth, Jr., of Monroe.

For a wedding trip the bride changed to a black and white suit with black accessories.

Mrs. Kyle graduated from Delhi High School, and is a junior at Louisiana Tech in Ruston. The groom is also a graduate of Delhi High School, and is a junior at Louisiana Tech. The couple will make their home in Ruston.

Children (and their parents) can help keep themselves feeling fit by following a regular program of proper sleep, exercise, and good habits of eating. Good nutrition includes proper vitamins — every day. If keeping up with fall activities causes members of your family to neglect or miss nutritionally-sound meals, they could become victims of vitamin deficiency.

To help protect your family and yourself from vitamin deficiency, get VIGRAN®.. multi-vitamins in a form for each member of your family . . . capsules, liquid, chewable tablets, or tablets with minerals added. Curtain Call

President Larry Shipman reminds Little Theatre trustees and directors of the important joint meeting to be held tomorrow night at 7:30 at Strauss Playhouse. There are many matters to be discussed as the new season starts, so he is hoping for a full attendance.

The patron total stands at 160, two more than last season. As the patron listing for the program is now on its way to the printer, today is the very last chance to call vice president Mrs. L. H. Carter at FAirfax 3-8509 for this type of membership.

Memberships in all categories have crossed the thousand mark and are swelling at a rapid rate. We urge those wanting sustaining, regular and student memberships to send their checks to Box 868, Monroe, so that we can revise last year's mailing list in time for the notice of "The Solid Gold Cadillac" which we plan to mail late this week or early next. With the opening date drawing close, we want to allow ample time for members to make advance reservations by mail before the Strauss Playhouse box-office takes down its shutters.

PROSPECTIVE

Prospective members who have not received the attractive brochure distributed several weeks ago may secure a copy by calling Mrs. Carter at the above number. The brochure lists the attractions for the coming season and explains the different types of membership.

Rehearsals for "The Solid Gold Cadillac" are now in full swing. Director Richard M. Clark has admonished the cast to dispense with playbooks for Act 1 and the entire play is to be memorized in another week. Since the highly successful comedy is a parody of big business, technical director Raymond Lucero is shaping the sets to reflect an atmosphere of caricature and fantasy which we think will amuse our audience.

Help Wanted: backstage workers to assist with scenery, properties, lights and sound; light work, no pay, lots of fun; male or female, ages 17 to 70; apply in person Strauss Playhouse nightly 7:30 p.m.; no experience necessary.

We haven't actually run such an ad, but it expresses a need and an opportunity. Anyone curious to find out if he or she would enjoy the companionship of Little Theatre activity is invited to respond.

ATTEND SHOWING

A number of Little Theatre enthusiasts journeyed to New Orleans to see the Gallery Circle production of "The Fantasticks." Mrs. C. H. McHenry, Miss Lallage Feazel, Miss Betty Bandy, Miss Pat Peyton, Norman Jones, and Tony Gonzales all enjoyed the popular off-Broadway musical which has just had its 1,000th performance in New York. Evidently Ivan Uttal has lost none of the directing skill to which we were accustomed here.

Thomas R. Henry Jr., was elected a trustee to fill the unexpired term of John Pierpont who, as earlier reported, is moving to Lafayette. Last year Tom served on our box-office committee, while Ruth Henry worked on membership. His parents are life patrons.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Center Dedication Overly Serious

By JOHN CALE

After last week's summary of culture along Highway I-20 and points south, there have been several highlights along the scales both local and national. There was a filmed opera at the Paramount Theatre (here), the final curtain for an excellent Broadway musical (there), and the dedication of Philharmonic Hall at the New York Lincoln Center for Performing Arts (way out yonder).

Opera purists don't think opera on film is the greatest, but they usually turn out and enjoy the product anyhow. Last year's series opera festival at the local movie house was well attended, and from the reception of "Don Giovanni" Thursday, it appears this form of heavier than average entertainment has found a place on the silver screen.

"Don Giovanni" is a fine piece of musical writing for any era. It so happens that when it was composed, opera furnished entertainment for the general public just as do today's movies. Now, it's merely making a comeback from such temples of preservations as the Metropolitan Opera House. If the movies can give it back to the people, then the jumping celluloid with soundtrack is rendering a real service.

'FAIR LADY'

Last night was set as the final farewell for the Broadway run of "My Fair Lady, the tuneful Lerner and Loewe musical comedy that has run in the big city since March 15, 1956. So far as records go, its 2,717 performances place it out front for a musical. The road company has been traveling since March 18, 1957, and is booked through January 5, 1963. Foreign reproductions have also flourished.

The axiom that "money draws more money" has also helped in the case of "Fair Lady." Herman Levin estimated receipts from the New York company alone would be over $20 million. No wonder that show business isn't considered slow business when it comes to a successful musical.

DEDICATION

Musical comedy, as a result, finds its way to theatres throughout the country by way of amateur performances and road companies. Louisiana Tech accomplished a summer production of "South Pacific" during the heat wave of the immediate past and the Little Theatre here, the Tech concert series as well as the Northeast series all plan to include musicals in their current seasons.

Since New York City is a rather large place and can afford to erect such monuments to culture as the Lincoln Center for Performing Arts, it was fitting that the dedication of Philharmonic Hall be televised for viewers throughout the nation.

This is the first large - size concert hall to be dedicated in the city since Carnegie Hall was completed in 1891. Conductor Leonard Bernstein displayed an extra amount of energy in whipping the orchestra and choirs into shape for the difficult program, which in many instances was difficult to listen to.

Why did Aaron Copland, for example, choose to write his contribution for the occasion in the "twelve tone" system? Let's face it, this sort of music by calculation has been rejected insofar as music not used as background for theatre or ballet. The first attempts were made around the time of World War I. Anything in the idiom is still considered experimental. Was any published composition of Beethoven or even Wagner considered experimental a half - century after it was composed? No wonder that one New Yorker in the audience reportedly cried out, "Stop this noise."

We have no objection to the performance of ultra - serious music and it's a fine thing that New York and the rest of the country will be hearing more of it from the new Philharmonic Hall. But even a battleship is christened with a bottle of champagne, a liquid which has its lighter moments. It seems that the programming for the Philharmonic Hall dedication was hit with a jar of deep fat or heavy hydrogen.

Activity Reaches Peak In October

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway theatrical activity reaches its seasonal peak during October with 14 arrivals scheduled. Fourteen current attractions continue on display.

This is the order in which the newcomers arrive:

Eddie Fisher Variety Show, at the Winter Garden. A four-week engagement begins Oct. 2. The vocalist's supporting company includes Juliet Prwose and Dick Gregory.

"Stop the World — I Want To Get Off," Shubert, Oct. 3. English musical about a poor boy's rise to power and prestige. Cast includes Anthony Newley, also coauthor and director; Anna Quayle and Stephanie Winters.

"Come on Strong," Morosco, Oct. 4. Garson Kanin Comedy about a young actress and fledgling photographer, played by Carroll Baker and Van Johnson.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," Billy Rose, Oct. 14. Edward Albee's first full-length play concerns a couple embattled over truth and illusion. Principals are Uta Hagen, George Grizzard and Arthur Hill.

Curtain Call

President Larry Shipman reminds Little Theatre trustees and directors of the important joint meeting to be held tomorrow night at 7:30 at Strauss Playhouse. There are many matters to be discussed as the new season starts, so he is hoping for a full attendance.

The patron total stands at 160, two more than last season. As the patron listing for the program is now on its way to the printer, today is the very last chance to call vice-president Mrs. L. H. Carter at FAirfax 3-8509 for this type of membership.

Memberships in all categories have crossed the thousand mark and are swelling at a rapid rate. We urge those wanting sustaining, regular and student memberships to send their checks to Box 868, Monroe, so that we can revise last year's mailing list in time for the notice of "The Solid Gold Cadillac" which we plan to mail late this week or early next. With the opening date drawing close, we want to allow ample time for members to make advance reservations by mail before the Strauss Playhouse box-office takes down its shutters.

PROSPECTIVE

Prospective members who have not received the attractive brochure distributed several weeks ago may secure a copy by calling Mrs. Carter at the above number. The brochure lists the attractions for the coming season and explains the different types of membership.

Rehearsals for "The Solid Gold Cadillac" are now in full swing. Director Richard M. Clark has admonished the cast to dispense with playbooks for Act 1 and the entire play is to be memorized in another week. Since the highly successful comedy is a parody of big business, technical director Raymond Lucero is shaping the sets to reflect an atmosphere of caricature and fantasy which we think will amuse our audience.

Help Wanted: backstage workers to assist with scenery, properties, lights and sound; light work, no pay, lots of fun; male or female, ages 17 to 70; apply in person Strauss Playhouse nightly 7:30 p.m.; no experience necessary.

We haven't actually run such an ad, but it expresses a need and an opportunity. Anyone curious to find out if he or she would enjoy the companionship of Little Theatre activity is invited to respond.

ATTEND SHOWING

A number of Little Theatre enthusiasts journeyed to New Orleans to see the Gallery Circle production of "The Fantasticks." Mrs. C. H. McHenry, Miss Lallage Feazel, Miss Betty Bandy, Miss Pat Peyton, Norman Jones, and Tony Gonzales all enjoyed the popular off-Broadway musical which has just had its 1,000th performance in New York. Evidently Ivan Uttal has lost none of the directing skill to which we were accustomed here.

Thomas R. Henry Jr., was elected a trustee to fill the unexpired term of John Pierpont who, as earlier reported, is moving to Lafayette. Last year Tom served on our box-office committee, while Ruth Henry worked on membership. His parents are life patrons.

AMUSEMENTS

ROMANTIC PARTNERS in a scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's entertainment filled musical, "Rose Marie", are Ann Blyth and Howard Keel. The musical is to be presented Wednesday at the Jim Theatre as the first of the series of Golden Operettas.

Center Dedication Overly Serious

By JOHN CALE

After last week's summary of culture along Highway I-20 and points south, there have been several highlights along the scales both local and national. There was a filmed opera at the Paramount Theatre (here), the final curtain for an excellent Broadway musical (there), and the dedication of Philharmonic Hall at the New York Lincoln Center for Performing Arts (way out yonder).

Opera purists don't think opera on film is the greatest, but they usually turn out and enjoy the product anyhow. Last year's series opera festival at the local movie house was well attended, and from the reception of "Don Giovanni" Thursday, it appears this form of heavier than average entertainment has found a place on the silver screen.

"Don Giovanni" is a fine piece of musical writing for any era. It so happens that when it was composed, opera furnished entertainment for the general public just as do today's movies. Now, it's merely making a comeback from such temples of preservations as the Metropolitan Opera House. If the movies can give it back to the people, then the jumping celluloid with soundtrack is rendering a real service.

'FAIR LADY'

Last night was set as the final farewell for the Broadway run of "My Fair Lady, the tuneful Lerner and Loewe musical comedy that has run in the big city since March 15, 1956. So far as records go, its 2,717 performances place it out front for a musical. The road company has been traveling since March 18, 1957, and is booked through January 5, 1963. Foreign reproductions have also flourished.

The axiom that "money draws more money" has also helped in the case of "Fair Lady." Herman Levin estimated receipts from the New York company alone would be over $20 million. No wonder that show business isn't considered slow business when it comes to a successful musical.

DEDICATION

Musical comedy, as a result, finds its way to theatres throughout the country by way of amateur performances and road companies. Louisiana Tech accomplished a summer production of "South Pacific" during the heat wave of the immediate past and the Little Theatre here, the Tech concert series as well as the Northeast series all plan to include musicals in their current seasons.

Since New York City is a rather large place and can afford to erect such monuments to culture as the Lincoln Center for Performing Arts, it was fitting that the dedication of Philharmonic Hall be televised for viewers throughout the nation.

This is the first large - size concert hall to be dedicated in the city since Carnegie Hall was completed in 1891. Conductor Leonard Bernstein displayed an extra amount of energy in whipping the orchestra and choirs into shape for the difficult program, which in many instances was difficult to listen to.

Why did Aaron Copland, for example, choose to write his contribution for the occasion in the "twelve tone" system? Let's face it, this sort of music by calculation has been rejected insofar as music not used as background for theatre or ballet The first attempts were made around the time of World War I. Anything in the idiom is still considered experimental. Was any published composition of Beethoven or even Wagner considered experimental a half - century after it was composed? No wonder that one New Yorker in the audience reportedly cried out, "Stop this noise."

We have no objection to the performance of ultra - serious music and it's a fine thing that New York and the rest of the country will be hearing more of it from the new Philharmonic Hall. But even a battleship is christened with a bottle of champagne, a liquid which has its lighter moments. It seems that the programming for the Philharmonic Hall dedication was hit with a jar of deep fat or heavy hydrogen.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Displays Analyzed

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Mrs. Ben Coulter, member of Winnsboro Garden Club, also, past president of the Louisiana Federated Garden Clubs, led the Garden Center program for her club last week with a panel of three members taking part.

Mrs. Coulter made and analyzed three arrangements as her part on this interesting program. The president of the Winnsboro Garden Club, Mrs. Sam Carriere, followed Mrs. Coulter on the program telling about her club's projects and theme for the year, "Gardening Service to the Home and the Community."

The slogan of the club is "Battle Blight with Beauty." Of course, the club is working faithfully with the "Cleanest City Campaign." Winnsboro hopes to make this a permanent thing. This is a fine thing for all towns and cities to concentrate on doing since there is certainly nothing to lose and so much to gain.

INTRODUCTION

Mrs. Carriere introduced the third member of the panel, Mrs. Albert Greenwald, chairman of the Garden Therapy. I will tell you about her program after I first describe the lovely arrangements made by Mrs. Coulter.

Mrs. Coulter emphasized line and rhythm in the arrangements that she made. She stressed that line is most important to achieve more interesting results. Rhythm is the element in a design which gives the feeling of movement. The first design was a vertical line. The main line was achieved by seven tiered yucca stalks, giving height, with contrasting foliage forms (the leaves of the rice plant) and blossoms of the candle tree at the base.

Green pyracanthia berries were used as a filler through the design. The container was a tall white cylinder on a round black footed base. The tall container and the flower design expressed the aspiring and aesthetic values attained by the tall vertical line.

The second design? "the circular line," was illustrated by the use of sweet gum branches, rounded to form an oval design in a round black bowl. Mrs. Coulter said that she soaked these branches several days ahead to make them pliable for this design. This line was strengthened by the placement of spike celosia (rose - red in color), with heavy massed celosia of the same color placed low in the design forming the focal area. For a background Mrs. Coulter made a round disk covered with mauve textured fabric. There was effective harmony of materials used. The whole design was placed on a black lazy susan for a base.

TRIANGLE LINE

Design three emphasized the "triangle line," a composition in the Oriental manner. The artificial flowers were used quite effectively in this design which featured a fabulous Japanese figurine for it's main interest. The chinese blue of the delphiniums and grey eucalyptus foliage made a pleasing color combination forming the main line of the design. At the base Mrs. Coulter used white tulips - opened - out petals to resemble the lotus blossom.

Two butterflies were placed for interest and added to the Japanese feeling. The whole composition was placed on a large black teakwood base. This arrangement would be long - lasting and a conversational piece in the den or on the long low coffee table of the living room.

Mrs. Greenwald, the Garden Therapy chairman of her club, had some examples of the handwork of the children she works with in the school for handicapped children.

She would not take credit for her part but, instead, praised the teachers who work faithfully with these children.

Some of these works of art were: ribbon covered coat hangers; a white carnation corsage made of paper tissues and tied with ribbon bows donated by the florist; paper weights and door stops made of scrap lumber; a clever shoeshine box; a book shelf; and, a red strawberry plaque with holders for two woven pot holders; and, a small basket made of pop - sickle sticks. Mrs. Greenwald said that this was just a small example of the things made. But, of course she could not bring them all. Isn't this a splendid thing for the garden club to sponsor? We should all concentrate more on this type project within our garden clubs. There is a great need of junior clubs. Maybe we will all be inspired by this program and do something about it.

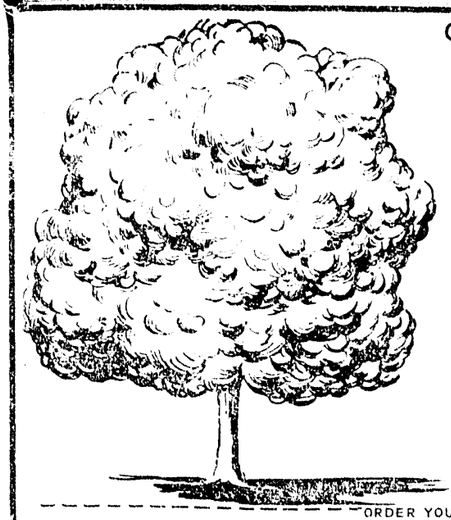
Pink Mist

SMOKE TREE



In July when most other trees have quit blooming, the beautiful "Pink Mist" Smoke trees (Cotinus coggygria) burst forth with big clusters of light pink panicles resembling big clouds of smoke so dense you can't see through them. The tree resembles one large cloud of smoke — like a pink cloud resting on a tree trunk. And then in the fall the tree is ablaze in a beautiful array of red, scarlet and orange foliage. Grows to about 15 feet. Especially lovely when three are planted together. You receive choice, hand selected 2 to 4 feet collected trees. SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay $1.00 for 1 tree, $2.50 for 3 trees, or $4.50 for 6 trees, plus C.O.D. charges. We pay postage on prepaid orders. If not 100% satisfied, we'll gladly refund your money — you don't even have to return the trees. Free planting booklet included with every order.

CAMERA Angles

LIGHT is the universal element in photography. Without it, there could be no photography — whereas you can make pictures without a camera, without film or without a lens.

To make pictures without a camera or film, objects can be placed directly on sensitized paper and exposed to light. The result, called a photogram, can show the delicate tracery of a leaf, lace or glass with photographic artistry. Other objects can be revealed in pleasing outline design.

A pin-hole camera can, without a lens, photograph a scene with artistic value. Its main requirement is enough light.

To master photography, therefore, one must master light. To put it another way, if you want to become a better photographer you must study light and learn how to evaluate, control and use it.

Tremendous strides have been made in the photo field to help camera fans maintain control over light. Sensitive light meters are available which measure it and inform photographers what the proper exposure should be. However, it is up to each photographer to point the meter — or the meter-coupled camera — in the right direction and evaluate the answers. Being human, he sometimes makes a few errors.

For instance, he might fail to set the meter for the correct ASA speed of the film being used. Or he might be reading the meter in the light whereas the subject pointed at may be principally in shadow (or vice versa). Or he might be after certain offbeaten effects — high key or a silhouette — without making allowances for them by some over-exposure or under - exposure.

Today, too, we have artificial sunshine at our disposal in tinier flashbulbs and portable electronic flashlamps and movie lamps. However, with the faster films in use nowadays, we are apt to overpower our subjects with too much light, especially in close-ups.

To prevent facial washouts, here are some of the things you can try in a series of shots to be sure of getting some good exposures:

EXTENSION NEWS

Repot Big Plants Now

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

It is time now to repot those plants that have outgrown their pots, and if they are in good shape be sure to enter them in our horticultural division in the parish fair October 8 - 13th.

If you do not know whether there's a place for your particular plant, come by and get a list of the entries. Each flower that may be entered will be shown on the card.

Now back to our job of repotting plants. It is a good idea to repot the plants three to four weeks before they are moved to indoor areas where conditions for growth may not be as satisfactory as the outdoors.

SELECT CONTAINER

For variety it may be desirable to select a new type of container. The plant may have been in a large clay pot and for a change choose a redwood tub. Always select containers that are in proper proportion to the plant, and use colors that will not only look well with the plant, but the overall home furnishings as well.

Starting new plants from cuttings or air layering is often more satisfactory than carrying over year after year the old ones for many times the old ones get leggy. This is especially true of such semi - tropicals as overgrown rubber plants, dieffenbachia, dracanenas and the larger type phellodendrous.

We have many calls concerning failure of homemakers in growing houseplants. According to Neil Odenwald, our assistant horticulturist, water, light and temperature in wrong amounts is a frequent cause of failure of house plants to grow properly. The best way to water house plants is to soak them thoroughly every five to seven days. Light frequent watering is detrimental to good root growth.

Most foliage plants thrive in strongly diffused light. Some plants will withstand full sunlight. Give your plants as much light as possible. Supplemental light from incandescent or fluorescent lamps may be helpful.

Most house plants grow best when the temperature is not allowed to go below 60 degrees. Extremes of either heat or cold may harm plants.

BLEACHING TOWELS

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have white cotton towels which have become grayed and strained, use liquid chlorine bleach and an all-purpose detergent. For the top loading washer fill the washer with hot water and add one to 1½ cups of all - purpose detergent for a full load of towels, agitate for three minutes, so that the "brightener" in the detergent has a chance to act on the fabric. Next dilute one cup of liquid chlorine bleach with two quarts of warm water and add to the sudsy wash water. Mrs. Hissong, our Home Management Specialist, advises not to add the bleach at the beginning of the wash cycle because bleach added with the detergent counteracts the effect of brightener in the detergent.

The bleach should be diluted before its added to the clothes. Do not add the bleach full strength as it weakens and breaks down the fibers. After bleach is added, towels should be agitated the full wash cycle or about 15 minutes in a concentrated wash. It may take several launderings to restore whiteness. A long washing time with a bleach, is most effective for restoring whiteness but, it also weakens the fabric.

When using a front loading machine, add one - half cup low sudsing detergent, and in about three minutes add one - half cup liquid chlorine bleach which has been diluted with one quart of water. Wash as usual. A front loading machine uses less water than a top loader and operates best with a low sudsing detergent according to our specialist, Miss Hissong.

Stamp News

Ancient Chinese Paintings in the Palace Museum are the subject of a new set of four stamps from the Republic of China, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. This is the second in a series of Palace Museum Paintings on stamps from that independent nation now based on the Island of Formosa.

Four portraits of famous Emperors have been selected from this priceless collection. T'ang Tai Tsung, second emperor of the T'ang Empire who reigned from 27-649, is featured on one value; Emperor T'ai Tsu, first ruler of the Sung Dynasty, who reigned from 960-975 is on another; Genghis Khan, ruthless ruler of a mighty empire from 1206-1227, is a third feature; and the founder of the Ming Dynasty is portrayed on the highest value.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fall Garden Time Here

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The glorious fall and winter gardening season is here again for us in the southern states. We can transplant trees, shrubs and flowers, plant bulbs, sow the seeds of winter annuals and get the lawn going again.

Cooler mornings and afternoons make weeding and digging a pleasure. Shrubs will not grow very much more, so it is time to prune and preen them into the shape in which they will remain until growing time again.

The best time to plant Chinese forget me nots, California poppies, Johnny jump - ups (viola tricolor), baby blue - eyes (nemophylla) is right now. Get the seeds from a seed store or order them immediately.

If you can have them on hand to sow right after you have pulled weeds and stirred the surface of your flower beds, these "winter annuals" will come right up and make fine little plants before the hard frosts.

We should have included larkspur in the list, of course. The fine annual larkspurs offered to us in the seed stores and catalogues are almost as beautiful as delphinium. As matter of fact, they are really annual delphiniums.

Larkspur and the other winter annuals, sown generously in the garden now will provide plenty of plants to transplant into the space over your tulip bulbs after you have set them out later in the fall. There are several more cold hardy annuals in the catalogues. Try Crepis rubra — like pink dandelion, echium plantagineum and silene pendula. This pink silene or catch - fly is a tough, drought resistant annual that will stick it out when hot weather comes in April and bloom profusely for weeks and weeks.

Fall is the best time to order and set out perennials in the garden. They will establish themselves in our long autumn and mild winter and flower lustily when spring and summer come around. It is a pity that we have had no botanical garden here in the South to develop some heat and humidity - resistant delphiniums, but that day is coming fast. In the meantime, we can order the plants of the belladonna and the bellamosa delphiniums and delphinium chinensis and treat them as annuals. They will flower, if they are kept watered, up into June and July. Then they usually succumb to the heat and drought and humidity. Florists are able to grow and flower these plants right on through the summer under lath houses.

Webworms in trees and bushes can be removed easily with a long pole with some rags tied firmly onto its end. Do not burn webworms under any circumstances; you will scorch your tree so badly that it may never recover from such brutal treatment.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Displays Analyzed

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Mrs. Ben Coulter, member of Winnsboro Garden Club, also, past president of the Louisiana Federated Garden Clubs, led the Garden Center program for her club last week with a panel of three members taking part.

Mrs. Coulter made and analyzed three arrangements as her part on this interesting program. The president of the Winnsboro Garden Club, Mrs. Sam Carriere, followed Mrs. Coulter on the program telling about her club's projects and theme for the year, "Gardening Service to the Home and the Community."

The slogan of the club is "Battle Blight with Beauty." Of course, the club is working faithfully with the "Cleanest City Campaign." Winnsboro hopes to make this a permanent thing. This is a fine thing for all towns and cities to concentrate on doing since there is certainly nothing to lose and so much to gain.

INTRODUCTION

Mrs. Carriere introduced the third member of the panel, Mrs. Albert Greenwald, chairman of the Garden Therapy. I will tell you about her program after I first describe the lovely arrangements made by Mrs. Coulter.

Mrs. Coulter emphasized line and rhythm in the arrangements that she made. She stressed that line is most important to achieve more interesting results. Rhythm is the element in a design which gives the feeling of movement. The first design was a vertical line. The main line was achieved by seven tiered yucca stalks, giving height, with contrasting foliage forms (the leaves of the rice plant) and blossoms of the candle tree at the base.

Green pyracanthia berries were used as a filler through the design. The container was a tall white cylinder on a round black footed base. The tall container and the flower design expressed the aspiring and aesthetic values attained by the tall vertical line.

The second design? "the circular line," was illustrated by the use of sweet gum branches, rounded to form an oval design in a round black bowl. Mrs. Coulter said that she soaked these branches several days ahead to make them pliable for this design. This line was strengthened by the placement of spike celosia (rose - red in color), with heavy massed celosia of the same color placed low in the design forming the focal area. For a background Mrs. Coulter made a round disk covered with mauve textured fabric. There was effective harmony of materials used. The whole design was placed on a black lazy susan for a base.

TRIANGLE LINE

Design three emphasized the "triangle line," a composition in the Oriental manner. The artificial flowers were used quite effectively in this design which featured a fabulous Japanese figurine for it's main interest. The chinese blue of the delphiniums and grey eucalyptus foliage made a pleasing color combination forming the main line of the design. At the base Mrs. Coulter used white tulips - opened - out petals to resemble the lotus blossom.

Two butterflies were placed for interest and added to the Japanese feeling. The whole composition was placed on a large black teakwood base. This arrangement would be long - lasting and a conversational piece in the den or on the long low coffee table of the living room.

Mrs. Greenwald, the Garden Therapy chairman of her club, had some examples of the handwork of the children she works with in the school for handicapped children.

She would not take credit for her part but, instead, praised the teachers who work faithfully with these children.

Some of these works of art were: ribbon covered coat hangers; a white carnation corsage made of paper tissues and tied with ribbon bows donated by the florist; paper weights and door stops made of scrap lumber; a clever shoeshine box; a book shelf; and, a red strawberry plaque with holders for two woven pot holders; and, a small basket made of pop - sickle sticks. Mrs. Greenwald said that this was just a small example of the things made. But, of course she could not bring them all. Isn't this a splendid thing for the garden club to sponsor? We should all concentrate more on this type project within our garden clubs. There is a great need of junior clubs. Maybe we will all be inspired by this program and do something about it.

CAMERA Angles

LIGHT is the universal element in photography. Without it, there could be no photography — whereas you can make pictures without a camera, without film or without a lens.

To make pictures without a camera or film, objects can be placed directly on sensitized paper and exposed to light. The result, called a photogram, can show the delicate tracery of a leaf, lace or glass with photographic artistry. Other objects can be revealed in pleasing outline design.

A pin-hole camera can, without a lens, photograph a scene with artistic value. Its main requirement is enough light.

To master photography, therefore, one must master light. To put it another way, if you want to become a better photographer you must study light and learn how to evaluate, control and use it.

Tremendous strides have been made in the photo field to help camera fans maintain control over light. Sensitive light meters are available which measure it and inform photographers what the proper exposure should be. However, it is up to each photographer to point the meter — or the meter-coupled camera — in the right direction and evaluate the answers. Being human, he sometimes makes a few errors.

For instance, he might fail to set the meter for the correct ASA speed of the film being used. Or he might be reading the meter in the light whereas the subject pointed at may be principally in shadow (or vice versa). Or he might be after certain offbeaten effects — high key or a silhouette — without making allowances for them by some over-exposure or under - exposure.

Today, too, we have artificial sunshine at our disposal in tinier flashbulbs and portable electronic flashlamps and movie lamps. However, with the faster films in use nowadays, we are apt to overpower our subjects with too much light, especially in close-ups.

To prevent facial washouts, here are some of the things you can try in a series of shots to be sure of getting some good exposures:

EXTENSION NEWS

Repot Big Plants Now

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

It is time now to repot those plants that have outgrown their pots, and if they are in good shape be sure to enter them in our horticultural division in the parish fair October 8 - 13th.

If you do not know whether there's a place for your particular plant, come by and get a list of the entries. Each flower that may be entered will be shown on the card.

Now back to our job of repotting plants. It is a good idea to repot the plants three to four weeks before they are moved to indoor areas where conditions for growth may not be as satisfactory as the outdoors.

SELECT CONTAINER

For variety it may be desirable to select a new type of container. The plant may have been in a large clay pot and for a change choose a redwood tub. Always select containers that are in proper proportion to the plant, and use colors that will not only look well with the plant, but the overall home furnishings as well.

Starting new plants from cuttings or air layering is often more satisfactory than carrying over year after year the old ones for many times the old ones get leggy. This is especially true of such semi - tropicals as overgrown rubber plants, dieffenbachia, dracanenas and the larger type phellodendrous.

We have many calls concerning failure of homemakers in growing houseplants. According to Neil Odenwald, our assistant horticulturist, water, light and temperature in wrong amounts is a frequent cause of failure of house plants to grow properly. The best way to water house plants is to soak them thoroughly every five to seven days. Light frequent watering is detrimental to good root growth.

Most foliage plants thrive in strongly diffused light. Some plants will withstand full sunlight. Give your plants as much light as possible. Supplemental light from incandescent or fluorescent lamps may be helpful.

Most house plants grow best when the temperature is not allowed to go below 60 degrees. Extremes of either heat or cold may harm plants.

BLEACHING TOWELS

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have white cotton towels which have become grayed and strained, use liquid chlorine bleach and an all-purpose detergent. For the top loading washer fill the washer with hot water and add one to 1½ cups of all - purpose detergent for a full load of towels, agitate for three minutes, so that the "brightener" in the detergent has a chance to act on the fabric. Next dilute one cup of liquid chlorine bleach with two quarts of warm water and add to the sudsy wash water. Mrs. Hissong, our Home Management Specialist, advises not to add the bleach at the beginning of the wash cycle because bleach added with the detergent counteracts the effect of brightener in the detergent.

The bleach should be diluted before its added to the clothes. Do not add the bleach full strength as it weakens and breaks down the fibers. After bleach is added, towels should be agitated the full wash cycle or about 15 minutes in a concentrated wash. It may take several launderings to restore whiteness. A long washing time with a bleach, is most effective for restoring whiteness but, it also weakens the fabric.

When using a front loading machine, add one - half cup low sudsing detergent, and in about three minutes add one - half cup liquid chlorine bleach which has been diluted with one quart of water. Wash as usual. A front loading machine uses less water than a top loader and operates best with a low sudsing detergent according to our specialist, Miss Hissong.

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time American technicians have made a recording in Moscow. That's the news, for whatver you want to make of it. To this reviewer the manufacturer's hoopla over it is a lot of noise about little. Why should the record listener care where a record was made — as long as the sound which comes off it is satisfactory?

The sound which comes off this one is of Prokofiev's 3rd piano concerto and Rachamaninoff's 1st. The pianist was the American, Byron Janis, and the orchestra was the Moscow Philharmonic with Kyril Kondrashin conducting (Mercury-50300). Despite the difficulties of taking American technicians and their equipment all the way to Moscow and working in a strange hall the quality of the recorded sound is excellent.

And so is Janis' piano playing, of course. He is particularly brilliant with the Prokofiev which is a somewhat brittle piece and requires the soloist to keep a firm hand on all the elements less they fly apart. Rachmaninoff's 1st has been resistant to the best endeavors of many pianists and it is not surprising that Janis found it immalleable.

To Sylvia Marlowe belongs the achievement of the best recording of Bach's "The Goldberg Variations" since the late Wanda Landowska made hers. Miss Marlowe proved, as Miss Landowska proved, these variations are the spirit and tones of the harpsichord, and much is lost when they are played on the piano (Decca-710056).

Of much more than routine interest are Mario Castlenuovo-Tedesco's settings of the poems of Juan Ramon Jimenez who won a Nobel prize in 1956. Five of the set called "Platero and I" are tenderly played by Andres Segovia, the greatest living master of the guitar, with all of his celebrated feeling for whimsical emotion. "Platero" was the poet's donkey, by the way. (Decca-710054.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every once in a while a record company will issue a major production in tribute to a star no longer with us.

Last year Verve offered a magnificent, five LP set, "The Bill Broonzy Story," which should have won a Grammy (record industry's Oscar) but for some reason didn't.

Late this summer two equally desirable sets were put on the market — 'Mildred Bailey, Her Greatest Performances" (Columbia C3122) and "Historical Masterpieces" by Charlie (Bird) Parker (Charlie Parker PLP-701).

The Mildred Bailey set contains three LP's that span her career from 1929 through 1946, from the days she sang with such great instrumentalists as Bunny Berigan through sessions with the Dorsey Brothers, Coleman Hawkins, Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and Teddy Wilson.

There is no doubt that Miss Bailey was one of the great song stylists of our century. Even the early records' poor fidelity fail to hide the emotion in her voice.

Parker now is a sort of a saint to modern jazzmen. This set, released through an estate established by his son, also contains three eloquent LP's but Bird was such a prolific artist that many more LP's will be needed to cover the work of his altogether too-brief life.

Mrs. Roosevelt Enters Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleanor Roosevelt, 77, has entered a hospital here for what was described as a checkup.

A hospital spokesman said Saturday she entered Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center on Wednesday and "until tests are completed we won't be giving out any more information."

A source close to the former First Lady described the hospitalization as a routine checkup.

Broadway Bids Farewell To 'My Fair Lady'

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway bids farewell Saturday night to its fairest lady.

The hit musical "My Fair Lady" leaves Broadway after its 2,717th performance.

The play, putting to music the delightful story of "Pygmalian" by the late George Bernard Shaw, first opened on Broadway March 15, 1956.

Since then it has become the longest musical run in Broadway history.

The show also grossed a record $65,535,511 boxoffice receipts and brought in millions more in the sale of recordings of the music that made it a hit.

The play was adapted from the Shaw piece by Alan Jay Lerner and Fritz Lowe and was produced by Herman Levin.

BEGINS ON MONDAY

Anniversary Set By Style Shop

The Style Shop, one of Monroe leading women's stores, will celebrate its 25th anniversary beginning Monday.

The store, located at 115 DeSiard St., was opened Oct. 1, 1937, at 141 DeSiard St., but moved to the present location in 1949. The original owners were Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Glazer and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Silverstein.

Earlier this year, following the death of Mr. Silverstein, Mr. and Mrs. Glazer bought full control of the store.

Plans for the anniversary observance include a month - long sale. The sale opens Monday morning, Glazer said. The event has been planned for several months.

Since the purchase of the Silverstein interests, Mrs. Glazer is handling the purchases of ready-to-wear for the store. In addition, the company maintains a purchasing office in both New York, California and Chicago.

Mrs. Glazer has had extensive experience in this field of work, having been a buyer in ready-to-wear prior to coming to Monroe.

Glazer, a native of New Orleans, has been in the clothing business all of his life. While working in Baton Rouge, Glazer met the late Mr. Silverstein and the two planned and later set up the Style Shop here in Monroe.

The Glazers live at 1315 Milton St. Their son is attending a prep school in Lake Forest, Ill.

GRANT HOME LOANS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government loaned its employes outside the federal district Mexico City $9.6 million last year to buy houses, officials said.

"Dear Eunice:

"I wish to use a material that is covered with sequins for the bodice of a dress. Since this is very expensive, could you please give me tips about sewing and handling it?"

Mrs. V. G. E.

Dear Mrs. V. G. E.:

This is an excellent question for this time of year and, because the fabric with sequins is new, most women are not too familiar with it.

First, and most important, don't PRESS it. Pressing makes sequins permanently dull. Second, use a very fine machine needle because you will be stitching over the sequins. Keep an extra supply of needles in case you break one.

Use silk thread for added strength, if possible, and use a smaller length machine stitch You may catch - stitch the seam allowances to the inside of your garment. If you line the skirt, make the lining separate so that it will cover the seams and give a smoother skirt.

A touch of "glitter" can really spice a winter costume and give it that "costume room look."

LINING RIGHT

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I am lining a dressy suit with brocade fabric but it looks too stiff inside the sleeves. Would it be all right to use a plain lining in the sleeves or would it look home made?"

Mrs. R. R. E.

Dear Mrs. R. R. E.:

I am glad you noticed the stiff appearance of this type of lining. You will notice that most of your expensive suits have a soft silk lining in them. Any type of lining that is used must be less firm than the garment fabric. If you are using a heavy satin or brocade for lining your garment, use a crepe or china silk for the sleeve lining.

FALSE CUFFS

You can give your boys' pants extra length and many months of additional wear by making false cuffs. Unfold the present cuffs and press the legs flat, keeping the original hem. Lift (up and out) about ¼ inch of material on the outside of the trousers at the hemline.

This will form a cuff appearance and should be pressed flat to the trouser legs. Tack the top edge firmly to the two leg seams to keep the upper edge in place.

This fine money - saving idea is the Tailor Trix pressing board winner of the week for Mrs. Fern E. Wilson, Cumberland, Md.

SAVE PIECES

"Dear Eunice:

"Some time ago it seems that you told us how to make a felt skirt so that it could be lengthened without a hem. I didn't save the copy and I'm wondering if you would repeat this?"

Mrs. M. W.

Dear Mrs. M. W.:

Because there are so many mothers sewing for teen - age girls, I will be glad to repeat this question.

When cutting your felt skirt, allow several extra inches in length. Mark the hem - line on your child, using an accurate skirt marker. Carefully cut the skirt on these marks keeping the cutting line even. It would be helpful to make several colored marks on the wrong side to be used for matching later when you add to the length.

When the skirt becomes too short, place the excess part of the hem you cut off right on the edge of the skirt. They could be lapped slightly, or the two raw edges could be butted together, using a bias strip of firm fabric to stitch the two edges. This seam line could be covered with colored braid, rick rack, metallic edgings or colored velvet ribbon. Try to coordinate the trim with the bodice and you will have a new, exciting and completely original skirt.

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time American technicians have made a recording in Moscow. That's the news, for whatver you want to make of it. To this reviewer the manufacturer's hoopla over it is a lot of noise about little. Why should the record listener care where a record was made — as long as the sound which comes off it is satisfactory?

The sound which comes off this one is of Prokofiev's 3rd piano concerto and Rachamaninoff's 1st. The pianist was the American, Byron Janis, and the orchestra was the Moscow Philharmonic with Kyril Kondrashin conducting (Mercury-50300). Despite the difficulties of taking American technicians and their equipment all the way to Moscow and working in a strange hall the quality of the recorded sound is excellent.

And so is Janis' piano playing, of course. He is particularly brilliant with the Prokofiev which is a somewhat brittle piece and requires the soloist to keep a firm hand on all the elements less they fly apart. Rachmaninoff's 1st has been resistant to the best endeavors of many pianists and it is not surprising that Janis found it immalleable.

To Sylvia Marlowe belongs the achievement of the best recording of Bach's "The Goldberg Variations" since the late Wanda Landowska made hers. Miss Marlowe proved, as Miss Landowska proved, these variations are the spirit and tones of the harpsichord, and much is lost when they are played on the piano (Decca-710056).

Of much more than routine interest are Mario Castlenuovo-Tedesco's settings of the poems of Juan Ramon Jimenez who won a Nobel prize in 1956. Five of the set called "Platero and I" are tenderly played by Andres Segovia, the greatest living master of the guitar, with all of his celebrated feeling for whimsical emotion. "Platero" was the poet's donkey, by the way. (Decca-710054.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every once in a while a record company will issue a major production in tribute to a star no longer with us.

Last year Verve offered a magnificent, five LP set, "The Bill Broonzy Story," which should have won a Grammy (record industry's Oscar) but for some reason didn't.

Late this summer two equally desirable sets were put on the market — 'Mildred Bailey, Her Greatest Performances" (Columbia C3122) and "Historical Masterpieces" by Charlie (Bird) Parker (Charlie Parker PLP-701).

The Mildred Bailey set contains three LP's that span her career from 1929 through 1946, from the days she sang with such great instrumentalists as Bunny Berigan through sessions with the Dorsey Brothers, Coleman Hawkins, Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and Teddy Wilson.

There is no doubt that Miss Bailey was one of the great song stylists of our century. Even the early records' poor fidelity fail to hide the emotion in her voice.

Parker now is a sort of a saint to modern jazzmen. This set, released through an estate established by his son, also contains three eloquent LP's but Bird was such a prolific artist that many more LP's will be needed to cover the work of his altogether too-brief life.

Broadway Bids Farewell To 'My Fair Lady'

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway bids farewell Saturday night to its fairest lady.

The hit musical "My Fair Lady" leaves Broadway after its 2,717th performance.

The play, putting to music the delightful story of "Pygmalian" by the late George Bernard Shaw, first opened on Broadway March 15, 1956.

Since then it has become the longest musical run in Broadway history.

Anniversary Set By Style Shop

The Style Shop, one of Monroe leading women's stores, will celebrate its 25th anniversary beginning Monday.

The store, located at 145 DeSiard St., was opened Oct. 1, 1937, at 141 DeSiard St., but moved to the present location in 1949. The original owners were Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Glazer and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Silverstein.

Earlier this year, following the death of Mr. Silverstein, Mr. and Mrs. Glazer bought full control of the store.

Plans for the anniversary observance include a month - long sale. The sale opens Monday morning, Glazer said. The event has been planned for several months.

Since the purchase of the Silverstein interests, Mrs. Glazer is handling the purchases of ready-to-wear for the store. In addition, the company maintains a purchasing office in both New York, California and Chicago.

Mrs. Glazer has had extensive experience in this field of work, having been a buyer in ready-to-wear prior to coming to Monroe.

Glazer, a native of New Orleans, has been in the clothing business all of his life. While working in Baton Rouge, Glazer met the late Mr. Silverstein and the two planned and later set up the Style Shop here in Monroe.

The Glazers live at 1315 Milton St. Their son is attending a prep school in Lake Forest, Ill.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"I wish to use a material that is covered with sequins for the bodice of a dress. Since this is very expensive, could you please give me tips about sewing and handling it?"

Mrs. V. G. E.

Dear Mrs. V. G. E.:

This is an excellent question for this time of year and, because the fabric with sequins is new, most women are not too familiar with it.

First, and most important, don't PRESS it. Pressing makes sequins permanently dull. Second, use a very fine machine needle because you will be stitching over the sequins. Keep an extra supply of needles in case you break one.

Use silk thread for added strength, if possible, and use a smaller length machine stitch. You may catch - stitch the seam allowances to the inside of your garment. If you line the skirt, make the lining separate so that it will cover the seams and give a smoother skirt.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I am lining a dressy suit with brocade fabric but it looks too stiff inside the sleeves. Would it be all right to use a plain lining in the sleeves or would it look home made?"

Mrs. R. R. E.

Dear Mrs. R. R. E.:

I am glad you noticed the stiff appearance of this type of lining. You will notice that most of your expensive suits have a soft silk lining in them. Any type of lining that is used must be less firm than the garment fabric. If you are using a heavy satin or brocade for lining your garment, use a crepe or china silk for the sleeve lining.

FALSE CUFFS

You can give your boys' pants extra length and many months of additional wear by making false cuffs. Unfold the present cuffs and press the legs flat, keeping the original hem. Lift (up and out) about ¼ inch of material on the outside of the trousers at the hemline.

This will form a cuff appearance and should be pressed flat to the trouser legs. Tack the top edge firmly to the two leg seams to keep the upper edge in place.

This fine money - saving idea is the Tailor Trix pressing board winner of the week for Mrs. Fern E. Wilson, Cumberland, Md.

SAVE PIECES

"Dear Eunice:

"Some time ago it seems that you told us how to make a felt skirt so that it could be lengthened without a hem. I didn't save the copy and I'm wondering if you would repeat this?"

Mrs. M. W.

Dear Mrs. M. W.:

Because there are so many mothers sewing for teen - age girls, I will be glad to repeat this question.

When cutting your felt skirt, allow several extra inches in length. Mark the hem - line on your child, using an accurate skirt marker. Carefully cut the skirt on these marks keeping the cutting line even. It would be helpful to make several colored marks on the wrong side to be used for matching later when you add to the length.

When the skirt becomes too short, place the excess part of the hem you cut off right on the edge of the skirt. They could be lapped slightly, or the two raw edges could be butted together, using a bias strip of firm fabric to stitch the two edges. This seam line could be covered with colored braid, rick rack, metallic edgings or colored velvet ribbon. Try to coordinate the trim with the bodice and you will have a new, exciting and completely original skirt.

DENNIS THE MENACE By Hank Ketcham

Divine Help Phrase Is Used Often

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

"Divine guidance" is a favorite phrase of preachers and politicians.

It has been so badly overworked in sermons and patriotic addresses that many long-suffering listeners have become allergic to it.

It's a pity that glib repetition has worn away all of the meaning that once was packed into this phrase. In the whole spectrum of Christian doctrine, there is no idea more exciting than the belief that almighty God will serve as a personal guide to any human creature who honestly seeks His counsel.

QUESTION

How does God guide men and women? The classic Christian answer is that he does so through the Holy Spirit. But the Holy Spirit is by definition God working in and through the lives of human beings. So the Catechism answer isn't much help to the average person who wants to know how he can be guided by God in making the hard, practical decisions of everyday existence.

The Bible and Christian experience attest to six ways — other than dramatic private revelation — in which God guides his human children. Practicing Christians quickly discover that no one of these ways is adequate by itself. They operate as mutual checks and balances.

They are:

1. Conscience. "Every soul," said the ancient Jewish philosopher Philo, "has for its housemate a monitor whose nature is ever to hate evil and love virtue, who is its accuser and its judge in one." Christian teachers since the time of St. Paul have stressed the importance of heading the innate sense of right and wrong that men call conscience. But they also have warned that conscience is not always an infallible guide. Consciences can become dulled and hardened; they can also become over-scrupulous. A man may hear the voice of God through his conscience, but he should not take for granted that the two are synonymous.

REASON

2. Reason. Jesus gave a prominent place to common sense in all of His teachings. And in His summary of man's highest duties, He included loving God "with all thy mind." Rational thought is one of the highest faculties God has bestowed on human beings, and is assuredly one of the chief channels through which he seeks to guide them.

3. Circumstances. Those who have earnestly sought God's guidance, in all ages, have been convinced that he sometimes provides it through events. Abraham Lincoln was especially sensitive to this kind of "providential" guidance. He saw in certain events of the Civil War, for example, a divine mandate to issue the Emancipation Proclamation. Interpreting events as "signs" from God can be hazardous for ordinary mortals who are apt to let their wishes color their judgment. Often it is not until some time later that a person is able to see that he was in fact guided by God through the circumstances of a particular situation.

CLEARER CHANNEL

4. People. When a person is too weary, upset, sick or confused to hear the voice of God in his own mind or conscience, he may be guided through another human being who is, for that time and that purpose, a clearer channel. The Bible is full of examples of God speaking to men through other men who were better prepared to listen to His message. The New Testament lays great stress on human fellowship—particularly the fellowship of the Christian community—as a channel through which the Holy Spirit acts.

5. The Bible. Although Christians may disagree about the precise way in which the Bible is to be understood as "the word of God," they are united in the conviction that God continues to speak to men through the pages of scripture. Flipping open the Bible at random in search of a personal message from God is a dubious procedure. But people who read the Bible regularly, as devotional habit, are quite certain that God addresses them through it, not in vague generalities, but in a very direct and immediate way.

Divine Help Phrase Is Used Often

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

"Divine guidance" is a favorite phrase of preachers and politicians.

It has been so badly overworked in sermons and patriotic addresses that many long-suffering listeners have become allergic to it.

It's a pity that glib repetition has worn away all of the meaning that once was packed into this phrase. In the whole spectrum of Christian doctrine, there is no idea more exciting than the belief that almighty God will serve as a personal guide to any human creature who honestly seeks His counsel.

QUESTION

How does God guide men and women? The classic Christian answer is that he does so through the Holy Spirit. But the Holy Spirit is by definition God working in and through the lives of human beings. So the Catechism answer isn't much help to the average person who wants to know how he can be guided by God in making the hard, practical decisions of everyday existence.

The Bible and Christian experience attest to six ways — other than dramatic private revelation —in which God guides his human children. Practicing Christians quickly discover that no one of these ways is adequate by itself. They operate as mutual checks and balances.

They are:

1. Conscience. "Every soul," said the ancient Jewish philosopher Philo, "has for its housemate a monitor whose nature is ever to hate evil and love virtue, who is its accuser and its judge in one." Christian teachers since the time of St. Paul have stressed the importance of heading the innate sense of right and wrong that men call conscience. But they also have warned that conscience is not always an infallible guide. Consciences can become dulled and hardened; they can also become over-scrupulous. A man may hear the voice of God through his conscience, but he should not take for granted that the two are synonymous.

REASON

2. Reason. Jesus gave a prominent place to common sense in all of His teachings. And in His summary of man's highest duties, He included loving God "with all thy mind." Rational thought is one of the highest faculties God has bestowed on human beings, and is assuredly one of the chief channels through which he seeks to guide them.

3. Circumstances. Those who have earnestly sought God's guidance, in all ages, have been convinced that he sometimes provides it through events. Abraham Lincoln was especially sensitive to this kind of "providential" guidance. He saw in certain events of the Civil War, for example, a divine mandate to issue the Emancipation Proclamation. Interpreting events as "signs" from God can be hazardous for ordinary mortals who are apt to let their wishes color their judgment. Often it is not until some time later that a person is able to see that he was in fact guided by God through the circumstances of a particular situation.

CLEARER CHANNEL

4. People. When a person is too weary, upset, sick or confused to hear the voice of God in his own mind or conscience, he may be guided through another human being who is, for that time and that purpose, a clearer channel. The Bible is full of examples of God speaking to men through other men who were better prepared to listen to His message. The New Testament lays great stress on human fellowship—particularly the fellowship of the Christian community—as a channel through which the Holy Spirit acts.

5. The Bible. Although Christians may disagree about the precise way in which the Bible is to be understood as "the word of God," they are united in the conviction that God continues to speak to men through the pages of scripture. Flipping open the Bible at random in search of a personal message from God is a dubious procedure. But people who read the Bible regularly, as devotional habit, are quite certain that God addresses them through it, not in vague generalities, but in a very direct and immediate way.

MILTON CANIFF

COL. CANYON, ARE YOU HUNGRY?

THIS HAS BEEN A ROUGH YEAR! NOW I'M HEARING VOICES WITHOUT PEOPLE!

NOT SO!

IT IS MERELY A TWO-WAY INTER-COMMUNICATION DEVICE...

WISH MY TWO HEADS WOULD COM-MUNICATE!

THIS IS CONSUELO MURCIA! IF YOU PROMISE TO BE A GOOD BOY, YOU MAY COME ON DECK...

QUIDO! OPEN THE HATCH!

IT'S NICE TO BE ALIVE — DID SOME-ONE SLIP UP?

NO SARCASTICS, COL. CANYON — I HAD YOU PUT OUT OF CIRCU-LATION SO MY FATHER'S TOUGH-NECKS WOULD NOT KILL YOU!

MAYBE THE CURE IS WORSE THAN THE ILL-NESS!

OF COURSE YOU ARE ANGRY! BUT WHEN MY FATHER'S SECOND MARRIAGE TO A NORTH-AMERICAN WOMAN WENT SO BADLY...

...HE RESOLVED NEVER TO ALLOW MY BROTHER AND ME TO EVEN LOOK AT A YANKEE

AUNT PILAR TOLD HIM THAT I HAD MET YOU - AND POOR ERNESTO BECAME EN-CHANTED BY THE MIZZOU WOMAN! PADRE WAS FIT TO BE UNTIED!

AFTER YOU NEARLY BROKE UP OUR HOUSE, THINKING HIS WIFE WAS YOUR MIZZOU FRIEND,

YOUR GOOSE WAS PLUCKED! SO I HAD MY PALACE GUARD SPIRIT YOU OFF TO MY LITTLE BARCO - WHERE I ESCAPE

PLEASE UNDERSTAND THAT MY FATHER IS A POWERFUL MAN IN MY COUNTRY! HE COULD HAVE YOU DISAPPEAR WITHOUT A TRACE!

INSTEAD, I HAVE DONE THIS - AND I THINK I SHALL ENJOY IT!

MEANWHILE = AT THE OFFICE OF THE LOCAL U.S. AIR MISSION...

¡AH! TENIENTE MURCIA ¡Buenos dias!

¡HELLO, mi amigo! HAS COL. CANYON REPORTED?

NO, LIEUTENANT! WE HAD A FLASH THAT HE WOULD CHECK IN TODAY, BUT SO FAR, NO DICE! DO YOU KNOW HIM?

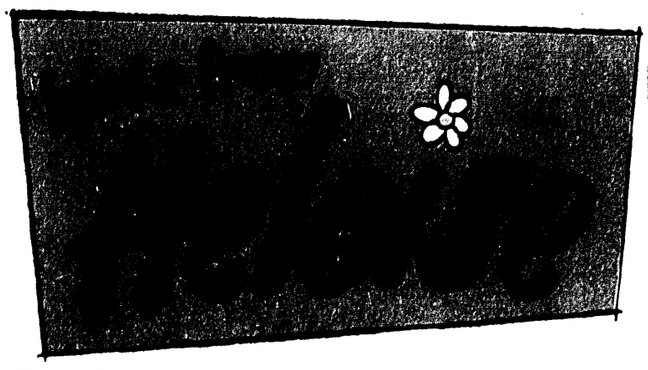
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS



DEAR HELOISE:

For years I have griped at my wife because she used all the yard tools and didn't wash and oil them before putting them away. When my wife leaves soil on the garden tools . . . they rust. This burns me up.

All husbands with the same complaint: My ulcer has healed by just getting a big wooden box, filling it with sand, and working some oil into it.

When my wife gets through with the trimmer, scissors, hoe, rake, etc. . . now she sticks them in this oil-sand box, and it not only cleans the soil off but keeps them oiled as well.

—Dusty Rhodes

KID GLOVES

DEAR HELOISE:

I wonder if women know that a little talcum powder sprinkled inside kid gloves makes them easier to put on. This is especially good when putting on long gloves for a formal occasion.

I find that it seems to help absorb the moisture that collects inside the glove. Kid gloves are hot, you know.

Kiddie!

PLASTIC CONTAINERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Plastic containers that detergents and bleaches come in are handy. I cut bottles off just below the grip hump and use them for holding bottle brushes. And cut the large bottles off and leave them about three inches deep to hold scouring pads and bar soap under my kitchen sink.

But the cutest trick of all is to make hat racks out of the gallon or half-gallon sizes. Cut the bottle off just below the handle. Turn it upside down and cover with tissue paper.

Just place your hat on the new rack, put it on your closet shelf and you're all set. No more bent or crushed veils.

—Mrs. Don Boyres

SHELVES

If you are short of shelf space in your kitchen or live in a small apartment and need more shelves to stack canned goods, etc. . . . stack bricks or glass blocks on each of the shelves and place boards across them.

By repeating this several times, you can have as many shelves as you desire. This is most useful because most shelves are too far apart anyway and this wastes space.

When you move, remove the canned goods (or whatever), then the boards and finally the blocks. Your walls won't have any nail holes and the landlord will be pleased.

—L. McDougall

DRESSER SCARVES

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who use dresser scarves and often get spots on their furniture from moisture collecting on the scarf and going through . . . just put a piece of cellophane under the scarf. Doesn't show one bit!

Old Timer

TIME TO GO HOME

DEAR HELOISE:

My little boy just cannot learn time. He is five years old. He has been late for dinner sometimes ten nights in a row.

We finally decided that we could tie an alarm clock on the bottom of his tricycle (under the seat) and set it for 5:30. No matter where he is, when the clock goes off, either he or some of his friends will hear it and he scoots home real quick. Works like a charm. Now I even use this method at noon! He loves it.

Johnnie's Mother

CAKE PANS

DEAR HELOISE:

When removing a cake from the oven, I place the cake pan on a damp cloth for a few minutes. I find this makes the cake come loose from the pan and helps prevent sticking.

Always cool on cake rack or grill of some sort. Allows the heat to escape.

Hattie Lace

STEP UP STORAGE

DEAR HELOISE:

I removed the top plank from the bottom step of our stairway. I then put hinges on the plank and replaced it. It makes an absolutely wonderful place to put overshoes, etc. Keeps the porch neat and the mess is out of the way. There just seems no place to store things like this.

After finding this idea so good, I went around to the back of the house and did the same thing on the back porch.

Handy Andy

TALCUM TALK

DEAR HELOISE:

To remove fresh grease or oil stains from clothing: place the garment over a flat surface such as an ironing board and sprinkle talcum powder over the spot. Work this in well with your fingers and let sit awhile; then brush out with a stiff brush. Do this BEFORE laundering.

One application will usually remove the spot. I have never found this to spot or leave a circle.

—Catharine Fulton

STAINLESS POTS

DEAR HELOISE:

I find vinegar is wonderful when my stainless steel pots get rings from boiling water . . . I fill them with water and add one-half cup of vinegar and let this boil a while. A few rubs with the dishcloth and they are like new again.

—Anna D. Varner

BANDAGE

DEAR HELOISE:

A good bandage for a child's skinned elbow is a clean white heel of a sock placed over clean gauze. This will keep the gauze in place.

Cut the toe of the sock off and fit the heel of it over the point of the elbow.

—Reader

HOT WATER BOTTLE

DEAR HELOISE:

The other night, I needed a hot water bottle. Not having one available, I filled a gallon plastic bleach jug with hot water.

I found it the best hot water bottle I have ever used! Just lie on your side (I always sleep this way anyway) and curl up around it.

It stayed hot for hours and hours. A towel may be wrapped around the outside.
